IN NEED OF BIGGER FOOD PRODUCTION

(Continued from Page One). I sometimes wish it were necessary for us to go hungry so that we would appreciate more fully the great struggle going on in Europe. It is no great hardship to skimp enough on our food in order to save 80 per cent, wheat. We might even skimp on a $4.20 meal and not feel it much. The United States will use more corn meal, rye meal and catmeal and consider it a meal and oatmeal and consider it a small price to pay in order to liberate a million bushels to feed the men fighting for the liberty of the world."

The food controller told of the cooperation with Food Controller Hoover of the United States, and touched upon methods that had been taken to conserve the food, which could not be fully published for obvious reasons. The sugar situation was fully explained and the reasons for the shortage and he described the way the combine which threatened to hog the sugar market was broken. The food controllers of Canada and the United States, when told by Cuban sugar ex-States, when told by Cuban sugar exporters that the sugar market was in their hands and they would sell only at their own price, replied by saying: "Very well, keep your sugar and live on it; you will get no food from us unless you sell sugar at the same price." The result was that sugar was sold by the refiners to the wholesale at nine cents. The food controller's department now controls every ton of department now controls every ton of food that enters and leaves the Dominion, knows where it comes from and when and where it goes, so that nothing shall go to the enemy.

Mr. Hanna was asked from the audience why the wheat was not put into the finished product this side of the water. The answer was that it was a question of money to get and to operate the mills. He was also asked why rate the mills. He was also asked why the food controller permitted newspapers to carry liquor advertisements.

This he answered by saying that after April 1 there would not likely be any more liquor advertisements, because there would be nothing to sell.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Hanna by the association.
Mr. Hanna left for Ottawa immediately offer the meeting.
