of Florida and without wishing to cast any imputations on the general character of its citizens for integrity and morality, we still think that it has a class of in habitants which it would be desirable to get rid of, and the immigration of which it would not be wise to encourage. Thus the other day on the bank of the river which rejoices in the brief and melodious name of Caloosoohatchee, a Mr. Weeks found one of these inhabitants carrying off a cow, Having a rifle in his hand, he killed this inhabitant—did Mr. Weeks—and sent a friend one of his teeth, which was five inches long, with a hollow large enough to hold a box of matches—say a ten cent box. The inhabitant, who thus came to a well deserved, but untimely end, had but one name—Alligator. DANIELA BOYD. Executor's Notice. chancellor do not appear to have exhausted all the information the police possess on the subject.

Experiments made within the past six months have developed the astounding fact in natural magic that four messages can be sent over a single wire as readily as two, and that through messages and local ones can be sent without interfering with one another over the same wire. While messages are being simultaneously exchanged between Boston and New York, two more can be sent on the same wire between Boston and Woreester; two between Boston and Woreester; two between Worcester and Springfield, and two between Springfield and New Haven or New York, making in all eight separate and distinct messages crossing and recrossing on one wire at the same moment of time.

An important industry has grown up in Scotland, consisting in the use of calcined granite as a substitute for clay in the manufacture of pipes and other earthenware articles, the material being found capable of standing a strong fire, and is unaffected by transitions of heat and cold. The native color of the stone is nearly retained in the formation of busts, statues, vases, urns, and general pottery, is a also in chimney pieces, spouts, &c. In such articles as are intended to with stand the effects of great heat, where an extract only of the stone is used, the color cannot be kept so well; but any preparation of the material, when once properly finished, may be heated to whiteness without injury.
