Sensational Incident In Newport Dock

Did Not Know it was Loaded

The accidental discharge of a torpedo in the Alexandra Docks at Newport, to which the question addressed to the First Lord of the Admiralty in the House of Commons had reference, caused considerable excitement in the vicinity of the docks when it occurred. For some time it was difficult to obtain details, and the local Press were immediately informed that no reference was to be made to the matter. The circumstances, it appears, were very simple, but the consequences might have been extremely serious.

For some time past the Alexandra Docks have been used by the Admiralty as a base for torpedo boat destroyers, and the officers have become exceedingly popular with the inhabitants of Newport. Many of them have from time to time been allowed to inspect the craft, the mechanism of which was explained to them. On the occasion referred to, a gentleman, his niece, and another young lady were on board, and one of the gunners was explaining the working of the torpedoes and the discharging of torpedoes. The charge had been removed and placed on one side when the gunner was temporarily called away. Meanwhile, another gunner came along, and, thinking the explanation had been concluded, replaced the charge and went away. On the return of the first gunner, he, unaware that the charge had been replaced, proceeded with his demonstration, and, with the remark: "This is how the torpedo is discharged," pulled the trigger, or pressed the button. Immediately there was a report, and, to the utter consternation of those on board, the torpedo left the tube and travelled at the usual depth under water, leaving a trail by which its course could be marked right across the dock, and making straight for a large Italian steamer lying at one of the coal hoists. Everyone thought the Italian steamer was doomed, but for some reason the course of the torpedo seemed to have been deflected, and instead of striking the steamer it crashed into the sloping wall of the dock, some 20ft. astern of the vessel. The explosion, however, threw the water 100 ft. into the air, drenching the men working on one of the hoists and many of those on the steamer, and considerably damaging the bank. The feeling of relief of those on the destroyer when they saw that so little damage had been done, and that no personal injuries had been sustained, may be imagined. Rumours were immediately afloat that the gunner concerned had been arrested, but no authoritative information on that point could be obtained. All the destroyers have since left Newport.

PURITY FLOUR

And Its Keeping Qualities

SOME people find it necessary to buy a considerable quantity of flour at one time—sufficient to last for a long period. Naturally they are anxious to procure a flour of the kind best adapted to lengthy storage.

There are two important reasons why PURITY FLOUR possesses these qualities. One is that it is made entirely from Manitoba Hard Wheat. The other lies in the fact that a careful milling necessary to produce "Purity" absolutely excludes all low-grade particles of the wheat berry. It's the high grade Manitoba Hard Wheat Flour that keeps—stands longest storage.

That's "Purity."
"Purity" flour may cost a little more, but is more than worth the difference. Try it. Watch results both for quality and yield.
