that the teachings of one of the theological colleges had been im-pugned. He appealed to the chair for a ruling. President A. K. Birks declared that as no college had been directly men-tioned, no college teachings were therefore disparaged. In this way the President saved the day for peace and amity, and avoided a repetition of the theological controversy.

"Now, sir," he said, "your triumph is complete. Even such a nature as yours must be satisfied." "Satisfied?" exclaimed Rawson Fen- ton, folding his arms and looking at him with an insolent smile. "Yes, satisfied. You have professed to love this lady; if there was ever a spark of such feeling in your heart; if "You have altered your tone pretty will forego your revenge and for her sake spare my friend."	to the room where I—and this man were, and said he had made the great discovery. Wolfe, it drove him mad. But he was not mad when he told us that he had succeeded, though this man persuaded me that he was. My father had made the discovery; he said we should be rich—why, Wolfe, I saw the opals fall from his hand—I remember now"—she put her hand to her brow. "And then we started for Melbourne, and this man was left behind. This paper———" "I picked it up in the little inner room to light my pipe," said the marquis in a low voice to Elliot. (To be ——::pued.) A fifth young lady has written to the Mayor of Toronto, expressing a wish to be placed in communication with the Calcary man who recently solicited the	of the digestive and excretory systems, poisoning of the blood and give rise to the most dreadfully painful and fatal of diseases. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills puri- fy the blood and cleanse the system as no other treatment can, because of their unique and combined action on the filtering excretory organs-the liver, kidneys and bowels. Mrs. R. Morrow, Bracebridge, Ont., writes: "For years I was troubled almost constantly with constipation of the bowels and never got anything to do me the lasting good that has been ob- tained 'from Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They not only relieved that trou- ble, but have entirely cured the head- aches from which I used to suffer, and have improved my health in a concert	D. C.
