How Adolph Monell-Sayre Rose From Obscurity and Became a Millionaire.

HIS WONDERFUL FINDS OF GOLD

Into His Hands Are Said to

Washington, Dec. 28.-The escapades young Adoiph Monell-Sayre, erstwhile The Boy Wizard of Wall-street," have The born in Kentucky, and a member of bankers in Lexington, Sayre was reared in Washington by his widowed mother, who was a clerk in the Pension Office, until his swift and sudden flight in alleged affluence. Thru the influence of "Joe" Blackburn, ere, Sayre was made a page in the House of Representatives. Out of his salary he was 18 years old. closed Cayre and his mother went west. Some of the women who had given money of him for investment became uneasy, and after months of anxious searching located Mrs. Sayre and her son at Denver, where, the mother wrote to several friends, she had taken him for his health. After they left Denver all trace of them was lost, until the mother and son re-appeared in Washington last June. Mrs. Sayre went to a friend's house, and the son lived at a hotel under an assumed name, probably to keep his women creditors or customers from harassing him. Sayre called upout the widowed sister of a well-known western Senator and tried to persuade her to invest in the securities of a gold mining company he said he had formed for the development of rich gold veins in the Aleutian Islands, that stretch from the wistern coast of Alaska over toward China. "In six months," declared "the boy wizard's" to the Senator's sister, "the world will be startled by the amount of gold I shall be taking out of my mine in the Aleutian Islands." Mrs. Sayre also visited the Senator's sister and assured her of the correctness of "the boy wizard's" story of marvelous gold deposits, and said further that she had witnessed the departure from San Francisco of a shap, when her son had purchased and fitted up for service between San Francisco and the Aleutian gold fields. The Senator's sister refused, on the advice of her brother, to invest, and a few weeks afterward learned from Miss Porter that on her information a criminal warrant for Sayre's arrest had been issued in New York. The warrant has been out since July, and why the New York officers have not arrested Sayre long ago is a mystery to various women in Washington who say they have been duped by him.

When he was last here Sayre exhibited to the isser of the Senator upon whom he called a handful of diamonds as an evidence of his continued prosperity. Sportively Inclined Torontonians Bet Their Money on Bicycle Boys. Their Money on Bicycle Boys.

Contrary to all precedents, the boys from the Toronto Messenger Co. have established a reputation for speed that extends to all parts of the city.

So much has this quickness in responding to a call been commented on that it is now quite common for a sportively-inclined Torontonian to call up a boy, and then make a wager with a friend that the boy will be there in a specific number of minutes. Up to date, no boy has been found sufficiently lacking in speed to lose a single wager. a single wager.

ASK FOR A COMMISSION. Canadian Manufacturers Wish to Have the Subject of Technical

Schools Inquired Into. The special committee appointed by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to consider and report on the question of technical education met yesterday after

The association unanimously adopted

The association unanimously adopted a resolution asking the Ontario Government to appoint a commission to thoroly investigate the subject of technical education, in its relation to the needs of the Province of Ontario, and report on the lines upon which it should be organized for the province.

The resolution states: It is not necessary here to go into detail and point out the views of the manufacturers upon this subject of technical education. Should your Government see fit to appoint the commission for which we ask, our manufacturers, thru their association, will give the subject their closest attention, and will lay before the commission the fullest information as to their views and the lines upon which they think progress should be made. In the meantime we desire only to point out some broad general principles which we regard as essential to a system of technical education in our province.

First—That the increasing importance of the industries of Canada and the keenness of industrial competition the world overdemand that now in our country technical education should be regarded as an intregal part of our general educational system, and that it should follow naturally as a education should be regarded as an intregal part of our general educational "system, and that it should follow naturally as a complement to our Public school system. Second—That technical schools should p.o. vide for day instruction as well as for night classes, and that for entrance to the day schools a certain standard should be re-ouired.

night classes, and that for entrance to the day schools a certain standard should be required.

Third—That the training given in the technical school should be as practical in nature as circumstances will permit.
Fourth—That the manufacturers of this province are prepared to recognize and assist any adequate system of technical education worked out on these lines. That they will in every case prefer to draw their employes from the pupils of these schools so that successful pupils could look forward to employment in good positions in our manufacturing establishments as prizes to be won thru the diligent application to their work, and that further, the manufacturers will give every encouragement to the best pupils in such schools to visit their factories and so place them in a position to decide as to the lines to which they think they would desire to devote themselves. This would give an enthusiasm and interest to boys to prepare themselves for such positions by following a course in a technical school, and nothing could add more to their success.

After the meeting Messrs. P. W. Ellis, Dr. J. Orr, S. M. Wickett, R. T. Ellis and Secretary Russell waited upon the Minister of Education, at the Parliament Buildings, and presented their resolution. Hon.

Mr. Harcourt briefly addressed the gathering. He was aware of the importance of the subject, and told that the need for technical education was being felt. He promised to look into the question, and would submit the resolution to his conferers.

Handed Over to the Police. Arthur Chinn, a young man who lives Arthur Chinn, a young man who lives at 279 Victoria-street, was taken into custody last night on a charge of theft from the R. Simpson Company. Chinn was employed by the firm, and is alleged to have taken two parcels from the delivery department to the addresses marked on them and collected the amount of the purchases. Chinn was brought to the Court-street station by an employe of the firm and handed over to P. C. Price.
