Kills Noted Nova Scotia Physician As Crowds Watch, Then Shoots Self

TRURO, N. S., July 24.—Dr. R. B. Bentley, a prominent practitioner of this town, was shot dead in the street, 100 yards from his home this afternoon.

Felix Cook, the physician's slayer, turned the revolver on himself after his attack on Dr. Bentley, died at three in the afternoon.

The tragedy took place in front of the M. C. A., and was witnessed by many persons.

Cook, who conducted a retail shoe store nearby, was seen to fire three shots at the doctor, one taking effect in the cheek and two in the chest.

Dr. Bentley was about 50 years of age, and had practiced a long time in Truro. No explanation has been offered for the affair. Cook is about 38 years of age, and is believed to be single.

Dr. Bentley was married, and had one son and two daughters.

audience with Premier Lloyd George at his side. His shafts at those who opposed his own line of conduct aroused the first breath of hilarity.

If Mr. Asquith maintained, he began, that the pledge given at the 1917 conference was a pledge to remove the stigma on Canadian herds, he agreed that it was an absolute pledge, but Lord Ernie, speaking in the House of Lords, had denied emphatically that he ever gave any pledge at the 1917 conference to admit Canadian store cattle to Great Britain.

Members of Council of League of Nations Affix Seal.

Earl of Balfour Outlines Britain's Future Policy in Palestine.

LONDON, July 24.—The mandates created under the peace treaties were given final seal of approval by the council of the League of Nations at its last sitting this afternoon.

M. Viviani of France referred to the council's action as a solemn and important accomplishment for the league and one of full significance and historic interest.

In an eloquent but restrained address, the Earl of Balfour outlined Great Britain's future policy in Palestine, which, he said, would be one of strict impartiality and justice, in which all traditional rights, sentiments and religious feelings of the different racial groups would be respected and held inviolate.

Disavowing both the brilliancy of the hopes expressed on the one side and the appalling hues wherein the fears of others were painted, Mr. Churchill said his own view was that there was not nearly so much to be got out of the removal of the embargo, either in Great Britain or in Canada, as had been expected, or nearly so much injury to British agriculture as was apprehended.

There was the natural protection operative through the distance across the sea and the railroads in Canada, which were bound to play an effective part both in regards to the quantity and quality of importations from Canada.

As to the effect on prices in Great Britain, he certainly was not going to suggest that a vote should be given for cheap meat and dear honor. As to the argument that the lifting of the embargo would lead to a great reduction of the amount of stock raised in Great Britain, Mr. Churchill pointed out that in the ten years preceding this legislation there had been an extraordinarily rapid increase in the British herds.

After describing the disease theory as a mere pretense, Mr. Churchill pointed out that the matter was also an imperial question, and he was bound to put the Canadian point of view. Canada had never challenged British rights in the matter; on the contrary, she had always recognized them, but objected to the slur and stigma resting on Canadian herds.

The amendment was rejected by 247 to 171, and William Shaw's motion "that this house is of the opinion that the time has arrived when the embargo on the importation of Canadian cattle should be removed" was agreed to.

SMITH'S FALLS, Ont., July 24.—James S. Wallace of Toronto went up the lake on Friday last to Fancy Free, where he has been accustomed for the past 25 years to spend his vacation.

On Saturday morning he climbed a popular spot of some 100 feet and must have caught hold of a dead limb, which broke. He fell to the ground on his back, breaking the fifth vertebrae of his neck.

No one was with him when the accident happened, but Mrs. J. A. Washburn and Miss M. Washburn, who were on the island hearing groans, went to his aid. The former, who is a trained nurse, gave him all possible assistance until Dr. Harold Whitecomb, who was on his father's island near by, and Dr. Creagan of Portland arrived.

After consultation it was decided to bring him to the hospital at Smith's Falls. Dr. Ferguson attended him and an X-ray examination made. Dr. Pearson, nerve specialist, of Ottawa, was called yesterday, and after consultation Drs. Ferguson, Anderson and Hogan operated on him last night, but he died today.

Mr. Wallace was a valued employee of the Surprise Soap Company in Toronto, being superintendent of agencies.

He was about 53 years of age, and an ardent horticulturist and fisherman.

GOES TO SEE PHYSICIAN, FINDS HIS OWN BROTHER

TORONTO, July 24.—To find his brother, whom he had not seen for more than 40 years, in the person of a doctor to whom he was directed was the experience of Stanley Huntington of Kingston, Jamaica, now visiting Toronto.

Mr. Huntington, who originally hailed from Liverpool, England, came to Canada for his health. On arriving in Montreal he asked to be directed to a good doctor.

A friend recommended a doctor by the name of Huntington, and when Mr. Huntington went to the physician for a consultation he recognized his brother, whom he had lost track of since youth.

FLAMES WIPE OUT WESTERN VILLAGE

SASKATOON, Sask., July 24.—Nearly $100,000 damage was done, and the Village of Fielding, Sask., was almost completely wiped out when fire started Saturday night in a vacant building, near a livery barn, which was full of shavings and hay.

The high wind carried the hay quickly to the hotel, two general stores, the postoffice, transportation exchange, butcher shop and implement building, all of which are a total loss.

Many citizens of Fielding are without homes, and have been forced to take refuge with farmers in the surrounding districts.
