LARGER U-BOATS TO OPERATE OUTSIDE OF BRITISH WATERS

London, Nov. 19-The lowest record of submarine destruction of any week since German ruthlessness began brings forth an explanation likely to be of the utmost concern to America. It is stated that the British measures of fighting the submarines in narrow shallow waters around the British Isles have been so perfected that Germany is preparing to adopt entirely new tactics. Anticipating the present situation the Huns some time ago began constructing an unknown number of gigantic submarines, about 3,000 tons, capable of 25 knots on the surface. They carry several four or sixinch guns, and can cruise 1,000 miles, remaining at sea two or three months. It is intended to send these on long distance cruises, avoiding the British waters and necessitating entirely different methods of fighting them.
