

tional garb typical chiefly of perfunctory obedience to statute. Latterly, however, has come a demand for more suitable dress and appearance. A case in point of a report playing up to its subject and intrinsic interest in this way is Mr. R. E. Young's on "The New Northwest." It is not alone of its kind, but it is recent and among the most successful. The whole movement in this direction is so commendable and so worthy of encouragement by the Government that we do not hesitate to give Mr. Young's cover the glory of reproduction on The Civilian's front page.
