Horseshoes.

The question whether horses should or should not be shod is again under discussion. The proposition will crop up at intervals until a rational view of the subject comes to be taken. As a matter of physiological fitness, nothing more indefensible than the use of shoes can be imagined. Not only is the mode of attaching them | dec.25

by nails to the hoof objectionable but the shoe is the probable, if not Reported for the Dominion Gov't by the evident, cause of many affections of the foot and leg, which impair the International Steamship Company usefulness, and must affect the com-fort of the animal. Whether horses could work on our roads, without some protection, is another question. We think it would be found that the natural structure would adapt itself

THE International Steamship Company in connection with Intercolonial Railway to any ordinary requirement. There is, however, a wide difference of opinion upon this point among authorities on horse management, and the problem is not likely to be finally solved until the experiment has been tried. There can be no doubt as to the additional power of grasping road surfaces, which would be secured to the advantage of the 17 rider or driver, and the relief of the horse, if shoes were not used. Mean while, we should like to see the tria made. It should, however, be un derstood that the experiment must be tried with colts that have not been shod.
