

Museum Corner

Submitted by Sgt. R. C. STONE

This column is continuing to concentrate on various force badges although we do wish to cover other artifacts held by our museum. The reason is that one of the greatest problems the museum faces, in the area of badges, is proper identification.

A few weeks ago the museum received the R.C.M.P. Cap badge illustrated here. We have practically no information concerning it. There is, however, a suggestion that it was issued for a short time after the change in 1920 from R.N.W.M.P. to R.C.M.P.

The second badge shown here is a cloth shoulder flash. We believe this could have been issued to the old "Marine" Division or Provost Company at one time.

If anyone has a badge similar to either of these or any information concerning them, would you please write the Museum Corner, c/o The Quarterly. We need your help.
