

Guelph Evening Mercury

VOL. VII. NO. 40

GUELPH, ONT., CANADA, SATURDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 20, 1873.

PRICE ONE PENNY

Business Cards.

MEDICAL CO-PARTNERSHIP.
We, the undersigned, have entered into partnership for the purpose of carrying on the profession under the style and firm of Keating & McDonald.
DR. J. M. KEATING, M.D., M.R.C.S., England
M.B., B.C.P., M.D., M.R.C.S., Edin.
Guelph, July 1st, 1873. dtm wdm

REMOVAL OF SURGERY.
DR. HEROD
Has removed his Surgery to the rooms above the Guelph Drug Store, where he may be found from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Entrance on Cork street. After 6 p.m. at his residence 25-1/2 St. George's street. dtw

DR. BROOK
OFFICE AND RESIDENCE
Directly opposite Chalmers Church
Quebec street, Guelph.
Dr. Brook having returned from the South will attend to all professional calls as usual

FREDERICK BOOBE, Barrister and Attorney at Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Conveyancer, &c. Guelph. Office, corner of Wyndham and Quebec Streets. dtw

OLIVER & MACDONALD, Barristers and Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors, Notaries Public, &c. Office—Corner of Wyndham and Quebec streets, up stairs, Guelph, Ont. dtw

GUTHRIE, WATT & CUTTEN, Barristers, Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Guelph, Ontario. dtw

LEMON & PETERSON, Barristers and Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers and Notaries Public. Offices—Brownlow's New Buildings, near the Registry Office. dtw

A. LEMON, H. W. PETERSON, County Crown Attorney
F. STURDY, House, Sign, & Ornamental Painter
GRAINER AND PAPER-HANGER.
Shop next to the Wellington Hotel, Wyndham Street, Guelph. dtw

WILLIAM J. PATERSON, Official Assignee for the County of Wellington. Office—Opposite Town Hall, Guelph. dtw

IRON CASTINGS
Of all kinds, made to order at
GROVE'S IRON WORKS, Norfolk Street, Guelph. dtw

154w JOHN ROWE, Proprietor
PARKER'S HOTEL, DIRECTLY OPPOSITE THE MARKET, GUELPH
First-class accommodation for travellers. Commodious stabling and an attentive staff. The best liquors and cigars at the bar. He has just fitted up a room where Oysters will be served up at all hours, in the favorite style.
Pickled Salmon, Lobsters, and Sardines. Guelph, Feb. 1873. dtw

ROBERT CRAWFORD, PRACTICAL Watch and Clock Maker, Jeweller. Wyndham Street, Guelph. dtw

SCHOOL OF ART and General Education.
THE MISSES RHEMMIE beg to announce that they will remove their establishment to the corner of Woolwich and Yarmouth streets, about the 22nd September, where they hope to receive a continuance of the patronage hitherto accorded them. Until then, pupils will be received as usual at their present residence, Market street. dtw

NEW CAB—The subscriber begs to announce to the citizens of Guelph that he has just purchased a carriage and is prepared to carry persons to and from any place in town at the usual charges. He has also a large passenger wagon for picnics, excursions, &c. He hopes by strict attention to receive a share of public patronage. Orders can be left at Dr. Herod's Drug Store or at my residence, next door to the Primitive Methodist parlour. JOHN EWING, Guelph, July 18th, 1873. dtm

W. M. FOSTER, L.D.S., SURGEON DENTIST, GUELPH.
Office over E. Harvey & Co's Drug Store, Wyndham and Quebec streets, Guelph.
Residence opposite Mr. Bonill's Factory
Street, Teeth extracted without pain. References, Drs. Clarke, Tuck, McGuire, Herod, McGregor, and others. Guelph, Ont. Dr. Elliot & Mervin, Dentists Toronto. dtw

J. H. ROMAIN & Co., Successors to Nelles, Romain & Co., CANADA HOUSE, General Commission Merchants, 26, City National Bank Building, Chicago, Ill.
References: Sir John Rose, banker, London, England; P. W. Thomas, Esq., banker, Montreal; The Marine Company of Chicago, bankers; Hon J. Carling, London, Ont. Messrs Gault Bros., merchants, Montreal; Messrs F. Smith, Frank Smith & Co., Toronto; J. M. Miller, Esq., Perth, Ont. (late of J. M. Miller & Co., commission merchants, Chicago); W. Watson, Esq., banker, New York; D. Butters, Esq., Montreal; J. Whitehead, Esq., M. P., Clinton, Ont.; C. Magill, Esq., M. P., Hamilton, Ont.; T. C. Chisholm, Esq., Toronto; S. J. Poole, Esq., Toronto. dtw

New Advertisements.

WANTED—A cook and housemaid. Apply to Mrs. Jackson. dtw

GOOD HOUSE WANTED TO RENT—Of six or eight rooms. Apply at this office. dtw

WANTED—A good general servant in a small family. Good wages for suitable person. Apply at this office. dtw

AGENTS WANTED—To sell Cashmere Books. Business new. Profits $15 to $30 per day. Send for circular. dtw

TO LET—A large two-story Stone Building in the centre of the Town, suitable for manufacturing purposes. Apply to Robert Melvin, Guelph. dtw

HOUSE TO LET—Stone house on Woolwich street, next St. George's Church. Apply to Armstrong, McCree & Co. Woolen Manufacturers. dtw

FIRST-CLASS VARNISHER WANTED—Highest wages paid. Constant employment given. Apply to Guelph Sewing Machine Company, Guelph, Sept. 20, 1873. dtw

CANVASSER WANTED—A person to solicit (in Guelph) subscribers for "The Canadian Illustrated News;" "The Favorite;" "The Mechanic's Magazine;" Liberal salary. Apply to C. ACTON BULLOWS, Royal Hotel, Guelph. dtw

FLAG LOST—From near the Y.M.C.A. Rooms on Thursday night, a red ensign, with union-jack in corner, and printed with advertisement affixed. Finder will please leave it at Anderson's Bookstore. dtw

THANKS—I hereby tender my hearty thanks to Wm. J. Patterson, Agent Citizens' Accident Insurance Company of Canada, for the prompt payment of $50.00, amount of my claim against the Company for injuries received by accident. DAVID DICKSON, Clifford, Sept. 17th, 1873. dtw

WANTED—At the Fashionable West End Four experienced dressmakers; also improvers and apprentices to the dressmaking business. Two military apprentices and two active message boys. Apply to Sept. 5-dt. A. O. BUCHAN.

WANTED—A respectable youth, as CASHIER.
John Horsman, Hardware Merchant, Guelph, Aug. 19, 1873. dtw

EDUCATIONAL.
THE MISSES McDONALD Will open a school for Young Ladies in Mr. Hatch's Block, Woolwich street, on Monday, 1st of September. Terms and particulars given on application. Residence, Queen st. Guelph, Aug. 12, 1873. dtw

CORN FOR SALE.
The subscriber has for sale at his store, Upper Wyndham street, Guelph, a large stock of CORN, whole, cracked and chopped.
JOSEPH RUDD, Guelph, Sept. 19th, 1873. dtw

PRIZE SOUTHDOWN Sheep for Sale.
The subscriber has two Southdown Shearling Rams for sale, which took the first prize at Lambton at the Provincial Exhibition on Hamilton last year. Also 18 ewes. JAMES ANDERSON, Springfield Farm, near Guelph, on the River Speed. dtw

POWER'S IMPROVED WASHER, (PATENTED 1873) Manufactured by L. Tower, Berlin, Ont.
Having manufactured and sold over 2,000 washing machines, I can confidently claim for this machine advantages possessed by no other. It is self-adjusting. Does the work thoroughly and easily, and at the same time it is so simple in construction that it cannot get out of order. Sept. 15, 1873. dtw

PEACH FESTIVAL.
Does the work thoroughly and easily, and at the same time it is so simple in construction that it cannot get out of order. Sept. 15, 1873. dtw

A Peach Festival
In aid of the Ladies' Fund of St. George's Church will be held
In the Drill Shed,
ON TUESDAY EVENING, the 23rd inst. There will be a plentiful supply of Peaches and Cream, Hot Coffee, and other Refreshments.
Music by Vale's String Band.
Admission, 10 cents; Children half-price. GOD SAVE THE QUEEN! dtw

FARMS! FARMS!!
A number of excellent Farms varying in size from 50 to 300 acres in the immediate vicinity of Guelph, and also in the adjacent Townships.
Parties wishing to purchase will find it to their advantage to give us a call.
MONEY to invest, on mortgage and good personal security. Terms liberal. HART & SPEIRS, Land, Loan and General Agents, 4 Day's Block, Guelph. dtw

FOR SALE—Allendale Cottage and Lands—the property of the late Richard Jackson, Esq., containing about 50 acres of land, about a third of it being well wooded with handsome shade trees, balance chiefly meadow, on which there is a convenient dwelling house containing dining room, sitting room, 4 bedrooms, kitchen, parlor and woodshed, with stable, coach-house, and sheds, having a good garden with some choice fruit trees. This property is situated on the Waterloo Road two miles from the Market, and is most pleasantly situated in the vicinity of Guelph, and is well watered. Price and terms liberal, and will be made known on application to CHAS. DAVIDSON, Town Hall Buildings, Guelph. dtw

SPLENDID CHANCE FOR INVESTMENT. Residence for Sale.
That very desirable property situated on Paisley street, near the Western Station, consisting of White Brick two story dwelling house, with four bedrooms, front and back parlor, dining room and kitchen, with large soft water cistern, also two large dry cellars. The land covers two fifths of an acre, well stocked with fruit trees in full bearing. For terms, &c., apply to
D. S. SAVAGE, Guelph, July 30, 1873. dtw

$5 TO $20 PER DAY. Agents wanted people of either sex, young or old, make more money at work for us in their spare moments, or all the time, than at anything else. Particulars free. Address G. Simpson & Co., Portland, Maine. dtw

Guelph Evening Mercury

TO PRINTERS.
WANTED IMMEDIATELY, at this office,
Two Good Compositors; and a Boy
about 15 years of age to learn the Printing Business.
To those that suit steady situations will be given.
Apply at same place.
MANCUPY OFFICE, GUELPH, Sept. 16, 1873. dtw

Local and Other Items
The Toronto police have made a raid upon a faro bank in that city.
The Hamilton and Lake Erie Railway has been opened to Jarvis.
The Elora fruit festival on Tuesday evening last was a most successful affair.
The Rev. Wm. Inglis, of Toronto, will preach in Chalmers' Church to-morrow, morning and evening.
Books, school books, text books, and books suitable for everybody are to be had cheap at Anderson's Bookstore.
The new Governor of the Waterloo road is to be Mr. John W. Pearson, of Hawkeville.
The Ladies of St. Andrew's Church, Fergus, presented Mr. Mullan with a purse containing $60 this week.
On Wednesday afternoon a son of Mr. Michael Burns, of Garafra, got kicked on the head by a horse and badly hurt.
The number of entries for the Provincial Show at London next week is over eight thousand, being about 500 over last year's.
The great four-oared race at St. John was won on Thursday by the Paris crew; Portland man second, and McLaren (St. John) crew third. Time 37 min.
Mr. Pashley being about to leave town will sell his remaining stock at a great sacrifice, so the public who want bargains should not fail to call on him to-day.
The Montreal exhibition on Thursday was attended by over 25,000 people. In the lines of stock, agricultural implements, grain, seed and vegetables it is far ahead of any previous year.
Mr. George Chapman, of Hespeler, who accompanied his uncle, Mr. William Hespeler, and the Russian delegation to Manitoba, has returned. He expresses himself as being highly gratified with the tour.
STEREOSCOPIC.—We had again a call from Mr. Ritchie, agent for Mr. Connon, photographer, Elora, who showed us some additions to his admirable collection of stereoscopic views of scenery on the Irvine and Grand Rivers.
While Mr. Fred. Heselwood, engine driver, was doing something under his engine at the Fergus station on Wednesday morning one of the valves got loose, and the escaping steam scalded his arm severely.
A GANG of four ruffians who had been engaged as woodchoppers made an attempt at robbery and rapin upon members of a family named Kidd, in the township of Caradoc, on the night of the 6th. The gang have since been arrested and identified.
ACCIDENT.—We regret to learn that Mr. John C. Cox, a buyer on the market, met with an accident yesterday. He was on a load of barley, when the horses suddenly started, throwing him violently on the ground, and a bag of barley fell on his leg, whereby his arm was broken at the wrist. Dr. Brook attended to the patient and he is doing as well as could be expected.
BEAR SHOOTING.—During the last few weeks a number of these beasts have been prowling the woods and fields in the township of Leather, near Arthur Village. Mr. John Stephenson on Thursday last killed two of them in quick order, but not without running great risk of losing his own life. A few days previous Mr. William Richardson also captured one in a trap. Another bear committed suicide by shooting herself with a set gun he had fixed in the bush. The animals have done considerable damage in destroying grain and killing sheep.

The Concert.

The concert on Thursday was listened to by an audience rather larger than that of the previous evening, and the vocal solos of the former. Some unforeseen delay having occurred in the arrival of the ladies, the band opened the programme with a selection, which was followed by a fine song "The Rescue" from Professor Jones, of Galt, who in response to an encore, gave "The Baby was Sleeping" as Miss Brokovski's appearance was greeted with rapturous applause, and her opening song "Down the Burn, Davie, love" was loudly encored; the recall being responded to by the old favorite "The Last Rose of Summer." Miss Brokovski sings with the calm and sweet of a cultivated and finished vocalist, combined with a sweetness and purity of tone which even in the highest notes never degenerates into anything approaching a scream. A duet "Happy Days" was sung by Miss Clemes and Mrs. Hookin of Port Hope. The fine strains of the former, blended melodiously with Mrs. Hookin's deep contralto; and the steadiness and crispness of the time gave evidence of careful preparation. In response to a loud encore, the ladies reappeared and sang "Two Merry Girls," a serio-comic piece, with excellent effect. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child"—a ditty not at all suited to his style of voice. His subsequent song "The Grave of Bonaparte," was well done, and brought out the quality of his powerful and cultivated baritone. The conclusion of words being distinct and good, and retired amid much applause. Miss Brokovski then sang "Waiting for the Tide," a ballad that well displayed her admirable vocal talent, especially in the repetition of the words "Waiting" near the end of each verse. The singing audience again encored, and Miss Brokovski responded with a bow. After a pianoforte duet played by Mrs. Radd and Miss Bonit, Miss Clemes sang "Thou art so near and yet so far;" the audience showed their appreciation of it by an encore, and Miss Clemes sang "Shall I address the Council on the subject," Professor Jones was next on the programme, with "The Lost Child