

GREAT ATHLETE DEAD

"GLAD" MURPHY SUCCEUMBS TO INJURIES RECEIVED ON THE FOOT-BALL FIELD

Toronto Mail and Empire, Feb. 19

William Ewart Gladstones Murphy, the famous flying wing of the Argonauts, and recently adjudged as the best all-round athlete in Canada, died in St. Michael's Hospital yesterday afternoon from injuries received in the second half of the opening "Big Four" Rugby game on Rosedale field on the afternoon of Oct. 9th last.

At the time he attempted a flying tackle of Sammy Masson, of the Tigers, and missed, alighting heavily. In striking the ground Murphy shattered the vertebrae at the base of the skull, and from the first no hope was held out for his recovery.

Sorrow at the death of the young athlete, cut off in his prime of youth, will not be confined alone to the sporting fraternity. A fine specimen of young Canadian manhood, and of engaging and unassuming manners, "Glad" Murphy, as he was familiarly known, was a universal favorite with all who knew him.

Since the Rugby accident, "Glad" Murphy had been in the hospital a helpless invalid. The fact that he lived so long was due solely to the splendid physique which he developed on the athletic field.

The Guild House of St. John the Baptist at Henley-in-Arden, England, has now been restored. This interesting relic of medieval times was until a few months ago used as shops and tenements, while its beautiful architectural details were entirely hidden by the plaster incrustations of centuries.

Emblazoned on the front of the building, the massive construction and timber work of which is particularly impressive, are the shields of the founder, the Bishop of Worcester, the Priors of Wootton Wawen, Dudley Belnap and others associated with the ancient life of the manor.

Nowadays when so many investigations are afoot for the relief of the overworked, underpaid, down-trodden, and oppressed, the pitiable condition of Protestant Episcopal Sunday school teachers should be brought to the public's attention.

As it is clear that all attempts to prove these four propositions cannot but seriously imperil the moral and intellectual well being of both teachers and pupils, it would seem that there are just grounds for at once appointing a board of commissioners to investigate the case.

DEATH OF MRS. R. MACDONALD

On Wednesday, the 9th, inst., after a lingering illness, borne with Christian patience, Mrs. R. MacDonald, an esteemed resident of Navan, passed to her reward, regretted by all who knew her.

Her death was truly that of the just—a death precious in the sight of the Lord. Surrounded by her loving family, strengthened by the Holy Sacraments, and by the special graces that Holy Mother Church lavishes on her faithful children at this supreme moment, her soul went forth in hope and love to meet her God—see her Redeemer face to face—Him in Whom she believed and trusted and in Whose service the days of her three score and ten years had been bravely and lovingly spent.

Mrs. MacDonald leaves to mourn her loss her husband, Mr. Roderick MacDonald; two sons, Mr. Allan MacDonald and Mr. Charles MacDonald, both of Navan; four daughters, Mrs. T. W. Asselin, of Vars; Mrs. P. J. Brophy, of Ottawa; Sister Mary Gertrude and Sister Mary Elizabeth, of the Grey Nuns Community; a brother, Mr. James O'Meara of Ottawa, and a sister, Mrs. J. McKinley of Merrill, Mich.—Pembroke Observer.

when Queen Mary married a Catholic prince, reconciled her subjects with the Holy See, had worthy bishops consecrated and did her best to stamp out heresy, she was manifestly making England a staunch Protestant land. But the really heroic task is the fourth, for the harried instructors must not only demonstrate to admiration that a martyr is one who lays down his life in defense of heretical tenets, but they must also prove from authentic historical documents, that Henry VIII, the founder of English Protestantism, and Edward VI, and Elizabeth, the zealous promoters of the new religion, suffered a violent death owing to the Papists' hatred of the Reformation.

NOT WATCHING MEXICO

We need very little thought to know that Mexico could not have been included in the doctrine of "watchful waiting," for the eyes turned on Mexico must have been obscured by a cataract. The suffering from fever, bandits, war and treachery must have a human note in it that would bring pity to the heart of the most callous.
