

FOR SALE
CHOICE BUILDING LOT—80 x 100—
on King street East, opposite
King Edward Hotel.
H. H. Williams & Co., 26 Victoria St.

TWENTY-SIXTH YEAR

NOT TRYING
"FEAT" THE GAME
EVERY ENFORCEMENT OF LAWS

Gov. Folk of Missouri Takes
Hand in Philadelphia's
Campaign for Civic Purity
—Never Greater Need for
Patriots in Public Life
Now Sentiment Has Been Awakened.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 16.—The great battle between the local Republican organization and the city party, the municipal reform organization recently formed here, was entered to-day by the visit of Governor Folk of Missouri. He to-night addressed a large and enthusiastic audience in the Academy of Music. He spoke under the auspices of the City Club, which claims no connection with the city party. The crowd was so great that the doors of the Academy were closed before the meeting began. Several thousand persons who could not get in were addressed by city party speakers. Governor Folk also spoke.

Governor Folk said, in part: The most conspicuous fact of municipal government in the United States to-day is that they are governments by the few and not by the people. There is more aggressive rottenness and less aggressive patriotism in our large cities than anywhere else. If the patriotism can be made as aggressive as the rottenness, the problem of good government would be solved by the people taking the government into their own hands.

Many men would be willing, if need be, to give up their lives for their city state. This kind of patriotism cannot be too highly commended, but the man who is willing to live for his city and state every day is the man that is needed just now. There never was a time when the need for patriotic men in public affairs was greater than now. We need more men actuated alone by the public good and fewer of those who are in politics merely for revenue.

Recovering Their Own.
The moral revolution that is now sweeping over the land is merely a revival of the rule of the people. In all the states were considered as practically dead tyrants, not because the office was uncommon, but because it was common for officials to be prosecuted for it. In Louisiana, members of the house of delegates claimed that this bribery was going on so long they were entitled to notice to quit, before being prosecuted. Some of them argued that members of the house of delegates have been receiving bribes from time immemorial and acquired a right to do so, and it was just as proper for them to sell their votes as for the merchant to sell his wares. It was a crime worse than that of a bribe, for the merchant violated the law, while bribery strikes at the foundation of all laws.

Yet the law denouncing it was not enforced; bribery became the usual and expected thing all over the land. The corrupt men feasted and fattened at public expense, laws became merchandise on the market, and all this time the public conscience was asleep. When the revelation came the people saw they had been plundered, they saw the terms of the bargain, they saw the effect on the public as a whole. They saw that a civic awakening was necessary, even law protected privileges, are grafts, and should be hateful to every citizen. Unless the spirit of civic righteousness now abroad in the land dies out, and there is no likelihood of its dying out, the spirit of age of commercialism into the age of high ideals. A political party has no right to stand for graft, because it is that party, but because it stands for the right.

"If a political party cannot get votes on the ground for graft, it has no right to fight to get votes on the ground of partisanship. Political parties are necessary for it is through them that come to agreement of public questions and announce their principles and intentions, but political parties should be the servants of the people, not their masters. I have spoken of corruption, bribery and grafting, using the terms synonymously. They have an effect on the public may be as injurious from grafting as from hoodlums. There is a distinction between them.

Graft Against Law.
The hoodler sells his vote and prostitute his trust for bribe money contrary to law, but the graftier is not always a hoodler. When those on the inside of any great financial concern divert the trust funds for their profit, that is a graft against the law; when a class of men have special privileges whereby they can prey upon the rest of the people, that is a graft, that may be against the law, and may even be protected by the law. The remedy for corruption, bribery or grafting of every kind is to enforce the law. If the system is working an illegal way, instead of trying to beat the game, the better way is to stop the game.

Hoskins & Westervelt, Chartered Accountants, 27 East Wellington St. Toronto. David Hoskins, F. C. A., J. W. Westervelt, C.

Possible Trouble.
It is just possible that any day may see you laid low with a serious accident, which will put you off the salary for some time. The remedy is to insure. The only protection is an accident and sickness policy—none so good as the London Guarantee and Accident Policy, Canada Life Building. Write for particulars and prices.

STEAMSHIP ARRIVALS.
Oct. 16 At From
Zeland... New York... Anserp
Copenhagen... New York... Christiania
G. Wilhelm... New York... Bremen
W. Wilhelm... New York... New York
G. K. Kurland... New York... New York
Blower... Hamburg... New York

Battery Zinc, all kinds, The Canada Metal Co.

PEACE AND GLORY SECURED
POSTERITY TO REAP FRUITS

Imperial Rescript Credits Results of War to Ancestral Spirits and Popular Patriotism.

Tokio, Oct. 16.—Baron Komura, the foreign minister who acted as chief peace plenipotentiary for Japan at Portsmouth, N.H., arrived here to-day from Vancouver. His reception at the railroad station was not enthusiastic, those present being principally government dignitaries. The streets were strongly guarded by troops, police and gendarmes. The baron drove to the palace in an imperial carriage. The emperor showed exceptional honor to Komura by dispatching to Yokohama, where he landed from the Empress of India, Col. Inouye, his majesty's aide-de-camp, who went alongside the steamer in a despatch boat and brought Komura ashore, his landed at the imperial enclosure. While the baron was on his way to Tokyo by train, Col. Inouye constantly kept at his side, and on arrival here they proceeded to the palace in an imperial carriage sent from the household stables. The emperor received Baron Komura immediately, and during the audience, which lasted over an hour, it is believed the baron made a full verbal report of the course of the peace negotiations.

At the close of the audience the emperor honored the baron with a written personal message, highly prized by Japanese statesmen. The message expressed satisfaction at the fact that peace was concluded and commended Komura's able services, as shown during the negotiations.

The Imperial Rescript.
The peace treaty with Russia went into effect to-day. The official translation of the imperial rescript announcing the conclusion of peace was as follows:
"We have always deemed it a fundamental principle of our international policy to maintain peace in the east, and thus we have been anxious to bring about the conclusion of this high object has therefore been our constant aim, but last year we were forced into hostilities by the necessity of self-defense."

"Since the war began our army and navy have made adequate provision for home defence and we have been able to win the empire itself, and have withstood hardships of all kinds during the campaign abroad. Thus we have achieved a glorious success. Our civil officials, in accord with our Diet, have

Continued on Page 2.

FRANCE AND THE BALKANS
CHANCE TO MAKE PEACE

Paris, Oct. 16.—Significance is attached to the notable reception accorded to Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria, who has arrived here for a week's visit. The prince was received with military honors similar to those accorded to members of royal families, and was escorted to the same quarters that were occupied by Emperor King Alfonso occupied at the foreign office, and President Loubet and Prince Ferdinand exchanged the visits of the chiefs of state.

These distinguished honors indicate the interest France takes in a pacific settlement of the Balkan question, in which Bulgaria plays an important role.

The semi-official Temps, this evening urges that France, not having territorial ambitions, occupies the best position to exert preponderant influence in the adjustment of the Balkan problem, thus gaining the commercial and political friendship of the Balkan states.

STOLEN SEAL COAT FROM MODEL.
Bold Thief Gets Away With Valuable Fur From Store.

With the opening of the fall weather the sneak thieves have again begun their work. Several private houses have suffered in the past few days, and there has been considerable petty thieving from stores within the past week. The most daring theft occurred in Lawrence Duckworth's store at 370 West Queen street, where a valuable fur seal coat was hanging on a model about half way down the store at the time.

Manitoba Is Willing.
To Join Two New Provinces in Hudson Bay Route.

Winnipeg, Oct. 16.—At a rally of Conservative organizations to-night Premier Roblin spoke on the Hudson Bay route and said his government would be willing to build the line jointly with Saskatchewan and Alberta.

FLOUR PRICES CUT.
Winnipeg, Oct. 16.—Prices of flour to-day were cut 15 cents per sack on first grade.

ARE CANADIAN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES
RUN AT TOO GREAT EXPENSE?

A Severe Arraignment of the Canada Life That the Government and Policyholders Must Heed.

The difference between American and Canadian insurance companies and the British insurance companies is that the latter is cheaper, the security better and as between the British and Canadian, at least that so far as such colossal mismanagement and misapplication of trust funds has been laid up to British companies as has been uncovered in New York. The British companies take 10 to 15 per cent. of their premium income for expenses, commissions, management of the fund and other charges, including the squanderings just unearthed. Some of our Canadian companies are run at this extravagant percentage for management—and in the case of the Canada Life, our strongest company, a London financial paper, who reports below, says a percentage that is not necessary. It charges, in effect, that the company is run for the benefit of shareholders rather than for policyholders. Now that is the point that the public wishes to have investigated and our system, our laws, can give. Parliament must take the matter up and the companies had better get ready for such an overhauling. This is all the more necessary because of the peculiar activity of the shareholders, who were so busy in the anxiety of the public and to whitewash Canadian insurance management to date.

There is a certain hostility in The Investors' Review to this company because it is Canadian, but allowing for that the statements made are worthy of public attention and the attention of the shareholders. We imagine it will be found that several of our Canadian companies were started to make positions for certain individuals and that too much of the premiums has gone to maintain these men or their connections. Life insurance should be primarily for the benefit of the policyholders.

From The Investors' Review (founded 1892), London, England, Sept. 30.
According to the summary tables in The Statistical Year-Book of Canada for 1904, a copy of which has just reached us, this joint-stock company, called a life insurance business, it calls the largest of all the native Canadian life companies. As it has in recent years come to this country and made some effort to compete with our own life offices, it seems advisable to look a little into its credentials. We powerfully honor the baron with a written personal message, highly prized by Japanese statesmen. The message expressed satisfaction at the fact that peace was concluded and commended Komura's able services, as shown during the negotiations.

The Canada Life Assurance Co.
From The Investors' Review (founded 1892), London, England, Sept. 30.
According to the summary tables in The Statistical Year-Book of Canada for 1904, a copy of which has just reached us, this joint-stock company, called a life insurance business, it calls the largest of all the native Canadian life companies. As it has in recent years come to this country and made some effort to compete with our own life offices, it seems advisable to look a little into its credentials. We powerfully honor the baron with a written personal message, highly prized by Japanese statesmen. The message expressed satisfaction at the fact that peace was concluded and commended Komura's able services, as shown during the negotiations.

The Canada Life Assurance Co.
From The Investors' Review (founded 1892), London, England, Sept. 30.
According to the summary tables in The Statistical Year-Book of Canada for 1904, a copy of which has just reached us, this joint-stock company, called a life insurance business, it calls the largest of all the native Canadian life companies. As it has in recent years come to this country and made some effort to compete with our own life offices, it seems advisable to look a little into its credentials. We powerfully honor the baron with a written personal message, highly prized by Japanese statesmen. The message expressed satisfaction at the fact that peace was concluded and commended Komura's able services, as shown during the negotiations.

The Canada Life Assurance Co.
From The Investors' Review (founded 1892), London, England, Sept. 30.
According to the summary tables in The Statistical Year-Book of Canada for 1904, a copy of which has just reached us, this joint-stock company, called a life insurance business, it calls the largest of all the native Canadian life companies. As it has in recent years come to this country and made some effort to compete with our own life offices, it seems advisable to look a little into its credentials. We powerfully honor the baron with a written personal message, highly prized by Japanese statesmen. The message expressed satisfaction at the fact that peace was concluded and commended Komura's able services, as shown during the negotiations.

The Canada Life Assurance Co.
From The Investors' Review (founded 1892), London, England, Sept. 30.
According to the summary tables in The Statistical Year-Book of Canada for 1904, a copy of which has just reached us, this joint-stock company, called a life insurance business, it calls the largest of all the native Canadian life companies. As it has in recent years come to this country and made some effort to compete with our own life offices, it seems advisable to look a little into its credentials. We powerfully honor the baron with a written personal message, highly prized by Japanese statesmen. The message expressed satisfaction at the fact that peace was concluded and commended Komura's able services, as shown during the negotiations.

The Canada Life Assurance Co.
From The Investors' Review (founded 1892), London, England, Sept. 30.
According to the summary tables in The Statistical Year-Book of Canada for 1904, a copy of which has just reached us, this joint-stock company, called a life insurance business, it calls the largest of all the native Canadian life companies. As it has in recent years come to this country and made some effort to compete with our own life offices, it seems advisable to look a little into its credentials. We powerfully honor the baron with a written personal message, highly prized by Japanese statesmen. The message expressed satisfaction at the fact that peace was concluded and commended Komura's able services, as shown during the negotiations.

LAUBIER PREFERS SENATORS COX
AND MACKAY TO MULLOCK.

(Ottawa Assn. in La Nationaliste, Montreal)
Who has [Sir William Mullock] left the ministry?
In a communication to the press he alleges the reason of his leaving is not curious. It is not that he should have declined to fill it at once, without any one having seen it coming? It was known that he suffered from a slight affection of the eye, but one cannot believe that was the cause of his retreat into private life just at the moment when parliament had a project before it of a nature to gain him the greatest sympathy from one end of the country to the other. Perhaps it is proper to seek elsewhere for the secret of his resignation.

M. Laurier, so indifferent himself to worldly goods, has always had an admiration and a strange respect for politicians. He has loaded Messrs. Blair and Sifton with favors, whom all the world knew as brigands long before they left the ministry. He has sometimes punished the lack of discretion of his lieutenants. He has never permitted malversation of office (the protectionist campaign of M. Tarte) or the Drummmond affair and the purchase of the certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mulock a affectionate and interested attachment. But he also loved much Senator Cox, who had the chief interest in the fisheries that had to run the gamut of the socialist's profane of the late Postmaster-General. But he could not relinquish his certain English steamships whom he resembles in appearance and manner. He had for his colleague Mul