Mr. Thompson is quite confident that the western crop will exceed 15,000,000 bushels, and says that the production of oats, barley and flax is much greater than in any previous season.

After explaining in detail the great benefits conferred on the grain-growers by the confibuance of July weather, Mr. Thompson said that one of the most remarkable things to remember is that in no single section of the whole country has there been an absolute fallure of the crop. While it is quite true the weather has been too dry for fall plowing, yet in Saskatchewan he was told by experienced men that this did not really afford them any anxiety, as the great majority were inclined to favor spring plowing in that part of the country, as the fall plowing caused too rapid an evaporation of moisture.
