Chicago Gossip.

Spader & Perkins to J. G. Beaty:
Wheat was steadier than the weak cables and the weather would have led one to expect. The trade was moderate and offerings not burdensome after the first hour, so there was a little realizing before the close.

The present condition seems more a speculative one than a commercial proposition. Sentiment is pretty universally bullish, with the locals all fixed for a possible adverse development and expecting something from the northwest to benefit them.

However, better weather dispelled all apprehension respecting harvesting in the winter wheat belt and there is nothing in sight now to lead one to anticipate other than a bountiful production in the other than a bountiful production in the futures creating no enthusiasm on the part of consumers either here or abroad.

Ennis & Stoppani wired to J. L. Mitchell:

Wheat—Ruled quiet and lower during early part of session, within narrow range. The coming holiday tended to restrict trading and continued apathy of outside interests is also largely responsible for dull markets A little better weather in Kansas easier cables, and favorable foreign news was responsible
