Cold Weather Has Got To Bill; Poet Loosens Imagination

Nevertheless He Has Hopes of Cheap Meat Yet.

"I see there is a man in this here London who is going to raise buffalo meat, and he is one that will sell it at a reasonable price," remarked the Poet Bill today as he stepped in from the frozen north this morning.

"I guess we'll be able to get a slice of buffalo meat now," continued Bill, "but say," and this he emphysized with a warning wag of his index finger, if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, be if you are going to eat any of it, but the table is set in the middle to an extent which is most unusual. Seen and Heard Day-by-Day In The Down-Town District

Robert McHardy, representing the Christian Men's Federation, which has its headquarters in Toronto, is in the city this week in connection with a nation-wide movement to organize the men in congregations for the purpose of carrying on the work in their local churches. He is interviewing ministers and a number of laymen while here laying before them the desirability of thus mobilizing the man power in the churches for definite service.

Five or six local churches already have successful organizations along this line, among these St. Andrew's Presbyterian, Talbot Street Baptist and Askin Street Methodist.

The Christian Men's Federation movement in England has been growing apace in the past few years, and associated with it the "Sisterhood" movement for women.

How About Spirits' Union?

Toronto mediums recently called a meeting in order, as the press reports announced, "to consider the formation of a protective and progressive association for the furtherance of spiritual philosophy and religious freedom." One of the "common people" was heard to remark that now it would be up to the spirits to form a union and refuse to have anything to do with mediums who are not accredited members of the mediums organization. If this is ever brought to pass one cannot help wondering what will be the result. Will the spirit of a non-union man here be allowed to enter the spirits' organization.

James' Schoolroom. Notwithstanding the fact that this drama has been presented several times in the city, a large audience crowded the school room of St. James' Anglican Church, South London, last evening, thoroughly satisfied with the performance. The plot centres around some important documents being taken from London to Vienna, and involves the intrigue of foreign spies and the British secret service.

Sydney F. Sims again scored heavily in a clever impersonation of Dick Kent of the British secret service, who, to all intents and purposes is a "Cfever Club Johnny" who devotes his time to idleness. As Evelyn Thornton a true sloyal assistant to Kent in his operations against the trio of spies, Mrs. Caxton kept the house rocking with a audience C. D.
