Fishing is deep water no doubt costs much more than near the store, owing to the expense of traps and great loss by storms, and can only be prosecuted during the early months of the season. The hongentleman says that packers generally want to have the close season as it now exists.

The freezing of salmoa, and shipping them fresh, has almost done away with the canning of that fish in the Maritime Province and so it will be with lobsters in local and so it will be with local and so it will be with lobsters in local and so it will be with local inces, and so it will be with lobsters in after years; for even now the margin on canned lobsters has been reduced to the lowest possible point. I hope, therefore, that the Acting Minister will do everything in his power to foster among the people of the Lower Provinces the trade which, by every appearance, will be the trade of the future. The fall which has taken place in the trade has been owing largely, if not exclusively, to the number of people who have gone into the business, and the fact that the fish caught on the muddy bottoms in parts of Prince Elward Island and New Brunswick are of a dark color, and that they are mixed with the brighter lobsters when sent to the markets of Europe, gives a character to our exports to Europe of that article which is not favorable, and which has its effect in de pressing the trade.

Mr. Haddow.
