EVENTHING IN LADIES AND Gents' Talloring and Furn. Made to Gents' Talloring a

Providence, R. I., Feb. 8—The undergraduate in college nowadays is a better young man than was the student of a quarter century ago, in the opinion of Dean Otis E. Randall of Brown University.

In a statement made in which he considered recent criticisms that the average college student of the present was a "complicated ass, lacking in moral fibrand possessing little ambition other that to play cards, dance and play football, Dean Randall said that thirty years of experience with the undergraduates gave him reason to hold that the modern undergraduate had the following qualities dergraduate had the following qualities cate.

dergraduate had the following qualities as compared with his predecessors:

Is more amenable to discipline; has a larger capacity for work; has a keener interest in education and has a higher sense of integrity.

"They are broad minded, reasonable and most responsive to instruction and advice when once you have succeeded in winning their confidence and their respect." Dean Randal added: "They meet their deserved penalties and face their disappointments with far better grace than is often displayed by men of more mature years."

INDICT 2 ACCUSED OF DIVORCE PLOT

Lawyer and Detective Held on Testimony Furnished by Bar Association Counsel.

(New York Times.)

Judge McIntyre in general sessions yesterday released on $2,500 bail each of $3,7% and Edward J. May, who said he was a private detective, with an office at 5 Columbus Circle, following their indict-ment on charges of conspiracy to arrange a collusive divorce for Mrs. Eva S. Baltuck, formerly of 219 Audubon Avenue. Two indictments were return-147½ ed after an investigation by Chief Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pe-(New York Times.)

A divorce action was brought later by Mrs. Baltuck before Justice Seeger in the supreme court at White Plains. At first hearing a man testified that he was the night clerk in the hotel on the room there and that he witnessed the room there and that he witnessed the room there and that he witnessed the testified that he was the clerk in the other on the supreme court at White Plains. At a subsequent hearing, however, and other man appeared as a witness and the like yield leather of high quality, suitable for many purposes and attractive for travelling bags, brief cases, desk sets and the like. When the value of the livers for "cod-liver" oil and the availability of the flesh as a meal for feeding animals are taken into consideration, it seems obvious that there is an important future ahead of the shark fishery.

When informed of Abram's statement Mr. Pecora said:

"At the time the divorce action was in progress in the supreme court of Westchester county, Justice Seeger did not have before him the proofs which we have and which the bar association had. We got our proofs from Elnar Chrystie, counsel for the committee on Grienvance of the bar association. This evidence developed that Mrs. Baltuck retained Jacobs to try the divorce action against her husband in September, 1920. April, 1921, when, according to the alleg-

Jacobs sent for the husband and suggested that he consent to provide his wife with statutory grounds for divorce. Baltuck consented to do so, provided his wife wuold waive a claim for alimony and that Jacobs would waive counsel fees.

"After being given these assurances Baltuck called at Jacobs' office and met May, the private detective, who introduced him to a woman who said she was Miss Frances Gilbert. Baltuck was told that Miss Gilbert was to be the co-respondent in the divorce case. Reservation for a room in the Hotel de France was made over the telephone from Jacobs' room for 'Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin.' "Baltuck and Miss Gilbert and the detective with a satchel containing tele-phone books went to the hotel. After a few minutes May left the room, it was alleged, and met Mrs. Baltuck and her two brothers. They raided the room.
