CAR REPAIRER KILLED HERE

Said Accident in C. N. R. Yard Saturday Afternoon. Matthew St. Onge Killed.

A sad accident occurred in the railway yard here on Saturday last about 4:15 p. m. When Matthew St. Onge, a C. N. R. employee, lost his life as a result of being crushed between the coupling of two cars.

The deceased had just quit work for the day and was passing two cars to secure his dinner before going home, when these two were suddenly shoved together by a shunt which was being made further up on the same track and the unfortunate man was caught between the two cars and was killed before he had time to realize his danger. As it was impossible to separate the cars without increasing the suffering of the victim, before witnesses hurriedly proceeded to the scene and with them released the unfortunate man. Although pinned firmly between the cars for some time, seven or eight minutes Mr. St. Onge admirably retained his composure and conversed with those about him. But reaction set in upon his release and he immediately lapsed into unconsciousness, death following in the course of a few minutes. The remains were removed to the residence of his sister Mrs. P. T. Foubert, from where the funeral services were held on Monday morning. Rev. Father Malmon officiating, assisted by Rev. Father Sivert as Deacon and L'Ebbe Albert Poirier as sub-deacon.

Deceased who was in his 44th year, leaves to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate father four children, George, Corine, Dora and Charles. Mrs. St. Onge having predeceased him some ten years ago. He is also survived by two sisters Mrs. P. T. Foubert and Mrs. Wm. St. Onge and three brothers Robert, Joseph and George. To the grief-stricken family the heartfelt sympathy of the community is extended.

THE FANS AND THE GAME

Increasing Interest Shown in Games, But Financial Return Inadequate.

The outlook for baseball circles is beginning to take on a more hopeful color. That is, everything except the financial side. This has not as yet acquired an especially sanguine hue. The baseballs are usually fairly well decorated with appreciative fans but they seldom pay under the crowd. Those who are interested in baseball should remember that sportsmanship is needed on the benches as well as on the diamond. And it should be remembered that the fan's sportsmanship that will cause the fans to pull something out of his pocket when the ball passes under his nose. Some fans seem to be affected with "nickelitis." It is a bad disease and detrimental to any kind of sports. Like cancer it is curable only in its first stages. We are told that money talks. Even so, nickels may have had something to say in grandmothers' time, but in this strenuous age of jazz, fast cars and cigarette flappers it is only the larger coins and greenbacks that make even an audible squeak amidst the din of this speedy 20th century.

Then again we hear some people talking "big leagues" and ridiculing the brand of ball that is exhibited here. When the Ford hit the chicken the latter cried "Cheap! Cheap!" That is just the way we feel about the big league "rag-chewers." Besides being cheap their loquacity is too big for a small town.

Since you can't take a Fifth Avenue bus to see Ty Cobb perform, come to O'Leary's field and see some of our local stars in action. They are—but there, we can't enumerate, it is press time.

McMILLAN—HAMILTON.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hamilton, Black Point, Rest. County, N. B. on Wednesday July 12th at 4 p. m. when their daughter Annie Bell was united in marriage to James Gordon McMilling of Jacques River. The house was prettily decorated with fuchsias, ferns, and roses. The bride was gown in white dattches satin and wore the conventional veil and carried a bouquet of bridal roses.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. E. J. Shaw of Dalhousie in the presence of about forty guests. Miss Ellen Harvie played the wedding march.

After the ceremony the bride and groom received the congratulations of their many friends. A dainty lunch was served and the happy couple left on a wedding trip for St. John and various points of interest through the Province of Nova Scotia. They received a large and beautiful collection of wedding gifts. On their return they will reside at Jacques River. Their host of friends wish them many years of happy wedded life.

FUNERAL OF LATE A. Z. MATTHEWS

Services Attended By All Classes of Citizens—Eloquent Tribute By Pastor

Last Thursday afternoon citizens of every station and class attended the funeral services in honor of the late Driver Auley Matthews. Long before the hour set for the service the Methodist church was crowded to the doors and many remained outside in carriages and autos.

Rev. F. E. Boothroyd paid a fine tribute to the memory of the deceased in his address in part, after quoting Dr. Parker's poem.

Most surely Dr. Parker in this great poem expresses a profound truth. Death is misunderstood. He is truly "a visored friend." Though we do not like the "mask," the service rendered by death is recognized as a true friendship in the clearer light of eternity. Only unregenerate sinners need fear death. The true man, the Christian man, realizes death as a means of greater promotion, of unfettering of his powers of further development of his highest nature, of the undimmed fellowship with the loved ones gone before and not least, a pride of the resurrected body.

Mr. Boothroyd then welcomed all the diverse elements which made up the congregation, including Roman Catholics, and declared that every man present had a heart full of genuine sympathy with the widow, the only remaining son, and daughter, in their sudden and tragic bereavement. Relating various tributes of respect, he told of the engineer who that day, just before taking the Limited out of Campbellton, said that "A. Z. Matthews was a valuable leader of the men of the Brotherhood and there was no wonder he had been 'Chief' of the Division for so many years. Whenever any radical or wild talk was indulged in, it was Mr. Matthews' diplomatic manner and wise suggestions which restored the calm and pointed the better way. Another engineer testified that "Auley" was not only well informed and tactful, but that he never maneuvered to his own gain. He was utterly unselfish. Such tributes proved that the men present had not left their "bouquets" to be seen in the rich flowers on the casket. Frequently in the past days, in appointing Mr. Matthews to carry responsible authority in representing their interests before "the powers that be" had they shown their love and esteem.

The preacher declared that Mr. Matthews had found his true sphere in life, not in mechanically doing his job, as in living and working for others. As he lived, so he died. In the crisis of accident, he acted swiftly with the sole thought of the safety of the many passengers behind him. As much as any soldier-hero whose name is inscribed on the honor rolls of the churches, Matthews died doing bravely for his country. From this time on, indifference on the part of passengers should give to a worthy thoughtfulness and admiration. These men deserve not only big wages, but what is more, the gratitude of the travelling public.

A simple and beautiful compliment was made to the widow who had just said in the hour of her deepest sorrow "My husband spent much of his spare time for the Brotherhood, but I never objected." Such a spirit gains a recorded appreciation in the Great Book of Heaven.

As pastor of the deceased, Mr. Boothroyd paid his own tribute in earliest words. Mr. Matthews was not a Brotherhood or Lodge man who neglected his church. Rather, he evidenced a true balance of things social with things spiritual. His regular church attendance and his keen, intelligent attention to the sermon challenged the preacher to do his very best. Always an easy man to work with, Mr. Matthews was willing to co-operate in every worthy movement in church circles. The pastor had lost a personal friend.

Relating the retirement of a certain old minister whose splendid qualities were worthy of imitation, a challenge was thrown out to the congregation. What man there was willing to have the mantle of Mr. Matthews fall upon him? The Brotherhood work must be kept up, so also the church? Upon whom must the mantle fall? Elijah had gone; Who would be Elisha?

The congregation was deeply moved at the close of the address. Then, after having listened in silent reverence to the reading of the burial service, "The Dead March in Saul," they slowly left the church to follow the honored remains to the beautiful cemetery.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

C. N. R. TEAM DEFEAT C. F. D.

Another Good Game Played Monday Evening—The League Standing.

The scheduled game between the C. N. R. and C. F. D. on Monday night, took place at the rink here. The former nine scored being 11 to 1. A report of the game has been unavoidably crowded out. One point of interest, that the Cobs and C. N. R. are now tied for second place.

All baseball fans should remember that the Old Timers will meet the Slabtown Stars tonight at 7 o'clock. The latter nine are reported to be genuine sledge-hammers slugging so an exciting contest is expected.

C. F. D. TRIM COLTS BADLY

Friday an Unlucky Day For Colts—Score Piled up 13 to 6

On Friday night last the C. F. D. took a heavy beating from the Colts by storm defeating them in a seven inning game with a score of 13 to 6.

The Colts made a promising start in the first inning and succeeded in holding the firemen to one run in the second. In the third, however, the C. F. D. nine got down to slugging in earnest and began to pick off safe hits in rapid succession. The Colts chalked one run in the fourth and brought two men home in the fifth but with the end of this inning the score stood 13 to 5 against them for the firemen had continued their heavy hitting and also had been utilizing every advantage.

The sixth inning went blank for both sides. The Colts came back with some speed in the last and chalked up another run which made the score 13 to 6 in favor of the C. F. D. Although the score was one sided both teams played well and although not very closely contested the game was snappy and interesting. McLean and Lloyd did the heavy slugging for the C. F. D., who sent out fourteen safe hits while the Colts were successful in peeling off only four. Rattray, tossing the pill for the firemen pitched a fine game but was called near the end of the contest.

Doncaster relieved him. Allingham caught a good game behind the plate for the C. F. D., nine and Perch and Letourneau who changed in the fourth contributed good support to Dobson the Colts twinner. The teams were even in errors each stating five.
