MODERN FABLES

By George Ade. Copyright 1901, by Robert Howard Russell.

NOE there was a staid Business Man who was hooked up with a hoop-la Spender. It was often remarked that Hiram's Wife Faculty has been been as the control of the Secretary has been been as the control of the Secretary has been been as the control of the Secretary has been been been as the control of the Secretary has been been been as the control of every Day in the Week and a Diamond Tararar that made the other Women sizzle with Envy. And yet, withal, Hiram was a Man of Sterling Worth and many admirable Qualities. He was the Family Gibraltar, while his Wife and Jessie were supposed to be mere Floral Ornaments. Best of all, Hiram was known to be a Star at getting the Coin. The Fact that the Family put up such a tall Front in the Society Column helped the Public to believe that Hiram was as good as Old Wheat and as prosperous as a Kansas Farmer. And he was supposed to be long on Business Integrity. It was arbe correspondingly Honest.

Hiram was so Severe and Puritanical and had so much clinging Agricultural Simplicity that no one dreamed the Truth about him. In Reality, his Arteries were surcharged with Sporting Blood. When no one suspected it, he liked to put on a Mask and sneak out and hold up the Stock Market. That is what he did until one sad Day in May, the Stock Market up and Did him. He got it right where the Hired Girl wears the Ruching.

Hiram came home as Pale as a Chest

Hiram came home as Pale as a Ghost and broke the News that he was in the Hole. He hesitated to tell the Wife, for she was a Fragile Being, unaccus-tomed to the rude Buffets of the Strenout and made a Cup of Strong Tea for him.

Hiram had been an Imposing Figure so long as he had his Financial Underpinning, but when they yanked away his Supports, he did a horrible Collapse. When he got the Swing in the Plexus and toppled over, he proved to be a sorry Quitter. He lay on his Back and claimed a Foul, while his Wife and Jessie hustled around to save some of the Wreckage.
