L. E. PROWSE,

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as these affecting the threat and lungs: none so trified with by the majority of sufferier. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AVER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.

Croup. — A Mother's Tribute.

"While in the country last winter my little boy, three yearffold, was taken ill with croup;
it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PETOMAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in less than half an hour the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the CHERRY PETOMAL had saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours,

MMS. EMMA GEDNEY."

At those times I am quite satisfied that your judgement will be marked with that clearness, with that intelligence, and, I may add, with that Mr. Biggar, who was loudly cheered, and the theorem and standards, many of them with pretty devices, added color to the display. The flags are reckoned as seven hundred. Besides, a large number of wreaths, some of which were very beautiful, formed of artificial flowers, laurel leaves, glass beads, and bronze, representing oak and laurel branches, were carried in the procession, and deposited at the tomb of Victor Emmanuel, Brass bands, playing music of a joyous nature, enlivened the spectacle. Shops were closed along the route of procession, and the workmen and idlers of the city gathered along the streets through which the demonstration had to pass.
