WHILE MARINE RATES STEADIER UNDERWRITERS STILL CAUTIOUS

Each Risk Covered on its Individual Merits, Depending on Destination, Length of Voyage and Route.

New York, September 1.—Although marine insurance rates are steadier, no stable prices are quoted and each application for coverage is treated on its individual merits, depending upon destination, length of voyage, and route to be taken, as well as the character of the hull and the war risk hazard.

Lloyds, London, has quoted a rate of two guineas per £100 of insurance covering between British and American ports, and 2 1/2 guineas per cent. on cargoes in British ships or for contraband consigned to neutral countries.

Regarding captures of vessels by war vessels, reports from Lloyds say that accurate figures are not easy to obtain owing to lack of advices from Germany and the widely scattered seizures.

Craigforth, British steamer, Seruck mine and beached near Constantinople, Aug. 7.

San Wilfredo, British oil tank steamer. Hit mine and destroyed in River Elbe off Cuxhaven, Aug. 2.

Tysla, Norwegian steamer. Port Petrie for Antwerp. Hit mine in English Channel.

Marine underwriters in New York are very cautious about accepting war risks although they are accepting ordinary insurance with comparative freedom.

The agents will also discuss the manner in which they can help to inform the policyholders regarding the work which the companies and agents are doing to conserve national resources by the prevention of loss and they will also be asked to consider the advisability of transferring by constitutional amendment the supervision of insurance to the federal government.

CASUALTY MEN TO HAVE BUREAU OF INFORMATION

This Organization For Purpose of Informing Men Regarding Conditions of Vital Importance—Fight State Insurance.

New York, September 1.—The coming annual meeting of the National Association of Casualty & Surety Agents will have up for consideration the establishment of a permanent bureau under a salaried manager for the purpose of informing the members regarding matters which are considered of vital importance.

There are now impending fights in Wisconsin against state insurance of all kinds. In North Dakota, where attempts to put the state in surety business have been made and against the trend toward the state insurance of workmen's compensation risks all over the country.

It is believed that the proposed bureau can accumulate information of all kinds regarding companies and associations and can make the office a clearing house of a most useful sort.

Owing to ill-health William Fitzgerald Retires and is Succeeded by George Finlayson, Who Has Had Experience in Department at Ottawa.

Ottawa, September 1.—William Fitzgerald, who has held the office of superintendent of insurance since 1885, retires to-day, and will be succeeded by George D. Finlayson.

The new superintendent has had considerable experience in the department and is thoroughly familiar with the work. He is a graduate of Dalhousie University and a member of the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain.

During his thirty years of office Mr. Fitzgerald has seen the number of insurance companies, both fire and life, increase from 65 to 185, with a proportionate increase in the amount of insurance in force.

Mr. Fitzgerald's assistance has also been from time to time required by the Government in legislation respecting not only insurance companies but trust and loan companies and other companies generally. He has been in bad health for some time.
