

A " Bill to amend an Act for regulating the exportation of Butter."

A " Bill to appropriate the Public Revenue."

And after which that His Honor had been pleased to make the following Speech to both Houses.

*" Gentlemen of the Council, and
" Gentlemen of the Assembly,*

" The Business of the present Session is now finished, but I cannot dismiss you without a public acknowledgement of the attention, unanimity, and perseverance with which your deliberations have been conducted.

" Gentlemen of the Assembly,

" The provisions made for enabling the Treasurer to make immediate payment to the public creditors will prevent a repetition of the evils complained of, while the liberal supplies which you have granted, must in a short time satisfy all demands that can be made on the Treasury.

" The establishment for the encouragement and support of Literature will, I hope, be productive of the happiest effects in preparing the rising generation to tread in the footsteps of their parents, and enabling them to contend with the foremost in the cause of loyalty, and in a steady attachment to the British Constitution.

*" Gentlemen of the Council, and
" Gentlemen of the Assembly,*

" The call on the Country by the regulations of the Militia is of essential importance, and when those regulations shall be carried into execution by a zealous people, they will, I doubt not, contribute effectually to our future peace and safety.

" I now dismiss you, Gentlemen, from further attendance at present in General Assembly; and recommend it to you to cultivate among your neighbours that harmony and public spirit without which no Country can be, nor indeed deserves to be prosperous."

And then that the Clerk of the Crown by His Honor's command had declared the General Assembly to be prorogued to the first TUESDAY in JUNE next.
