

make their ways easy by tact and watchfulness—not by admonition.

It is a boon to old people to feel that they are factors in their homes, not alone because of a welcome presence, but for their usefulness. Their independence is dear to them. Thoughtfulness in others is their right and their delight, but they very humanly resent being trotted after and repressed like children. Infirmity, not measure of years, should limit the activity and freedom of the aged.

Death by Neglect.

Dr. D. M. Bye, the eminent specialist, of Indianapolis, says thousands of persons die from cancer every year from no cause save neglect. If taken in time not one case in a thousand need be fatal. The fear of the knife, or the dread of the burning, torturing plaster causes a few to neglect themselves till they pass the fatal point where a cure is impossible, but by far the greater portion die because their friends or relatives, on whom they are dependent, are in haste to their sufferings and impending danger till it is too late.
