Every housekeeper who is accustomed to shakers gives them each a different recommendation.

Not the least recommendation in their favor is the moderate cost of reliable shaker blankets.

Of course the quality of shakers we recommend are the commendable qualities we sell, we are unacquainted with the other kind except to cull them out.

We have them in white or grey.

Graduates of the Government Boat

James Summers, his lean form incased in a fur coat and wearing no collar, perpetrated an emaciated expression when Judge Ritchie motioned to him to stand up in court this morning. "You're charged with wandering about," said the Bench. "What have you to say?"

"Please sir, I've been working," volunteered the prisoner.

"Working?" The Judge surveyed the fur coat and the collarless shirt with renewed interest. "Working? You're Where?"

"On the government boat, y' honor!" Then the Bench leaned back with a sigh of weariness.

"Chief," he asked, "How many people have we had in court who have been working on the government boat?" "Couldn't count 'em," promptly responded Chief Clark.

"Seems like everyone we get up here charged with vagrancy says he's been working on that boat. Wonder how many of them ever saw her?"

Summers was remanded pending an investigation into a statement made that he was feeble-minded.

They Won't Get Home

Frederick Lea and David Guthrie, the latter with a bushy beard and a somewhat inflamed countenance, stumbled along Gibbon's wharf Saturday night convulsively chanting "We Won't Get Home until Mornin'!"

A cop just behind them interrupted: "I'm thinkin' ye won't be home for a couple o' months, by th' time Judge Ritchie gets through with you," he offered.

In court this morning both of them pleaded guilty. "Remanded," remarked Judge Ritchie, "until I get a chance to find out who sold a couple of wrecks like you two liquor."

IS THIS EXAMPLE OF "HONOR AMONG THIEVES?"

Times-Star Receives Alleged Confession Regarding Recent Burglaries—A Friend of Travis

The above letter, received by the Times-Star this morning, while possibly a hoax, may be a genuine example of "honor among thieves." The list of articles reported stolen corresponds with those spoken of by "J. S. R." with the exception of one item—the two pairs of boots which the self-confessed thief says he and his partner took from the horseless branch of Waterbury & Rising.

Officials of that store, asked by the Times yesterday, however, stated that it would have been quite possible for the thieves who secured the small change in the store on Thursday to have taken two pairs of boots, or fifty if they wanted them, and that the store had not missed the two pairs.

St. John, N. B., Sept. 20.

Editor of Times and Star.

I've been taking great interest in the John Travis case who is in jail now for breaking and entering Eatery on Dock St., well what I might say that Travis is an honest man, it was me and other man who did it. Well what he got in Eatery was 2 25c scrips and 65 cts in Silver and we took 2 Rubber coats also Mr Eatery didn't say anything about them we needed them badly. We secured a ladder on Campbell's axe factory and carried it over about 6.30 that night and broke in there at 7 o'clock sharp, we knew there wouldn't be any Police men around there that time. We also got into Waterbury and Rising on Thursday night at about 12.30 we only got some small change and we took also a pair of Boots each, which I am warning now. Hoping you will let this be printed one who is sorry for Travis I remain yours truly one who got into Eatery.

Did You Ever Try Dulse For a Regular Smoke?

An infinite fortune in weeds is clinging to the rocks off the St. John coast according to a local man who spoke to a Times reporter yesterday.

The reporter had run out of tobacco and asked the local man for some. The latter produced a pouch and offered a queer looking mixture to the newspaperman who took it and stuffed a liberal pipeful into his old jimmy.

He took one puff and then removed the stem from his mouth with a puzzled look.

"That's mighty good tobacco," he said "would you get it?"

"That," said the local man, proudly, "isn't tobacco at all. It's dulse." "The dulse it is!" The reporter began knowing the stuff out of his pipe hastily but the donor of the tobacco stopped him.

"Don't do that," he said. "It won't hurt you. I've smoked dulse for five years. An old sailor who had been shipwrecked without any tobacco and who had discovered the fragrant smoke sent forth by this seaweed put me wise to it and I've smoked it ever since. It's better than tobacco and there isn't any nicotine or any other harmful ingredient in it."

"But how does it light so well with the salt in it?" asked the reporter.

"Oh, it has to be boiled first to take the salt out and you dry it in front of a fire or in the sun until it gets jet black. Then all you have to do is crumple it up and smoke it."

The reporter went away with vague notions of immediately securing capital for the erection of a dulse factory.

WILL STOP THE SPITTING

"Spitting in public places in St. John has got to be stopped! As I came up the stairs here today I noticed an excruciating and in the fine new Imperial theatre Saturday some great big fool began spitting tobacco juice all over the carpet. Spitting in this town has got to be stopped, and I'm going to stop it if the police will haul the offenders before me."

Thus did Judge Ritchie in police court this morning put his foot down—not on the expectorations but on the violations of the spitting law.

"Who knows how many cases of tuberculosis have been caused right here in St. John by the careless and criminal habit of spitting in public places?" he demanded, glaring at the Times reporter as though he suspected him of committing the indiscretion on the stairs before referred to. "Why, men have even been spitting in the churches—in Trinity even. Just bring a man like that before me and see what'll happen to him!"

"Lord love ye, there's lots of places. I got mine at th' West End House."

"Oh! You did, eh? Well, we'll investigate that. Remanded."

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22—Free entry of wood pulp and paper to be granted by the treasury today to Belgium and Denmark, under the favored nation clause of their treaties.
