Builders and contractors are another class of businessmen for whom the new budget tax promises to make a great deal of trouble and clerical labor. Secretary George Gould of the London Builders' Exchange, has received a circular letter from the Association of Canadian Building and Construction Industries, Ottawa, giving detailed information authorized by G. W. Taylor, assistant deputy minister of inland revenue, as to the application of the new tax resolutions to the building trades.

Extracts are as follows:

"The tax is primarily one upon materials and is not intended to be a tax upon labor. Labor used in the manufacture of materials.

Although coal and oil are decidedly difficult to obtain, there is no immediate danger of the City Gas Company being affected by the fuel shortage.

Mamager James Cahill said today. Several cars of coal have been obtained this week, and more are on the way, so that temporarily at least the company is well supplied.

Mr. Cahill stated, however, that the situation was none too promising. "We are working on a 'hand-to-mouth' basis." he said. "We have no chance to lay in any reserve supplies at all."

He stated that the shortage of oil was lmost as serious as the scarcity of coal.
