Whether this different method of training will make any difference in the result will be interesting to watch. Last time he was a little overtrained; this time he is right in the pink. Overtraining is the worst thing than can happen to an athlete; it is far worse than lack of condition. Billy sure does look better than on his last appearance but the question is: Can he come back? If he does succeed in regaining his title he will be the first man in the annals of pugilism who has ever regained a title after he has once lost it.

N the eyes of our Toronto friend, Thomas Flanagan, Billy Allen is still the lightweight champion of Canada. Tom, it will be remembered, gave a championship belt which he said would represent the lightweight championship. He gave it to Billy Allen and although Billy lost the title, he-Newark, Sept. 2.—Frank Kramer, still holds the belt by virtue of a clause in the deed national sprint champion, won the of gift which stipulated that all battles for the one mile professional bike championship must be held in Toronto in Flanaship of the world at the Newark Velogan's old gymnasium. No matter how many gan's old gymnasium. No matter how many times Billy is beaten elsewhere, in the eyes of Tom Flanagan et al. Billy can't be licked except of France in the final event. Tess than half a wheel separated the riders in Toronto. Which is a very good illustration of at the finish of the race, the time of which was 2.00 flat. Marcel Dupuy which says that there is no such place as Western which says that there is no such place as Western Canada as far as rugby football is concerned.

> HE nightmare which has been disturbing the sleep of the National Hockey association magnates, with the threat of organizing another league turns out to be none other than Lol Solman, of the Tecumseh Lacrosse club, and thereby hangs a tale. There is a Toronto Pro team in the N.H.A., but Solman is anxious to organize another team to be called the Tecumsehs. He realizes that the lacrosse following of the two teams will be likely to follow the hockey aggrega-

Last season when the Renfrew franchise was for sale, Solman endeavored to purchase it but Eddie McCaffery beat him to it. Eddie bought it with the idea of putting another team in Toronto and has since repeatedly refused to sell it. Now Solman is one of the chief owners of the new Arena and says that McCaffery's team will not play on his little rink, and furthermore that if McCaffery wil not sell the franchise to him, or if the N.H.A. will not transfer it to him, he will organize another league to oppose them. He claims to have teams in Cleveland, Hamilton, the M.A.A.A. and Nationals in Montreal, a team in Ottawa financed by the street railway and his own Tecumsehs. Just what the N.H.A. will do is hard to ascertain, but if Solman is not appeased the prospects for a hockey war are bright.

O some of the Eastern colleges start training for the rugby season too early? The two successive victories of Toronto Varsity have set some of the trainers discussing the merits and demerits of long training seasons. Varsity does not start training until September 15th, and by that time, McGill will have had nearly four weeks of active practice, Otawa college and Queens' two week each. At first thought this would seem to give them an advantage over the Torontonians but the experience of the last two years has proved otherwise, for Varsity have won both the Inter-Collegiate and Eastern Canada championships. Some claim that a long season is liable to let the men get stale, but whether the other advantages of the long practice offset this or not is open to discussion. At any event, the short, virogous training season of Varsity has been successful in their case.

The team that won the championship for Varsity last year was the lightest that ever did so. Speed and skill were given the preference over weight and this policy is being adopted gradually Father Stanton of Ottawa college is one who is encouraging the lighter men this year. He expects all of last year's team back excepting Quilty, Heffernan, Kennedy and O'Leary. Cornellier, the 19-year-old half-back, who created such a sensation last year will return to college again. Lazure, another youngster who is said to be Cornellier's equal, will also line up with the college.
