

your transgressions. Should not be grateful, will you not praise him?

Behold the towering mountain, and the tiny daisy, they praise the great Creator. Will not you? Hark, the happy song of the grateful bird, as it picks the crumbs from your window. See the pretty lambs as they sport upon the meadows, and the rippling stream as it flows over its pebbly bed. They praise him. Will not you?

Come, beloved children, let not these in the day of judgment rise up to condemn you. Behold the Lamb of God that was slain for your sins! Believe his love, accept his salvation, then will your soul magnify the Lord, and your spirit rejoice in God your Saviour.

Thus having learnt the "new song" on earth, you will delight to sing around the throne in heaven.

BOOK NOTICES.

THE EVANGELICAL REPOSITORY,

The fourth number of the third series of this excellent quarterly has just come to hand. We have perused its contents with rare pleasure. The practical exposition of the first chapter of the Epistle to the Hebrews, is a model specimen of biblical exposition. It is rich in thought—most rich. It magnifies Christ. We see that another defender of Calvinism and assailant of Evangelical Union theology has descended into the arena. The Editor of the Repository, when he puts him into his scales, finds him sadly wanting,—incompetent to throw light on the subjects, of which undertakes to treat.

With the next number a new volume commences. This is therefore a good time for persons who desire the Repository to send in their names.

INTELLIGENCE.

We extract from the Christian Times the following account of the doings of the Evangelical Union Home Mission, in Scotland.

KILSYTH.—A station in connection with the E. U., Home Mission, was opened here last autumn, and has since been supplied by auxiliary preachers. The few brethren who commenced the station have been very much cheered by the success of the movement. The increased interest manifested by the public led them to make arrangements for a series of revival meetings. These meetings have been very successful. They
