JOHN MCCONNELL, M.D.,
JAS. CONSTABLE,
Rec. Sec. Chief Ranger.

The address delivered by the Hon.
J. M. Ashley before the Ohio Society of New York, in which he advocated the nomination and election of the President and Senators and Representatives in Congress by direct popular vote, and the creation of an independent body of officials in each State, to be elected by the people and to take charge of all national elections, has been published by the request of the Society in a pamphlet of eighty-eight pages, under the title "The Impending Political Epoch,"

M. Edward Lockroy's "Life and Letters of Marshal von Moltke," recently published in Paris, has caused some bad feeling on the other side of the Rhine. Germans object to reading opinions reflecting upon the genius of their great military leader. M. Lock-roy looks upon Moltke as an ordinarily clever general, who was fortunate in having incompetent adversaries.

Mr. Thomas Wright, who is preparing Cowper's letters for publication, says that he has in his possession about 400 of the poet's letters that are either not in Southey's collection, or of which Southey gives only scraps. He intends to publish them in chronological order.

Professor A. L. Frothingham, jr., of Princeton College, is preparing for publication the Syriac text of a mystical work, "The Book of Hierotheos," which will cast light on the views of both Gnostics and Neo-Platonists.
