But everywhere in Bavaria, or in Germany, for that matter, Miss Doty reports that "the Prussian organization" is hated, especially by the women, and predicts a hot time for the warlords after the war is over.

LABRADOR ADVENTURES. IN THE DECEMBER NUMBER of the Toronto University Monthly, Professor Coleman, the geologist, tells of his second visitor to Labrador last summer. There is still a lure in the Labrador wild. Some day, when wars are over and universal peace has been established, men will find plenty of ture and daring in the exploration and possibly even the development of such frowning deserts. The Sahara of Africa has already been largely conquered by French and British traders and explorers. Labrador and Northern Canada should not be so difficult on the
