The present critical state of European affairs will render these publications unusually interesting during the forthcoming year. They will occupy a middle ground between the hastily written news-items, crade speculations, and flying rumors of the daily Journal, and the ponderous Tome of the future historian, written after the living interest and excitement of the prest political events of the time shall have passed away. It is to these Periodicals that readers must look for the only really satelligable and reliable history of current events, and as such a addition to their well-established literary, recientific, and beological character, we urge them upon the consideration of he reading public.
