OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"Here in forty pages of solid matter there is a great variety of reading, and all without exception creditable to the ability and taste of Stewart's corps of writers. We hope the Magazine may be a great success. * * * Everybody should purchase or subscribe."—St. John Telegraph, March 28th, 1867.

"STEWART'S LITERARY QUARTERLY MAGAZINE" is just out. The first No., now before us, presents a very attractive appearance, and the table of contents opens to view a very considerable amount of interesting reading. * * * In many of these papers there is a marked evidence of ability, and in all indications of good taste. We commend the Magazine to the attention of the public, and trust the energy and enterprise of its founder, Mr. Geo. Stewart Jr., may meet with a reward commensurate with the merits of his undertaking."—Morning News, St. John, N. B., March 29th 1867.

"STEWART'S LITERARY QUARTERLY." The number before us, edited by Mr. Geo. Stewart, Jr., contains fifteen original articles, including Tales, Sketches, Reviews, Poetry, and Puzzles, while the price of the number is only ten cents or forty cents a year. The articles of the present No. are very creditable to the literary taste and ability of the editor and his corps of contributors. * * * the whole comprising an issue of which the citizens of St. John, and people of New Brunswick should feel proud."—Morning Journal, St. John, N.B. April 3rd, 1867.

"STEWART'S LITERARY QUARTERLY MAGAZINE," the first No. of which has been received, is a creditable contribution to Provincial literature. * * * Amongst the contributors are some of the most gifted writers of the commercial metropolis."—St. Croix Courier, St. Stephen N. B. April 5th 1867.

* * * "It contains forty pages of interesting reading matter, and is highly creditable to the enterprise of the publisher and the ability of the writers."—Advocate, Hillsborough, N. B., April 4th, 1867.

Want of space prevents us giving more notices of the press: but the above will suffice, to let the public know what kind of a Magazine they may expect.
