Notes and Comments.

In addition to the statutory holiday for Empire Day on May 24th, last night's Gazette proclaims as Public and Bank holidays, the King's Birthday, June 3rd, Labour Day, Regatta Day, August 20th, September 10th, Jan. 21st, 1914 and February 18th, 1914 and March 17th, 1914. It will be remembered that the Importers' Association this year for the first time at the request of the Societies of the city have decided to close the stores on Empire Day.

We notice that Councillor Mullaly in a letter published in the Daily News this morning, on the vandalism of boys in the city, states that he agrees with everything stated by the writer of the article in the Evening Telegram, entitled "Carnival of Destruction," and particularly with the suggestion that the teachers in the city schools take up the question and endeavor to instill into the minds of their pupils respect for public and private property.

Mr. Mullaly declares it would break the heart of any citizen whose ambition is to beautify and improve the city to witness the acts of vandalism of school boys that he has seen himself, and he instances as a proof that he is not overstating the case, "the fact that a few days ago work that entailed two weeks' labour was destroyed by boys in a few minutes at Bowring Park."

Now, we wish it to be understood that though we made the suggestion that teachers should take up the matter, we did not make the suggestion in any spirit of fault-finding with teachers. We did so because they are persons in authority who are in touch with the largest number of boys, and they can be the most effective monitors in the matter. We venture to trespass on the good nature of teachers, because we know they have much good nature and have the moral welfare of boys at heart, and they would be the first to welcome the beautifying of the city, particularly from the wholesome effect an improved environment would have on the minds of the boys themselves.

We know of the tendency to transfer every obligation in regard to children of schoolable age to teachers. But after all, it should be remembered that there are 168 hours to the week and that for 140 hours of the week, boys are not under the direct influence or control of teachers, and that during the holidays, about twelve weeks of the year, they are not under the control of teachers at all. From this it will be seen that home influence must be looked to as the primary moral influence on the conduct of boys in regard to matters external to the school.

Sir Edward Morris left this morning for Pogo to begin an Election campaign. For the past four elections, viz., 1906, 1907, 1908 and 1909, Pogo returned Mr. Henry Earle to support Sir Robert Bond and the Liberal Party. With the additional unpopularity which his government has earned, it will take Sir Edward all his time to effect any change in favour of the Government.

He did not provide, as did Mr. Crocker, that in the event of a cancer cure being discovered, the fund should be devoted to other branches of scientific enquiry. Mr. Crocker's bequest to Columbia University, made public on December 7, 1909, consisted of the proceeds of the sale of his city residence, No. 1, East-Sixty-fourth street, and his country seat at Darlington, N.J., valued together at more than $1,500,000.

"Mr. Rutherford was the type of man who did good unostentatiously," one of the beneficiaries of the will said yesterday. "It does not surprise me that he left a legacy for cancer treatment, but it does surprise me that he did not make the gift before his death. I know that two months before he died he gave away far more than $200,000 to charities in which he was interested, always with the proviso that his name be kept a secret. He had no business, being one of a family every member of which is very wealthy. The medical campaign against cancer was a subject in which he was deeply though impersonally interested."

The only next of kin which it is set forth have been located are sixty-eight cousins of Mr. Rutherford, many of whom are residents of England.

THE ROYAL STORES, LTD.

$200,000 For Cancer Cure.

Henry Rutherford, by His Will, Makes the Rockefeller Institute Custodian of the fund.

New York, April 30.—The largest single contribution toward the extermination of the cancer germ that has been reported since George Crocker gave Columbia University $1,500,000 for that purpose three years ago, was made known yesterday through the filing of the will of Henry Rutherford. Disposing of an estate estimated at more than $2,000,000, Mr. Rutherford directed that $200,000 be turned over to the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research as a fund for the investigation and cure of cancer.

Mr. Rutherford, whose residence officially was Grand Isle, Vt., but who spent most of his time in travel, died in the Astor Hotel, February 25 last. He was sixty-five years old and a widower, without children, his wife having died thirty years ago. Only his most intimate friends and relatives realized the extent of his fortune and his philanthropies. His death was due to causes unconnected with cancer.

He did not provide, as did Mr. Crocker, that in the event of a cancer cure being discovered, the fund should be devoted to other branches of scientific enquiry. Mr. Crocker's bequest to Columbia University, made public on December 7, 1909, consisted of the proceeds of the sale of his city residence, No. 1, East-Sixty-fourth street, and his country seat at Darlington, N.J., valued together at more than $1,500,000.

40 Years In Prison.

Sentence of Brooklyn Man for Highway Robbery.

New York, May 1.—A flat sentence of forty years was imposed yesterday by County Judge Fawcett upon James Cassidy, convicted of robbery in the first degree. In sentencing him the judge said:—"Your crime was a desperate one. There are few crimes worse than highway robbery. Your record demonstrates that you are a menace to any community. Old offenders need expect no clemency at my hands. Let all burglars and highwaymen take warning from your sentence as to what they may expect if they are convicted in Brooklyn. The sentence of this court is that you be confined in Sing Sing prison for a term of forty years with hard labour."

Cassidy and Frank Redmond had been jointly indicted on the charge of entering the store of Lewis Price, 1307 Broadway, 1912, and holding up Louis Price and Henry Shearon, while they stole $500 worth of jewelry. The charge was that Cassidy kept the men covered with two revolvers, while Redmond rifled the safe. When Shearon resisted having to hold up his hands Cassidy struck him a vicious blow over the head with the butt of one of the revolvers. All this happened at 7.30 in the evening, when the street outside was crowded.

CHINESE CREW MUTINIED.

One Fatally Wounded in Battle With Police at Staten Island Docks.

New York, April 24.—In a battle with a mutinous crew of Chinese on the British freighter Glen Melvor, tied up at Staten Island pier last night, one member of the crew was mortally wounded by revolver bullets, and one of a dozen private detectives who, with a score of policemen, were engaged in the fight, was badly injured. The police took 37 Chinese prisoners.

The trouble arose over refusal to allow the Chinese shore liberty. The crew had given trouble all the way from Singapore, once trying to throw one of the officers overboard.
