The annexed paragraphs from the Singapore Free Press, will show what are the principal omissions:—

"By the 13th article it is provided, that Chineso merchants purchasing goods at Hong-Kong, must ship them on board Chinese vessels. This does not appear in the official translation, and yet it is a most important clause, as it in effect, combined with another in the 17th article, will completely shut out foreigners from carrying on a coasting trade, which otherwise could not have failed to be both extensive and profitable. As we read the non-official translation of this article, all Chinese merclants, except those residing at one of the five ports, are prohibited from trading with Hong Kong, although this does not appear on a perusal of the official translation.

"The 17th article, which makes provisions regarding vessels under 150 tons, and by which they will be admitted to Canton on payment of a very small duty, contains one very important passage, not given in the official translation, by which all vessels under 150 tons, visiting any other of the ports except Canton, will have to pay the same rate of duty as large vessels, and which, on a small vessel of even 50 tons burden, visiting the four ports and calling for return freight, would amount to £100 sterling! By this fatal oversight on the part of the British plenipotentiary, in allowing suc a clause to stand, the value of Hong-Kong, as convenient place from whence trade might be carried on with the different ports, is destroyed; and in fact, the whole operations of merchants in Chine will be narrowed and cramped by this most unfortunate clause."

the buyers who have visited the week have been numerous. The in most of the American houses are, and less business in this departage the until the fall trade. The ses are more actively engaged, and ore business is doing than is usual fit eyeur.
