Page Four

0

THE BRUNSWICKAN

Wednesday, October 19, 1955

BUTCH BOUCHARD, JOEY GEORGE JOIN PHIL BIRD ON INJURY LIST

O MORE BOI

Saturday, for the second straight week, provided UNB Red Bombers with a NBCRFU credit and some crippling injuries. This last Saturday saw Bombers outscore Saint John Wanderers 1911 and lose the services of flashes Butch Bouchard and Joey George, maybe for the remainder of the season.

Bouchard, a frosh sensation, was in top form in the quarterback slot as he hauled off a 40-yard hike in the dying minutes of the first half only to be hit hard and shipped to hospital with a slight concussion. At press time, it was uncertain when he would be back in Red and Black.

George, a tough luck performer in past years, suffered a torn cartilege in the second half and team officials fear he is through for 1955. Previous to his misfortune, the ace fullback steamrolled around left end for his third TD of the year, to total on the local side

Their loss set Bombers back on their heels and the defending provincial champions were brought to a standstill in the second half after piling up a 19-point margin. It wasn't as close as the score indicated because the final Wanderer major came on the game's last scrimmage - but it was close enough to cause some wondering in the UNB camp.

UNB Meets Tommies Saturday

The side-lining of Bouchard and George brings to three the number of UNB backfield stars put out of action in two games. In Bombers' opener, which was won over Coverdale Navy-Trojans 32-0, Phil Bird suffered a broken ankle and was forced into premature retirement for the fall.

All this makes Bombers' next task aginst St. Thomas University in Chatham this Saturday more difficult than normal. UNB's arch-rival always proves a rugged assignment and, with men like Bird, Bouchard and George probably out of action, the picture now takes on an even more threatening hue.

Bombers' third tilt will be something of a paradox. Although the NBCRFU's regular season crown will be at stake, the contest actually doesn't matter too much since all four entries in the fold are to take part in the post-season playoffs. It's more of a prestige effort.

A loss, however, might hurt the Red and Black in the morale department. Bombers, conceivably, could be hurt mentally by a loss to the Tommies of Vance Toner. And that sometimes is as bad as being beaten mathematically.

To Be In Tilt Up To Hilt

UNB coach Gerald (Moose) Flemming isn't making any predictions as to the outcome but he does say his charges will be in the tilt up to the hilt all the way and, if Tommies do manage to win, they'll at least know they were involved in a real grid game. "But lose three guys like we have and you can't be sure of winning anything," the coach adds ruefully. Against Saint John at College Field, Bombers really went to town in the first third of the tilt before injuries disrupted the impressive victory march. In the first half, Bombers outrushed Wanderers 305-55, outcredited them in the first-down category 13-4 and ran up three touchdowns, two converts and as many rouges. Mike O'Connor led the UNB scoring with a touchdown, two converts and a rouge. He cradled a 50-yard heave from Bouchard in

Lord Beaverbrook Attends

left can be seen Pete Kelly, football band owes its existence credit must be extended to the Great Britain And Halifax Report:

Football Means Different Things To This Boy And Girl

By Rocky Knight My first duty to the readers is to run up my colors. I am newly from England and have been weaned on soccer, rugger, and of course, cricket. This, then, is not a course but an impression my first report, but an impression, my first impression, of Canadian Football. I must, therefore, beg indulgence

I must, therefore, beg indulgence for any misinterpretation I might make of the game. Having seated myself in the midst of an obviously experienced crowd, if judged by the advice liberally offered to the referee, I waited for the appearance of the players. With the crowd, I stood at the entrance of the Red Bom-bers' dressing room. On they ran, padded as if ready to shoulder an avalanche, and helmeted to protect the cranium from undue damage. Many seemed to have lost their Many seemed to have lost their Many seemed to have lost then heads in their shoulders.—Did Dar-win predict this? I was puzzled by what appeared to be the numerous black eyes being sported — ob-viously badges of courage honorably won in previous encounters. Strewn With Bodies The kicking of the ball opened the game and from then on I could find little justification for the name Canadian Football. Hands shoulders seemed to take control. Within a few minutes, the field was spattered with bodies, knocked down for no apparent reason ex-cept that they had the wrong colored shirts on. I was so sadisti-cally enthralled by this clash of human flesh that I completely lost track of the ball. So I settled down to follow its passage. This proved my undoing—where did the ball get to? There is a cluster as if one uncouth player had decided to tell a risque story on the field. Then they all break up; one fellow shouts a lot of numbers (reminis-cent of a Wall St. teller), and then —bwmph*, everyone runs in a dif-ferent direction, the ball completely disannears the referee waits unit

ERS ARE

The

In the left picture, UNB's great benefactor and sports-minded Chancellor, Lord Beaverbrook, is seen entering the College Field stands at last Saturday's foot-ball tilt. As he greeted his ap-resident; and to the University, Lord Beaverbrook is sports Director; directly behind him is Jack Ernst, SRC President; and to the right is Dr. Colin B. Mackay, President of ball tilt. As he greeted his ap-rescident; and to the University, Lord Beaverbrook ar-ball tilt. As he greeted his appeciative audience with a warm Beaverbook just lately proved smile, the band (right picture) this fact by donating the nearly- vide adequate facilities in both see someone with a little more

For He's A Jolly Good completed Hockey Arena to the sporting and academc fields at spirit than the average student fellow". On Lord Beaverbrook's school. The recently-formed this University. A great deal of at this university.—Wallace Jones

By Joan Young

Man, it's rough! How they ever come out alive is a miracle but they seem to. It's a great game if there is nobody you like playing, but if there is, everytime somebody goees down you hold your breath and hope it's not your guy. Boys find the intricate details of play very interesting but to girls it's just a mass of bodies plies in a writhing hear with the hell a writhing heap, with the ball buried somewhere underneath. The girls like, it when somebody gets the ball, breaks away and streaks down the field for a touchdown. That is something we can under-stand—but that mass in the middle! A line plunge an end run a

A line plunge, an end run, a buttonhook pass, a rouge, a quar-terback sneak—these and a few hundred other terms baffle us, frustrate us and make us feel very stupid; so we vow never again stupid; so we vow never again to come to a game with a grand-stand quarterback. Injuries—girls are inclined to be both bloodthirty and highly sympa-thetic. thetic—really get our attention. The kickoff which has a kind of symmetry, like a squadron of jet bombers coming in for an attack, the kicks when the ball goes soar converts and a rouge. He cradled a 50-yard heave from Bouchard in the Saint John end zone for the first major four minutes after the kickoff by UNB. Saint John had received and, after four plays, Pat Barry punted to the UNB goal line and lan Watson wormed his way back to the home side's two. Leading the march back, Bouchard got two yards on a plunge; Guy Doiron, a standout all day, bulled his way over the left side of the visitors' line to the 30, Watson moved to the 43 on a lateral, Joey George carried twice and Doiron once to give UNB a first down on the Wanderers' 42. Then Bouchard faded well back and cocked his arm, hitting O'Connor in the pay dirt to the right side of the uprights.

> The fleet quarterback took the snap from centre, ran behind the line to the left and then broke on a St. John Ambulance stretcher.

Bouchard's place at quarter was filled by another freshman, John

Courtice, who played adequatelly and that was the way the first half ended, 19-0.

The second half belonged to Saint John. For one thing UNB lost full games.

counted.

tempt was unsuccessful.

March 103 Yards On 7 Plays

O'Connor then stepped up to con- with a 14-0 edge. The second vert the TD and Bombers led 6-0. quarter was 10 minutes old when Bouchard called signals on a first down on the Saint John 43. It They had needed only seven plays to move the required 103 yards. was his last play of the day.

Not long afterwards, Wanderers were forced to boot once more and UNB started out for pay dirt once Watson skirted right end for 20 seven, Watson skirted right end for 20 and George completed the scoring series with a 15-yard dash around left end with O'Connor adding the

The tend with O Connor adding the convert for a 12-point bulge. Before the first quarter closed, Bouchard and O'Connor toed rouges and Bombers changed ends

DON'T HUNT FOR OUTDOOR TOGS SEE US

At Walker's in the Down Stairs Shop You'll Find the Very Garment You are Looking for-

-JACKETS

- -WINDBREAKERS
- -PANTS
- -JEANS

-OVERALLS

-CASUAL COATS

-DUFFLE COATS -HEAVY SHIRTS -COVERALLS UNB JACKETS

CRESTS, ETC. -CASUAL COATS

Plus a complete stock of

GWG GARMENTS WALKER'S MEN'S 23 Steps from Queen on York

Cross-country Athletes Work out

Eleven athletes have been work-ing out regularly for the UNB cross-country team, the school's assistant athletic director, Amby line to the left and then broke downfield in a dazzling display, and it started to look as if he'd go all the way. In the race for the goal line, Bouchard took to the sideline and was hotly pursued by Wanderers' Barry. They met with a violent crash on the five-yard-line and Bouchard left the game on a St. John Ambulance stretcher. Legere, advises The Brunswickan. The sessions are held daily, start ing at 5 o'clock, and any additional men wishing to take part are inwited to report as soon as possible. Amby says there is still time to get into top condition before UNB takes part in its first fall meet.

The initial activity — which also could be the team's sole outing of the season — will be Nov. 12 in conjunction with the Canadian football tilt between UNB and CMR Courtice, who played adequatelly though perhaps not as spectacu-larly effective as his predecesson. Anyway, UNB lost the ball, re-gained again on Saint John's 22 with George carrying twice to the two and Watson finishing off the drive. No convert was made on a bad pass back from centre ... and that was the way the first half of St. Johns, Que, at College Field. To take part are UNB, a Minto team and a top-flight CMR outfit. There could be a return meet with Minto but this has not yet been finalized. There probably will be no cross-country activity in the spring. The course for the Nov. 12 activity, which also serves as the daily workout, is a four-mile deal, Samt John Jor of George after only four minutes had gone by, and coach Flernming said this seemed to demoralize the home squad. And for another, Saint John mentor starting at College Field, proceding to the campus, out to the university wood lot, and back again to College Field.

Barry benefited from a stronger defence, good enough for him to call the last 30 minutes the best his squad had registered in three Those working out regularly so far include Bill Dickey, Pete Dyke-man, Laurie Fowler, Ron Manzer, Kristian Morgenstein, Lloyd Mutch, Mack Perkins, Harold Sellick, Dave Wanderers got their first touchdown on 20-yard pitch by Barry to end Jake Stephen. The convert at-Stewart, Dave Tweedie and Bill Webster.

The Saint John squad completed players for Bombers. But they were unconfirmed at press time the scoring on the game's last play. With the clock running out and the unconfirmed at press time John McCoombes and Stan Trzop both exceiled defensively for UNB as well as Stan Williams Saint Jahn's Pat Barry kept Bombers from making the game a route with some fine passing. With any luck, Saint John could have had another TD. Pete Beatteay dropped a Barry toss while in the clear Lord Beaverbrook was a spectator for part of the contest and was greeted by the university band with the Wanderers sitting on their own 30 Barry fired a long 40-yarder to Bubsy Mills who gathered it in, sidestepped the lone UNB defender and raced the distance. The con-vert, a drop-kick by Bill Keleher, QUICKIES-The UNB line certainly was a pillar Saturday against the Wanderers. The linear crew starred both offensively and de-by the university band with the playing of "For He's A Jolly Good around the campus about new Fellow." 10 disappears, the referee waits until at least six players are piled on top of each other and then blows his whisle.

After an agonizing process of unravelling bodies, the ball is wonderously found to be under-neath the bottom man. After leav-neath the bottom man. After leav-ing so many men spreadeagled on the ground, the commentator re-ports it a First Down. Everyone shouts jubilantly, if, of course, one of our men has fallen down first. During lapses in the game, I managed to acquire bits of infor-mation regarding the rules. In short, it seems to come something like this. "Well the idea is to take the referee out of the game.conto the referee. Indeed it is quite a transplantathe referee out of the game, con-vey the ball for 10 yards." And then you "skin his alive(and get a first follow the ball. I'll just have a good time like everyone else. down. "Oh yes," I replied, "what then?

"Then you start over again." I asked if you could only convey the ball 10 yards at a time. My friend was obviously not interested in my lack of knowledge. So I was left to my own imagination. listened to the conversation very intently. "One down and six to go." very "Does this refer to the players or the ball?" I asked. No answer.

Forsook Rules

to attend the fall meeting of the Northeast College Basketball Con-So I forsook the rules and stopped worrying about the fixed points of the game and settled back to ference Oct. 29 at Ricker College of Houlton, Me., will be announced of the game and settled back to watch men do battle to possess a little leather case and convey it towards their opponents' goal. Therein lies the essentials, of the game and I settled for the essen-tials. Mind you I fully appreciated the thrills, especially in the form of the checked and the therein the settled the shortly. The delegation will be headed by P. C. Kelly, president of the con-ference and athletic director up the hill. Others to make the trip were not determined at press time. UNB Coach Gerard (Moose) Flemming the chorus-girl cheerleaders. This is scheduled to take the meeting in was an innovation which could but he may be prevented from at-very well be adopted by all English sports—well, maybe not cricket! sity Canadian football coach. is scheduled to take the meeting in but he may be prevented from at-pleasantly mingled with the vocal voodo of the commentator. The music blended with femine cries of encouragement. I let my at-tention be absorbed by the cheer-loadors at least they weren! leaders-at least they weren't padded.

whenever everyone else cheered, groaned when everyone else groan-ed, and in the second half, became so bold as to offer my own advice

Basketball

Business

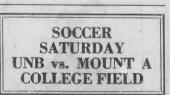

ing in the air and the converts which we know-by the roar of the crowd—gets us more points, we understand; but the huddle, the quarterback's signals and the general melee after the kickoff render us back to the stage of Ignoring my ignorance, I cheered render us back to the stage or babbling idiots again. Half of Fun Half the fun of a football game is the crowd and the weather. when the crowd goes wild, the band plays, and the sun shines, there is nothing time.

there is nothing finer. The cheerleaders, the yells, the fanatical screams for murders and tion from the land of the red lea-ther ball and the gentlemanly willow to the home of the pigskin touchdowns from some spectators, the band's loud and effective renand the Grid Gladiators-but when ditions of such songs as "Bombers Away", "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow", "Three Blind Mice" and now and then a few bars of various notorious songs of dubious reputa-tion which somehow or other every-body seems to know adde the next I go to a game I shall make no attempt to appreciate the rules, To Discuss tion which somehow or other every-body seems to know adds the vocal excitement of the day. The girls love to see who is at the game, who is with who, what the other girls are wearing and who's drunk again . . and, incl-dently, the score. It is the whole spectacle, not the game, that the, girls love. girls love.

Those red uniforms look wonder-ful. In fact, the whole football Members of the UNB delegation teams looks pretty good even to those who are immune to football players and there aren't too many of those

Here's the Statistical Story

The statistical story of Saturday's triumph by UNB over Saint John Wanderers, compiled on a 19-11 basis, follows:

SCORING

- First Quarter
- UNB, touchdown, O'Connor.
- UNB, convert, O'Connor
- UNB, touchdown, George. UNB, convert, O'Connor.
- UNB, rouge, O'Connor.
- UNB, rouge, Bouchard. 6 -
 - Second Quarter UNB, touchdown, Watson.
- Third- Quarter Saint John, touchdown, Stephen.
- Fourth Quarter Saint John, touchdown, Mills.
- Saint John, convert, Keleher.

