

LOCAL AND PROVINCIAL.

E. S. Sniley, of Moncton, who succeeds W. G. Robertson as I. C. R. divisional freight agent, has taken his position. Mr. Sniley is well known in St. John and is warmly welcomed by friends who made his acquaintance while he was here as Mr. Robertson's clerk.

Rev. D. Henderson, of St. Andrew's church, Chatham, was enthusiastically voted a two months' holiday by his congregation last spring. The reverend gentleman took advantage of the kindness of his church and visited Europe and Paris. He returned by the Puritan last week and arrived on Friday evening in Chatham, where he was given a cordial welcome from his people.

An engagement was announced in New York Monday in which Mr. John Young people will be interested. It was that of Miss Dorothy Matlow, daughter of Robert Matlow, of Concordia Point, and Rev. Mr. Oulton, of New York, the curate of the Episcopal church presided over by Rev. Dr. Lindsey Parker, who is one of the annual summer visitors to St. John. Both young people are very popular and their many friends will extend congratulations.

On Friday morning last, fire broke out in a barn owned by W. J. Groat, of Newcastle. He lost hay and straw, a valuable cow and several pigs and a quantity of rigging, in all valued at about $150.

While the steamer Miramichi was running between Bay du Vin and Oak Point, Northumberland county, on Thursday evening last, a six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Russell, of Newcastle, fell overboard. Captain Bullock and one of the crew put out in a boat, but could not recover the lad. The little fellow was travelling with his mother on the steamer.

Pilot Richard Scott had a narrow escape from drowning Sunday morning. While walking along the wharf at Lower Cove slip his foot slipped and he was precipitated in the water. Mr. Scott managed to keep himself afloat, but was very much exhausted when rescued by Michael Rourke, who happened to be passing. Mr. Scott sustained a severe shock and that, with the wetting he received, caused him considerable suffering.

A WOMAN PRISONER.

Amherst Officer Passes Through the City With Girl Named Lena Adams in Charge.

Among the passengers on the Saturday noon Boston express were Police Officer Simpson, of Amherst (N. S.), and a prisoner named Lena Adams, who was arrested in Fredericton Thursday morning on suspicion of stealing $100 on July 26 from her employer, Mrs. Sarah Aboud, of Amherst, with whom she was employed as a servant.

The Adams woman, who belongs in Woodville, arrived in Amherst July 22 and took service with Mrs. Aboud. A few days later a trunk in the house was robbed of $100. Before the loss was discovered Miss Adams had left town.

The local police were acquainted with what had happened, and a description of the woman was sent to provincial points. On Thursday, July 31, came word that a woman named Adams and answering the description had been arrested in Fredericton. Officer Simpson left Amherst for Fredericton, and recognizing the prisoner, took her for escort back to Amherst.

No money has been found in her possession. She has a married sister in St. John. Officer Simpson left here with his prisoner on the late train Saturday for Amherst.

The Beauties of Cape Breton.

E. L. Skilling, who has returned from Cape Breton, where he has been on business, The Sydney Record has this to say of his work there:

"The Beauties of Cape Breton" is the title of the Daily Record midsummer souvenir number—a publication which is meeting with much favor. It comprises eight pages of illustrated matter printed on fine cream paper, and contains valuable information concerning the industry and commercial houses of the Sydney and other parts of Cape Breton. The half-tone views include a number of the many beautiful spots throughout the island, which during this season of the year are being enjoyed by American and Canadian tourists. The publication reflects great credit upon the taste and enterprise of its compiler, E. L. Skilling, of St. John (N. B.).

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

P. E. Islanders Will Come to Exhibition To the Editor of The Telegraph:—Sir,—Thinking you might be interested to know what the people in P. E. Island are saying about the St. John exhibition after talking with more than 1,000 men and women in Summerside, Cape Breton and Charlottetown, I have come to this conclusion:—First, they believe, Sir, John is going to do his best to have the greatest show they ever had, and they are going to succeed. They all say that scores are going from here, and by the time I have got from end to end of this island with these advertising horses, there will be more people anxious to go. Nothing suits these island folks like good horse flesh, and I expect your committee on races is making great preparations so that all will be pleased.

Yours truly,

HON. ARTHUR PETERS.

P. E. Island's Premier, in the City Saturday, Talked of Coronation Visit and Colonial Meetings.

"I feel doubtful if the coronation of King Edward VII will take place on the date set." This was one of a number of interesting statements made to a Telegram representative by Hon. Arthur Peters, premier of P. E. Island, Saturday morning. Hon. Mr. Peters has just returned from London, where he went as the representative of his province to the coronation ceremonies and the conference of the colonial premiers. Owing to the postponement of the coronation Mr. Peters was, however, obliged to return without witnessing that spectacle.

Referring to King Edward's health, Mr. Peters made the statement quoted above and supplemented it by saying that he saw the king carried from his carriage when starting on a trip to Portsmouth and at that time he was apparently a very sick man. His opinion was that the king's condition is more serious than generally believed, as the bulletin issued by the physicians are calculated to create the most favorable impressions.

King Edward has displayed a marvelous amount of nerve and will power all through his illness and Premier Peters' opinion is that if the coronation does come off as scheduled it will be because the king insists upon it. The postponement, coupled with the illness of the colonial secretary, naturally interfered with the great incidental events of the occasion. Particularly was this the case with the conferences of the premiers which, Mr. Peters thinks, will not result in any immediate changes of the Imperial federation may eventually develop into a tangible movement but the probability is at present remote.

Speaking of the colonial secretary, who were in London at the time, Mr. Peters says our own Sir Wilfrid was easily the captain of them all. "He is head and shoulders over them all," he says, "and he is the only one of them who is not a Canadian." Mr. Peters' opinion of Canada's first minister is also an important factor which has contributed to his success in the Imperial federation movement.

Asked as to the treatment accorded the provincial premiers in London, Mr. Peters said they were shown every attention. Nothing was too good for them and in fact they were unable to avail themselves of all the kind courtesies extended.

The Canadian soldiers composing the coronation contingent, who were quartered in Alexandria palace and this arrangement was not wholly satisfactory to them, the principal objection being that it was too far from the city.

A military tattoo on a grand scale was to have been one of the features of the coronation ceremonies but it was evidently not impressed with it, as he says it was "a fiasco." Most of the provincial premiers were present but the morning following the display the management of the palace sent a written apology.

The statement that the administration was charged to the Canadians in camp, Mr. Peters says, is correct. Premiers and other guests of the nation were being quartered in the fact was exacted from all private sight-seers.

SLAUGHTER HOUSES.

INSPECTOR HITS STRAIGHT IN REPORT TO BOARD.

Very Bad Conditions at Places Where Meat Supply is Secured, Says Dr. Simon—Kane & McGrath Ask Board's Support for Abattoir Plan.

At a meeting Friday afternoon of the slaughter house commissioners the following schedule of killing for the month was presented:—

Cattle	11
Sheep	235
Calves	15
Swine	11
John Damery	346
John McGraith	212
W. McEwen	12
P. O'Connor	9
Total	416

Inspector Simon's report of the state of the buildings was the subject of the meeting. The condition of the buildings and surroundings are the same as they previously have been for years—dirty, foul smelling, full of flies and bacteria, with a water supply of the vilest sort, particularly that used for washing the carcasses, which is carried in buckets and, after the first dip of the towel, is nothing but dirty, greasy, bloody fluid. Unless a full supply of running water is accessible at these places, it is impossible for an inspector to give such direction and instruction to the licensees as if any judgment are urgently called for. The absence of drainage causes liquid refuse to lie in the superficial ditches about the premises, and as decomposition is very rapid in hot weather, the foul odors are very offensive.

A communication was received from Kane & McGrath in the form of a petition to the common council with the request from the senders that the signatures of the commissioners be attached thereto. Following is a copy:—

To the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of St. John:
Gentlemen—We, the commissioners of the slaughter houses in and for the city and county of St. John, have long recognized the great need that exists for one good slaughter house for the city and county of St. John where all animals can be properly examined before slaughtering and the meats properly cooled before being sent to the consumers. The plans submitted by Messrs. Kane & McGrath, of this city, for such a building and have inspected the site chosen for its erection, namely the old Calverton mill, so called, in the city, and have approved of both plans and the site.

Dated this 1st day of August, 1902.
Commissioner Berryman moved that Mr. McGraith be advised of the receipt of their communication.—Carried.

Questioned concerning the water supply at the baths, Inspector Simon stated that Mr. McGraith had been advised of the receipt of their communication.—Carried.

On Sunday Rev. C. T. Phillips preached at 11 o'clock. Rev. A. J. Rideout spoke at 4.30 o'clock and Rev. A. J. Prosser at 7.30 o'clock. The pulpit of the Baptist churches on the island were occupied at the day service by the visiting clergymen.

Commissioner Frank said that the water supply, along with other glaring wants of the city, 100 feet or less than a reflection upon the board. He recommended a vigorous, radical policy a measure that would get the root of the slaughter house difficulties and work a pronounced reform throughout.

The commissioners will visit the places. Mr. McGraith has been advised of the receipt of their communication.—Carried.

OLD HOME WEEK OF THE INDIANS IN KENT.

Sons of the Forest Back to the Paternal Wigwag at St. Anns—Gather from the Three Maritime Provinces.

One of the interesting places to which hundreds of people besides Indians pay an annual pilgrimage at this season of the year is the Millicent Indian reservation of St. Anne, at Big Cove, about nine miles from Rexton, Kent county. It is purely however an Indian festival so far as the performers are concerned and every 26th July, at the anniversary festival of their saint, an elaborate programme of ceremonies and festivities is begun.

On last Saturday the occasion was no exception to the rule and visitors from St. John who have just returned from a week of observation of these relics of our aboriginal race, tell interesting stories of the curious features of the occurrences.

There were present about 500 of the Indians, including braves, squaws and other adherents of the tribe, who came from the four points of the compass, crossing in canoes from P. E. Island, and coasting along shore in similar craft for many days to reach the place from various points in northern Nova Scotia, others coming by train and still others having walked as far as from the state of Maine directly through the woods for a short cut as did their ancestors in olden times. The greetings of longlost friends are said to have been typically dignified but none the less affecting, and the family reunions, the relationship of the members of which is maintained upon records known only to the Indians themselves, are said to have been quite as touching as those of any New England "old home week" ever celebrated.

Of course the opening religious services which were very impressive and quaint, but the great programme of entertainment which followed included all varieties of secular enjoyment. There is always on such an occasion a three-days programme, and the way in which all the events are actively and enthusiastically participated in, without any printed order, is said to reflect great credit upon the methodical system of the Indians. Often the three-days are extended and elaborated by sports developed from the regular programme. There were this year as usual all sorts of foot races, canoe, swimming and other water events; dances, with a single violin in a big tent, to weird music, and a concert by an elaborate choir imported for the occasion from the United States. At these events the gentlemen of the tribe, rejoicing in such nomenclature as Joe Littlejohn, Paul St. Paul, Frank St. Francis, etc., aimed in true sportsmanlike style to outdo their brethren of the tribe.

The visitors were not only interested in the events, but in the local establishments of the Millicents which, beside a school house, church and various permanent wigwags, include a fantastic and monstrous wooden cross of peculiar design. This cross is more than 20 feet high, painted white and the main post surmounted by a cross, cut out of metal and painted red. Upon the cross arm are various symbols, such as a coil of wire and unique inscriptions, while upon the lower part of the post is engraved a face and a serpent, terribly painted in permanently livid colors. Also from the cross arm are a ladder, a spear, darts, etc. The whole arrangement is maintained within a fenced enclosure and treated with reverential awe by the tribesmen.

An important Greek play has been discovered by the German Oriental Society at Abois, near Sakskara, in Egypt. It contains the dithyramb on the Persian wars by Timotheus of Miletus, a poet who lived about 400 before Christ, the poem only had been preserved. The poem is long and is the first specimen of that kind of poetry that has come to light. The manuscript itself is the oldest of all Greek papyrus known, and is thought probably to be the fourth century before Christ.

American brewers have already invested $4,000,000 in and about Havana.

STATEMENT REFUTED.

Sydney Major's Charge Exploded by Reference to Local Militia Conditions.

The Sydney Post the other day published the following:—
"At the meeting of the general committee on the celebration of Coronation day, a motion was passed to the effect that Captain McNeill of No. 5 Company of Infantry be asked to recruit men for that day. Captain McNeill met at once comply with the request and it is to be said that his men will present a splendid appearance that day. Yesterday Major Gillis ordered the necessary supply of blank cartridges."

In discussing the matter of the battery and infantry taking part in the celebration Major Gillis, who is exceedingly well conversant with the military movements in Canada and elsewhere, made the statement that not one dollar was being expended by the Canadian government in military drills, and this he said in reference to the foregoing article, particularly that part of it referring to the statement that not one dollar was being expended by the Canadian government in military drills. Major Sturdee did not place any credence in Major Gillis' assertion, and instanced this, that in the case of his own regiment, blank ammunition had been furnished upon application.

"SOMEBODY TRIPPED ME!" WHO IS HE?

GOT THE CHILD AWAY.

Incident St. John People Encountered While at Sydney Junction.

Friday morning last travellers from North Sydney were witnesses to an unusual scene at the junction station where trains crossed, with the result that the platform, walking on an excited man, was a young woman who was protecting a child about a year and a half old from a rough looking man. As the train which carried the man and the woman stepped on the platform the man was about to catch hold of the woman when he was prevented. A policeman then stepped up and warned the man not to touch the woman. A few moments later the child was handed over to another young woman who went on board the train which carried the man and the woman. The man was then seen to express for St. John and the first mentioned woman was left on the platform. It appears that the second woman, who went on board the train with the child, is a sister of the child's mother. She resided in Boston and received letters from her married sister, whose husband's name is Holland, at Sydney, that he was continually drunk and neglectful as well as abusing her. They had a year and a half old boy whom she wanted to get clear of the rough father and when the child was safe she would enter proceedings for a separation. The sister, who came from Boston and spent a few days with her abused sister in Sydney, where it appears everything was arranged for the taking away of the child. When the regular train left Sydney Friday morning among the passengers were the mother, her child and her sister. At the junction station the second woman, who had her wife left with her, leaving that loved on a special freight train and, thinking her wife at the station, tried to take the child by force but was outwitted by the woman and the fair haired little youngster with his sun-kissed cheeks, who was the child's mother, and is probably now in Boston.

CYCLONE STRIKES ST. CATHERINES.

Considerable Damage Done in Ontario City by Furious Wind Storm.

St. Catharines, Ont., Aug. 3.—(Special).—The city was struck by a cyclone this afternoon. Several thousand dollars of damage was done property. No lives were lost. A large, funnel-shaped cloud formed in a northerly direction and moved over the city with wonderful rapidity. It blew out the end of the North St. Catharines Train railway car barn, a new brick structure. It picked up a freight car and threw it several yards. Huge trees were torn up and the road blocked. Along Court street parts of roofs are gone and yards and roads blocked. Scarcely a chimney is left standing in this vicinity. The Division street fared worst. Houses on both sides were unroofed. The telephone and other wires are tangled in a mass. The storm struck across the Welland canal, throwing the water high in the air.

On Lord Derby's Westmoreland estate, in England, the ancient custom—observed only once in a century—of walking the boundary has just been held. Halls were made along the 16 miles of route and sports held. At the close the party, numbering several hundreds, adjourned to a hotel, where a bullock had been roasted whole and there were more sports.

MAINE EQUITY MILL CASE IS DECIDED.

Question of Dumping Refuse Into Maine River from Saw and Pulp Mills.

Augusta, Me., Aug. 1.—In the somewhat vexatious suit brought by the Lockwood Company and the Hollingsworth & Whitney Co., of Waterville, against various sawmill and pulp mill owners, in Kennebec, Somerset and Franklin counties, which has been on trial in the Supreme court at different times for several months, Judge Williams removed a decision today in favor of the plaintiffs and will grant a perpetual injunction against the owners of 46 sawmills and three pulp mills prohibiting them from throwing saw mill refuse, sawdust or screenings into the Kennebec river or its tributaries.
