TRAGEDIES.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 9.—Geo. W. Lonsdale who yesterday shot and killed his 11-year-old daughter Alice, shot his wife in the head, attempted to shoot a boarder, James W. Turner, and then put a bullet into his own brain, was still alive tonight. He is not expected to recover, though his condition has remained practically unchanged since his removal to the Rhode Island Hospital. It is believed that his wife's condition shows improvement.

WALLINGFORD, Conn., June 9.—One man was drowned and two others had narrow escapes when a boat containing four fishermen was overturned in the Community Lake today. The man drowned was Andrew Lenart, a Hungarian, about 40 years old. He was standing in the stern of the boat to draw in his line when he lost his balance and went overboard. He was immediately clambered to the stern to assist their comrade, but their action capsize the boat. Lenart's body was recovered some time afterwards. His leaves a daughter and a brother.

BOSTON, Mass., June 8.—James Kirrane, aged 14, a caddy at the Brookline Country Club Golf Links, while illustrating "some shots which he had seen made by players on a golf course" yesterday struck another caddy, William Strain, aged 15, in the head with his club, killing him instantly. Although the mishap was thought to be accidental, the police decided to bring a charge of manslaughter against young Kirrane. The body was released on bail.

NEW YORK, June 8.—The lives of half a hundred persons were imperiled and a number of others were injured when a fire broke out in a ten-story building at Broadway and Great Street this afternoon. Many employes, mostly women, of factories on the upper floors whose escape was cut off by smoke and flames, reached an adjoining roof by jumping from windows and others slid down an improvised fire escape which some of the cooler heads had provided out of a long line of hose, a part of the fire apparatus of the building. By the time the last person had slid down, the hose was covered with blood from the hands torn in the rapid descent.

GRANTEE FALLS, Minn., June 9.—Entangled in the ropes of a parachute, John Peeper, an aeronaut of Utica, N. Y., met death yesterday as he was descending in the Minnesota River. Peeper ascended last evening.

HAYVERHILL, Mass., June 8.—Albert C. Jenkins, aged 25, engaged in the retail leather business here, was found dead in a bath-tub today at his lodging house, 70 Merrimack street. Assistant Medical Examiner Anthony found that death had been caused by heart failure and the body had probably been in the tub over night. The body was partly boiled by the water, showing that the young man had probably fallen in while preparing a bath. He was engaged to be married to Miss Mabel Baker, daughter of Theodore Baker, a well known business man of Hayverhill and the young lady is prostrated by the death. The young man is survived by his father.

NEW YORK, June 8.—A thousand men, women and children were panic-stricken at the cry of fire raised by a boy in the Gotham Theatre, Brooklyn, this afternoon during the performance. There was a wild scramble for the exits and the play house was soon cleared. Broken torn clothes and scorched faces, and many bruises, it was found that nobody was seriously hurt.

YAZOO CITY, Miss., June 8.—In a race clash near this place late today three negroes were killed, four white men were wounded and two negroes severely whipped.

NEW YORK, June 8.—A negro who described himself as Paul Point, 19 years old, of No. 152 Church street, Charleston, S. C., and said he came to this city a few days ago and got work as a strike breaker at one of the steamship piers, narrowly escaped a possible lynching at the hands of an infuriated crowd today after he had shot and seriously wounded a man and a boy and had fired several shots at a policeman who sought to capture him. He was finally arrested after a long chase. A detail of police had much difficulty in getting the negro to a place of safety. The negro fired into a crowd getting off a ferry boat at the foot of Barclay street. He later said he was attacked by trunk longshoremen, but the police could not verify this statement. The TREE FOUNTAIN.

An extraordinary curiosity is to be seen in the Swiss village of Gunten, on Lake Thun. It takes the form of a natural tree fountain, the water flowing continuously from a spout high up in the tree. About twenty years ago the water from a spring was conducted through a shaft, and the supply pipe was directed through the cut trunk of a young poplar tree which was rammed in the ground. After a short time the trunk rotted, branches followed, and now there is a splendid top growth.

MISSIONARY AND HIS FAMILY STONED

17no Mob in India Attack Lorimer Porter and Burn His Home.

Mother Protects Her Babe—Forcible Them to Flee to Street and Chase Them to Refuge.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 9.—Attacked by a mob of Hindus at Raval Pindi, India. Lorimer Porter, an American missionary, and his wife and child had a narrow escape from death recently and were saved only through the aid of students from a missionary college settlement.

After a shower of stones and other missiles had shattered all the windows in the Porter home, the mob set fire to the house, and it was destroyed with its contents, which included wedding gifts of almost priceless value. The disturbance grew so great eventually that a squadron of British cavalry was sent to patrol the district.

In a letter just received by her father, William L. Bassett, of this city, Mrs. Porter stated a graphic version of the onslaught, which, she says, was due to an unpopular act by the British Governor, with whom they were thought to be in sympathy.

Her first knowledge of trouble, she writes, was when "our native cook rapped on the door and cried out in Hindustani. A crowd of Hindus was in the yard and stones were being hurled, breaking windows everywhere."

"The mob started to pick up after us. I was struck by a stone, but the baby was not hurt."

"Finally, we reached the house for which we were making, which was occupied by a Mr. Morton, but the infuriated mob followed and stormed that house, breaking the windows and glass doors."

"Mr. Morton and another man who had been a soldier eventually stopped the fusillade by barricading the stairway. In the meantime some of the college boys from the missionary settlement had come to our aid, and they went out and tried to explain to the leaders of the mob that the persons were attacking were not responsible for what the Governor had done."

"The mob had just come from the Court House, where there had been a hearing about some measure they did not like, and they would not listen to reason."

"Their purpose evidently was to do harm to all persons who they thought to be in sympathy with the British government."

"When finally the mob was brought under control and driven away we found that our house was on fire. The Hindus had started the fire in the drawing room and everything there was destroyed or ruined, including chairs, tables, desks, pictures and the piano, breaking the windows and glass doors."

"All our wedding gifts were lost and the cut glass was broken. Locks of chests in which the silverware was kept were forced off and the silver was strewn about. Some of the spoons and forks were afterward picked up in the yard."

"All the chinaware and the clocks were destroyed, and Mr. Porter's desk was smashed into kindling wood, the books and papers being scattered everywhere."

It was only after the arrival of the British soldiers, Mrs. Porter adds, that order was restored.

THE LIMIT OF POLITENESS.

(Yarmouth Herald.)

While on the subjects of flags it is just as well to note that there is much ostentation shown by many of our visitors over their flag. As soon as they acquire a piece of property in this country, they at once flaunt their flag over it. I wonder how they would like us to fly the Union Jack over a house daily in their own land. There is a lot of talk about it, and, to say the least, bad taste displayed in their flaunting their national emblem while sojourning in foreign countries.

While we are glad to have these visitors among us, and will use every exertion to make their visits pleasant and happy, we must draw the line somewhere, and no better point can be made than at flag flying.

FALLS 35 FEET; JEBBS FRACTURE.

Little "Fan," His Skull Fractured, in His Agony Criticizes McGraw's Pitcher.

(New York Herald.)

Two thousand seven hundred and sixty-three men and boys gathered about the Brooklyn Bridge entrance on the Manhattan side groaned as the final score, 3 to 2 in favor of Chicago, was posted on the bulletin board.

"The Giants lost!" shouted the boys, and as the "fans" separated a crash of glass was heard and the crowd saw a small boy shoot down through the glass top of one of the subway kiosks at the north entrance to the subway.

The boy fell twenty-five feet to an asphalt landing, and was picked up with a possible fracture of the skull.

As Dr. Beauvais carried the lad off to the hospital in Hudson street the victim moaned:

"I could have pitched a better game than that."

In the hospital the police found out that he was Luke Nally, fifteen years old, of No. 18 Franklin avenue, Brooklyn. He with others had climbed to the kiosk to read the ball bulletins.
