

CHARLES JACKSON was the son of Mr. J. W. Jackson, of Toronto. He had served with "G" Company, Q.O. R. When the War broke out he enlisted with the 37th and joined "D" Company, of Ottawa. He was a well-known athlete and of magnificent physique, standing six feet one inch in height. His letters home from the front were always bright, with no word of complaint. At the battle of Modder River he was shot. Although not strictly a Haldimand old boy, yet he represented the 37th, and though only twenty-one years of age, fought and died for our Empire.

LIEUTENANT WILLIAM HENRY NELLES, C.E., was an old Caledonia boy, being the eldest son of Lt.-Col. R. L. Nelles, R. O. After graduation from the Royal Military College, Kingston, he served as Adjutant with the late Col. Williams, M.P., in the Midland Regiment, in the North-West Rebellion of 1885. During the past few years he was District Engineer on the Cape Government Railways. When the War broke out he was given a commission with the Strathcona Horse. Knowing the lay of the country, and being able to speak Kaffir and Dutch fluently, he was sent out in charge of the Strathcona Scouts. In this connection he rendered very valuable service. Later in the War, Harry was transferred to the Commander-in-Chief's Body Guard as Lieutenant. He was mentioned in various despatches and was one of the nineteen Canadians to be awarded the "Distinguished Service" Medal. After having been on active service for many months he was wounded, and on Jan. 29th, 1901,
