

BOY ARTIST WINS FAME IN ILLNESS

Edmond Barry Was Telegraph
Messenger Boy While Working at Pictures.

WOODSTOCK, N. Y., April 16.—No one knew much about Edmond Barry when he trudged with a slight limp into this community of artists last July. He was a shy youth and he didn't say much about himself.

When he got a job taking telegraph messages relayed by telephone from Kingston, the metropolis of this Catskill region, he became less reticent and people learned that he had limped from New York City because he wanted to be an artist. He, too, in company with many famous members of the American art world, had come to Woodstock to follow the gleam.

Even then no one knew that Edmond's small salary at the telegraph office was all the money he had, and when the office was closed last fall Edmond stayed on and began spending his meager savings for food and fuel.

Sent to Hospital.

Two weeks ago, after having survived the rigors of the mountain winter and fed himself less and less frequently as his money diminished, he collapsed. Neighbors found him virtually in a state of coma and he was sent to the hospital.

Two days later, in the immaculate white exhibition hall that has housed the work of George Bellows and other established artists, the walls were lined with the work of Edmond Barry. The exhibit was announced by the board of governors and the community flocked to it. The boy had finished seventy-five drawings and water colors during his hermit-like winter in Woodstock and a dozen of these were auctioned, bringing $300.

NOTED ARTIST DIES.

LONDON, April 15.—John Sargent, the noted artist, died suddenly at his home in Chelsea this morning.

Mr. Sargent suffered a stroke at 8 o'clock and died a few hours later.

N. S. TO GET CAR OF FOOD.
