New York Woman Sees the Restaurant

Mrs. Blatch of New York has entered suit against the Hoffman House for damages because she and Mrs. Graham were excluded from the restaurant on the evening of July 13 on account of having "no male escort."

The two ladies arrived in town, found it late, were hungry and decided to have dinner. They went together to the Hoffman, where they were admitted without question and were comfortably settled in the roof garden when they received most unceremonious notice to leave.

Mrs. Blatch sends her card to the proprietor, who appeared with the singular apology that it was "for the sake" of just such women as herself that the regulation was made. It appears that this rule prevails in numerous restaurants.

Mrs. Blatch argues, with great good sense, that women of undesirable class can only be detected by their conduct. A male escort is no assurance of propriety, but may be the exact opposite.

A great deal of interest has been excited by the case, and many women wait anxiously to know whether they are to be excluded from eating places at the whim of the proprietor. Mrs. Blatch's own daughter, who is an engineer, returned late one evening to New York to find that the family was away, and she must obtain admittance on similar grounds as at the Hoffman her mother was excluded.

Mrs. Blatch claims that even a drunkard or disorderly man can get a meal where a perfectly well-conducted young woman is refused on the ground of impropriety.

Mrs. W. J. Bryan.

Mrs. W. J. Bryan, wife of the candidate presumptive of the United States presidency, is a woman of many accomplishments. As lady of the White House, she would ever occupy that coveted position, she would assuredly bring in a new regime of less fashion, well and rides a bicycle in most athletic style. Mettlesome horses are no problem to her, as she is a first-class rider.

Jewish Suffragists.

The London Jewish World says that the first suffragists were the daughters of Joseph (no wonder such a heathenish old fellow as his name suggests), and adds that it is a pity the suffrage question is not being discussed as early as 1836.

Nurse for Toronto Garrison.

Miss Maude Elder Gallagher has been appointed as nursing sister, enjoying the rank and pay of a lieutenant, and her services will probably be given to St. Joseph's Hospital, where such an appointment has long been expected. The "sister" would make daily visits there to the sick, and her office would practically be that of lady superintendent. It is hoped that the appointment will be made as early as possible.

The Toronto World CHILDREN'S HUMANE LEAGUE

The subject for this week's competition, closing August 17, is "The Best Anecdote About a Dog." Letters are already coming in, and we suggest a word of warning to our little readers. Write plainly. Keep within the two hundred word limit. Enclose your slip of membership. Sign your letter with name and address. The anecdote may be old or new, original or quoted, but must be cleverly told. The prize for the best letter is an enamel pin, with the letters, "T. W. H. L." The following interesting story is told about a dog by Sir C. J. F. Bunbury in his diaries and correspondence: After the battle of Toulouse, Sir Bunbury was in the south of France with a party, including Sir George B., who had lost his right arm, and was one of a number to pay a visit in a French household, where a very high standard of politeness prevailed. So much so, indeed, that a exceptionally fine little poodle dog had been trained to receive bread only from the right hand of the giver. Several of the officers tested his training by offering it first with the right and then with the left hand. He steadily refused the latter. Finally it came to Sir George. The dog examined him critically, and after a moment's indecision, took the bread from his left hand. Again the other officers tried, but in vain, even when they thrust their right arms behind them. The poodle knew the difference, and his fine manners drew the line of courtesy at just the right point.

I wish to become a member of The Toronto World Humane League.

The Rev. Manley Benson, thru the present management and draws attention to the difference in the present charges and those in vogue before the reorganization of the company, and evidently would like a return to those good days. These debentures were sold principally to parties of small means, young women and others who were attracted by the high rate of interest which was offered.

Unable to Borrow. The time came when it was impossible to borrow another dollar on this magnificent property. A large number of mortgages were foreclosed, and the money used up; the balance of the property was mortgaged to such an extent that nothing further could be done. The mortgagee had to be disposed of and the proceeds used up. There was a bank draft of over $18,000, and what will seem almost incredible, they had induced the late John B. Gage to sign a check for $18,000, which never had a better friend) to put a mortgage for $5000 on his farm for the benefit of Grimby Park.

These are the ways in which the fees to cottagers were kept so low; any year there was a deficit, just well secured in his way out. In the year 1900 these debts were all over due and thousands of dollars of interest were being paid. He got the debts consolidated and succeeded in getting the high rates of interest greatly reduced. He got the bulk of the debt placed on a 4 per cent. basis and every dollar received from the sale of lots since the reorganization.

GRIMSBY PARK COTTAGERS FIND PLACE ALL RIGHT

A Contradiction of Statements Recently Made Reflecting on the Management.

GRIMSBY, Aug. 14.—Several articles have recently appeared in the press which have a tendency to convey an erroneous impression as to the present charges and those in vogue before the reorganization of the company, and evidently would like a return to those good days. These debentures were sold principally to parties of small means, young women and others who were attracted by the high rate of interest which was offered.

The proceeds of these debentures were regarded as ordinary income and not a dollar of sinking fund put away to meet them. The methods of financing the cottages were kept so low; any year there was a deficit, just well secured in his way out. In the year 1900 these debts were all over due and thousands of dollars of interest were being paid. He got the debts consolidated and succeeded in getting the high rates of interest greatly reduced. & PUBLIC 32 AMUSEMENTS No attraction presented in this city this season will cause so much comment as "The Top of the World," the very newest and up-to-date extravaganza which will be presented in this city at the Royal Alexandra Theatre for two weeks, beginning Aug. 28. It is in two acts and seven scenes. The company includes some 35 people, the chorus numbers 50 voices, who sing well and look pretty. Notable in the cast are: Anna Laughlin, William Rock, Kathleen Clifford, John McVeigh, Blanche Wayne, John D. Gilbert, Will F. Phillips and Arthur Hill. The book is by Mark E. Swan, lyrics by James O'Dea and the music by Manuel Klein and Anna Caldwell.

THE WORTH OF THE MONEY. Will the doctor please say where he can get all these services for less money? Now, it is well known the doctor thinks it is very mercenary for the shareholders to hope for dividends on their stock. Why in the name of common sense should not some return be given to those persons whose money has provided him and others all these comforts and pleasures for years? Why should the stockholders' property be confiscated, when it is what amounts to no dividends being paid? Take the case of Mr. John W. Gage of Bartonville. The bill for $32 is published as an evidence of the company's excessive charges, but this bill of $32 includes $18.00 arrears due in 1906; $5.50 for electric light in his house and $4 for ice. If he had added his bread, meat and milk bill it would have been still larger. A large majority of the cottagers have paid all park charges, those who have refused being less than a dozen families.

The Dangers of Cow's Milk

The whole country is awakened to the grave danger lurking in the Milk Supply of our large cities. Wherever milk is used that has not been properly safeguarded from the cow to the consumer, the infant mortality will always be high. After five years' investigation, the British Royal Commission on Tuberculosis confirms the theory of Von Behring, that tuberculosis of cows is a constant menace to the human race, and that consumption developed in later life has often been contracted in infancy, from tuberculous milk.

Nestle's Food

does not require the addition of milk in preparing it for use, as it is a complete diet in itself. Nestle's Food is cow's milk, treated and modified that it will be easily digested and will resemble mother's milk in its composition, as closely as possible. The milk supplied to the Nestle's factories is collected under the most rigid precautions, from the best cows, and is subjected to the constant supervision of a company's Veterinarians. Furthermore, the process of manufacture completely sterilizes the milk. This is fully set forth in our pamphlet, "Recent Work in Infant Feeding." A copy of this, with samples of "Nestle's Food," will be glad to send free by mail.
