

should have to producers and consumers. However I hope I will have the opportunity to rise again in this House to put forward these points of view.

Mr. Baker (Grenville-Carleton): I notice, Madam Speaker, it is five o'clock. I wonder if we might call it five o'clock and move the adjournment of the House until Monday.

The Address—Mr. Milne

[Translation]

The Acting Speaker (Mrs. Morin): Order, please. It being five o'clock, pursuant to an order made by the House earlier today, this House stands adjourned until two o'clock Monday afternoon.

At five o'clock the House adjourned, without question put.
