DEATH CLAIMS A CLEVER MAN

Mr. Robt. Park I. P. S. Was One of the City's Most Respected Residents

He Displayed Wonderful Energy and Patience During His Illness

The Grim Reaper added to his harvest yesterday by removing, with terrible suddenness, from his sphere of activity, one of the best known and most genuinely loved citizens of the County of Kent in the person of Robert Park, Inspector of Public Schools for West Kent and Chatham.

His death came as a shock to the whole community. As the news of the sad event which occurred at mid-day, spread through the city, in many homes there was felt a genuine regret at the loss of one whose chief efforts had been to sweeten the lives of all with whom he came in contact, for throughout the whole district there was no child or teacher who had not learned to feel the kindness of his disposition and to enjoy the influence of his cheery optimism.

When Inspector Park was taken ill during the Departmental examinations at the Collegiate Institute, it was thought that a few days rest was all that was necessary to effect a recovery. He attended to the clerical duties of his office, and completed the work of the Entrance and Leaving examinations. No one dreamed of the serious outcome until a week ago, when symptoms of Bright's disease appeared. The fatal malady developed very rapidly and Mr. Park was informed of his danger. Up till Friday he directed all the many duties which fall on the inspector at this season of the year, and left no detail of the year's work incomplete.

The career of the late Inspector was a remarkable one. Born in 1852 at Liverpool, Nova Scotia, he came to Kent County with his parents when a child. With no facilities for education, he left the farm and learned the trade of an iron moulder, becoming a first class mechanic. In this capacity he visited Scotland, England and the United States, and thus by personal experience gained that knowledge of men and affairs which became so characteristic of him. Believing that a different occupation was better suited to his literary tastes, Mr. Park studied for a teacher's certificate and commenced teaching school in Chatham Township. As he taught he studied and unaided secured every grade of standing under the control of the Ontario Department of Education. From rural schools he went to Mather Public School, where his success gained for him the English mastership of Chatham Collegiate Institute. But again he turned towards the children whom he loved so well and accepted the principalship of Goderich Model school, where he gained a Provincial reputation.

Twelve years ago he was appointed to the inspectorship of West Kent, and seven years later owing to his universal popularity and marked ability was selected as inspector of the Public Schools of Chatham in succession to the late Rev. Dr. McColl. During his regime, progress has been the watchword. The schools under his charge have improved by leaps and bounds. Few districts can show such marked improvement in school premises. The school library movement originated in West Kent, and when the new regulations for equipment came into force, West Kent was the first to be perfectly equipped. These but serve to show with what earnestness, decision and devotion to his work, Mr. Park attacked the difficult problems of his position and sought to secure for the children under his care, the most complete advantages obtainable under the Public School system. Nor did his interests and efforts stop there. Every teacher felt in the kindly inspector a friend, and from time to time the presentations made to him showed that the bond of sympathy between them was a substantial one.

In his tastes Mr. Park was modest and unassuming. In all his official relations he was thoroughly systematic, unwaveringly honest and unflinchingly independent. He was a wide reader and exceptionally well informed. But it is chiefly for his sound judgment and clear headed advice that he will be remembered as an Inspector. For this reason his opinion was frequently sought and always followed by the Board of Education as well as by the various School Boards throughout the inspectorate.

In Masonic circles Mr. Park was most prominent. He was a member of Parthenon Lodge, No. 267, A. F. & A. M., Past Principal of Wellington Chapter, No. 46, R. A. M., and had just been elected Presiding Preceptor of Kent Preceptory, No. 4, Knight Templars. In every branch

ERIEAU AGAIN VISITED BY A SAD DROWNING FATALITY

Charles Cain, a Bright Ridgetown Youth Was Suddenly Taken With Cramps While Bathing—An Unfortunate Record of Deaths

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Erieau, Aug. 5.—Again the sombre Angel of Death has visited the foot of the Eau at Government Park—and the first fatality of the season was recorded Saturday.

The circumstances surrounding the tragedy are exceptionally sad. Charles Cain, a young man of 21 years, resident in Ridgetown, came down a week ago to spend his vacation camping at Government Park with Mr. Orendorf. He was on the threshold of manhood—rugged, athletic, healthy. "Charley" was popular with everyone and won a warm place in the hearts of fellow holiday seekers. He was a trusted clerk at Craig's store at Ridgetown. He was the elder of two sons who were alike the support and comfort of their mother.

The fate which seemingly selects for itself the brightest marks decreed the holiday should prove his last. On Saturday afternoon, with other pleasure seekers, young Cain went for a swim. An excellent swimmer he was, and for some time he led the aquatic festivities. The other swimmers retired to the neighboring bathhouse at Wair's landing the young man, calling that he would follow them soon, announced his intention of swimming from the old pier to the new—a distance of some one hundred yards.

When the first of his fellow-bathers re-appeared after retiring, Cain was nowhere to be seen. No sound had been heard, and for a few moments it was thought he might be somewhere in hiding. Then a dread suspicion came over the minds of his fellows and an outcry was raised.

Young Eastlake, a Ridgetown friend, hurriedly procured a neighboring boat and a search was commenced. A silent crowd hurriedly gathered and willing workers volunteered. For hours the weary search continued unavailing. Into the shadows of night, following sunset, efforts were unceasingly continued. Grappling hooks, fishing nets and lines were improvised for dragging, and young swimmers sought to render assistance. But night fell and still their efforts were unavailing.

Yesterday (Sunday) morning the search was renewed. Anxiety had now given place to the sadness of certainty and the work of dragging continued silently, scores of onlookers crowding the pier.

It was not, however, until 11:30 in the morning that the body was located by Mr. Michael Cosgrove with a dragging hook, and raised. The young man had drowned in eight feet of water, just beyond the rushes, and about thirty feet from the end of the pier. The suspicion that, being an expert swimmer, he had been held by the treacherous subterranean weeds which have been the death of so many, was unfounded. The body lay in eight feet of clear water, untouched by the dank undergrowth. It was doubled up and the unfortunate young man's hands were crossed over his abdomen, indicating that he had been taken with a sudden cramp.

The remains were removed and the coroner and undertaker at Ridgetown notified. Shortly after noon the latter reached the Park and the body was removed to the home of mourning.

It is a tragic and peculiar fact that for several seasons past this portion towards the foot of the Eau has been the scene of an annual drowning tragedy. Last year, Planef readers will remember, that near Gerundy Bay, Mr. Nicholl, near Shrewsbury, who was operating in a gasoline launch, lost his life. The previous year a talented Cleveland musician, who had been leading an impromptu stringed orchestra of holidayers at the Park, lost his life at the same spot by the upsetting of his boat. And the fatal record is said to continue back for five years.

The present drowning marks the first fatality of the season on the Eau.

Train Falls Fifty feet Into The River Loire, France—Passengers Drowned

Angers, France, Aug. 5.—Forty passengers in a third-class train were drowned yesterday afternoon in a railroad accident, three miles south-east of this town.

The locomotive of a crowded local train jumped the track when entering the bridge over the River Loire at Les Fentes-de-Ce. The stone railing gave way, and the engine plunged into the river, 50 feet below, dragging down with it its tender and the baggage and third-class car.

Fortunately no other cars went into the water, as the coupling between the second and third cars broke.

The conductor and fireman were the only persons whose lives were saved. They escaped by swimming.

The third-class car was filled with passengers, but, although part of the roof was blown off by the confined air as it sank, not a single passenger extricated himself, and all were drowned like rats in a trap.

The engineer perished beneath the locomotive.

S. O. S. EXCURSION

The Sons of Scotland excursion to-morrow promises to be a very successful one. The boat will leave the Rankin dock at 7:45 in the morning, and will not leave Belle Isle until 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The excursionists thus have half an hour longer at Belle Isle than usual.

The pipers and dancers will arrive from London at 9:30 to-night and will march to the tunes of the bag pipes from the station up town and through the principal streets of the city. Refreshments will be abundantly provided on the boat and an excellent time is assured.

MOTOR CARS COLLIDE.

Five Killed and Two Wounded During Auto Race.

Bordeaux, Aug. 5.—On account of accidents resulting from the efforts of the contestants to make speed, the Government has ordered that the Criterion Cup race come to an end. The cars had still 434 miles to go.

By the collision of two cars, five men were killed and two others mortally wounded. One of the cars was competing in the Criterion Cup race. It collided while running at full speed with a touring car. Among the men killed are the editors of two newspapers.

Milton Stephens Was Quite Happy Till First Husband Appeared

Was Married to Already-Married Woman in Chatham, July Twelfth

Leamington, Aug. 5.—On July 12th among the crowd from Leamington who went to Chatham to celebrate were Milton Stevens and a young woman named Mrs. Garnet Wigle. She had been married about eight months before to Garnet Wigle, Kingsville, who had been arrested on a serious charge made by her and brought to Leamington. To avoid conviction and a long-term sentence he married her, the ceremony taking place in Police Magistrate Skirk's office. It is said that he immediately deserted her and has not lived with her or contributed to her support since.

She remained with his family for a time and then came to Leamington, where she met Milton Stevens, with the result that they were married in Chatham on July 12. When purchasing the license the woman gave her name as Boyer, her mother's name, and made the necessary declaration that she was a spinster. Of course, had the circumstances and the woman been known the license would have been refused. However, the two were married and were living happily when their newly-wedded bliss was jarred by husband No. 1 coming on the scene. He was so much ashamed of himself that he did not make much of a fuss. He had a talk with his wife and a long one with Stevens. He got into communication with the chief of police and had the magistrates been in his office on Wednesday evening he would likely have made a charge against the woman. Mr. Nickerson, her father, threatened to take action against him for non-support, and this threat may have caused him to change his mind, for he went home to Kingsville by the late train and has not been seen here since.

It is not known what he will do or if he will do anything. It is supposed that if he prosecutes it is only out of spite for his arrest at the time of his marriage, for he cannot want the woman and probably would never have come near had he not heard of her bigamous marriage.—Windsor Record.

POLICE COURT

Edith Ladd, the young colored girl who pleaded guilty to stealing clothing belonging to Mary McGregor, was dismissed with a severe scolding and suspended sentence in the Police Court, this morning. The girl broke down and cried, and mingled her tears with fervid promises to be good henceforth.

Her father and brothers, who are farmers some distance out in the country, paid her fine, and took Edith back home with them.

Ike Morton, who lives on Wellington Street, was up this morning charged with ill-treating a horse he had hired from Barnes' Livery Stable. Humane Officer James McGregor laid the information and produced evidence to prove that the animal was covered with deep ridges when it was brought back to the stables. It had been beaten so hard that it was bleeding in several places. Dr. John Fringle, the veterinary surgeon who attended the horse, said that its back was fairly covered with ridges.

The case was remanded till Thursday, and the prisoner was released on $50 bail, which was put up by his employer, W. W. Scame.

During the progress of one of the cases this morning, a small dog, which had been running about in the auditorium of the Police Court, showed its utter disdain for the laws pertaining to contempt of court by giving vent to three sacrilegious yelps while the judge was busy handing down a decision.

"Who owns that dog?" thundered the Judge.

"No answer."

"Will the man who owns that dog please take it outside?" he asked a little later.

No one responded and the canine stood in the centre of the floor evidently wondering at the stillness that had suddenly come over everything.

"Officer Dezella will you please take that dog out and see that it is put to death," was the last resort of the Judge. It worked.

The big policeman had no sooner laid his hand on the little dog leading to the auditorium than a young man who had been standing idly by at the time, sprang forward, grabbed the dog, and made his way to the open as fast as possible.
