

FARMERS EXPERIENCING A SHORTAGE IN FEED

As a Result There is Considerable Liquidation of Live Stock—Conditions in Peterboro County Are Not Promising.

The scarcity of feed throughout Peterboro and adjacent counties is having the effect of reducing the number of cattle owned by farmers throughout the district effected. It is simply a case of turning the stock on the market for the reason that the price of feed is too high to justify the farmers carrying them over until spring. Hay at from twenty to twenty-three dollars a ton, and straw at fifteen and sixteen dollars, makes pretty expensive feed, so that the farmers have no alternative but to dispose of the "star boarders." At Janville farmers are paying sixteen dollars a head for straw and twenty-two for hay. The buyers are paying around six cents a pound for the better quality of cattle on the hoof. Canners are not worth more than half that.

CONDITIONS IN THE WEST.
It is in the West that the liquidation of live stock has been particularly pronounced. A number of exigencies have conspired—obviously the shortage of feed in certain sections of large production which suffered severely owing to a drought. Of course the removal of the United States cattle embargo in the fall of 1913, immediately brought about a heavy export of animals from here; and while this circumstance was largely balanced up by the marked development in stock raising since conspicuous, the cent rushing of animals to market has reversed the situation.

Therefore, when war conditions are added to those of more local significance, high prices for all meats would seem a foregone conclusion. In view of this, the Federal and Provincial Governments are doing everything possible to encourage the expansion of the stock industry, holding forth to the farmer the prospect of prices which his father never even dared to dream of, and impressing upon him that what will be by no means the only line promising unusually ample returns.—Peterborough Examiner.

FAILS TO TOUCH THE VITAL POINT

Special to The Ontario.

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—"Does not touch the vital point," seems to be the general verdict of public opinion, as heard on the street today in regard to the Ontario Government's announcement of the intention to appoint a commission to look into the nickel question. As the Toronto World points out, this commission, which according to the statement of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, is to investigate the question of whether the nickel could be refined in Ontario, does not touch the point of whether Ontario nickel today is going to the enemy. That is the emergency situation which demands immediate attention and which the appointment of this commission in Ontario will not cover. Even on the question of the refining of nickel in Ontario, it will be a long time before the commission can take evidence and reach any decision. In the meantime the fundamental consideration of whether the nickel of Ontario is reaching Germany is still untouched.

being and to quiet the public's mind. In other words, some people believe that the appointment of this commission is intended to help the present nickel interests. One of the significant features in the situation is the Toronto World's reference to Hon. Mr. Hanna and his connection along with Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., with the new International Petroleum Company, whose shares were listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange this week. Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., and Hon. W. J. Hanna are two of the directors of this company which is connected with the Imperial Oil Company, "which," according to the World, "is one of the Canadian forms of the Great Standard Oil Company."

Although public opinion as far as it can be gauged agrees that the appointment of this commission is good as far as it goes, yet it also seems to be of the opinion that the whole business is simply an attempt to shelve the real difficulty for the time place of profit. This is foreign money. What a wonderful business God is carrying on in the world and in it we are all partners. At home we do the retail business and our foreign work is the export trade. "The missionary spirit is like the sap in the tree, it flows down without it."

DR. STEPHENSON AT TABERNACLE

(From Monday's Daily.)
Yesterday was Missionary Sunday in the Tabernacle Methodist church and Rev. Dr. F. C. Stephenson of Toronto was the speaker of the day. In the evening the usual monthly song service was held. Dr. Stephenson, who is full of missionary zeal and optimism, was at his best last evening in his appeal for missions. Many apt stories of events and happenings which had come to his personal knowledge were told to illustrate his points.

The speaker related fascinating stories of the marvellous opening up of China to Christianity, from a state of suspicion on the part of the natives towards the whites—for instance how the awful practices of drowning baby girls and footbinding were stopped by Christian influence. The attitude towards missions is this: "It is not a place to be held all the soldier missionaries, supplying them with all the equipment. Many are not doing their best at the front because of poor equipment and support."

He likened the church to a business, wholesale and retail. Every business man wants a branch store in a

MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD

For Late James Little at John St. Church Yesterday.

The service in John Street Presbyterian Church yesterday morning was of a memorial character in view of the death of the late James Little, who for years had been a faithful member of the congregation, and until the time of his death, its treasurer. The hymns and scripture readings were appropriately selected, and Miss Luella Currie sang with fine effect "He Wipes the Tear from Every Eye." Rev. Mr. Currie chose as his text the words of Prov. 14-32: "The righteous hath hope in his death," and spoke as follows:—Therefore life's perplexity is small and its sorrows mitigated. The Christian's hope is not the ambitionless hope of an endless sleep, nor the Buddhist hope of an endless series of transmigrations, nor the materialist's hope of annihilation, but the hope of immortality, may the assurance of it; the hope of Christ's return to receive His own; and the hope of a happy and glorious gathering home. But some man will say "was this one of Paul's hypotheses?" No! but based upon a careful meditation upon the Master's words—in Jno. 14, 1-3. This hope is the anchor of the Christian's soul, and is in keeping with his higher nature, seems the goal of our aspirations, and to meet the fragmentary character of our achievements. The effect of its possession is seen in the facts that:

- (1) Grief is assuaged. "We sorrow not as those who have no hope."
- (2) Gratitude is stirred. "Thanks be to God Who giveth us the victory," says Paul.
- (3) "Every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself"—says John.
- (4) When the end comes, there is quietness and confidence.

The believer can say as David,—"Though I pass through the Valley of the shadow of death yet will I fear no evil" or as Paul "I know whom I have believed, etc." The minister's personal reference to the deceased was in these words:—"Illustration of this quietness and confidence at the end of the day, we had in the case of our beloved brother, the late James Little. He lived above the tumult and strife. His cheerful manner, his hopeful spirit, his genuine friendship attracted us all. His willing service, and faithful consistent Christian example—can we forget? The regularity with which he worshipped in this house we shall long remember. And when the evening came, and the sun was low, he fell asleep—"Asleep in Jesus."

"The righteous hath hope in his death." Here is the personal value of the Christian's hope in possession. It explains the best we become; it gives steadfastness to our days; and gives confidence in the eventide. In the words of Whittier—"I know not where His islands lift Their forest-palms in air. I only know I cannot drift. Beyond His love and care."

A SERIOUS CHARGE

Two Marmora Boys Committed for Trial on Charge of Breaking into Store.

Considerable interest was aroused in the village on Monday afternoon by the arrest of Isaac Sellych, Phillip Woodcock, and Ernest Archibald on the serious charge of breaking into the store of Mr. W. D. Nickle at Malone and taking all the money, they could find.

It is alleged that entrance was gained by smashing the two doors in with an axe. Each of the cash drawers were emptied, including the one in the Post Office, but fortunately there was very little on hand. About $8 in coppers, two or three $1 bills and some silver was taken. The theft was committed at noon while Mr. Nickle was home for dinner. The accused were seen by Mr. German Johnston, who lives near the store, and as they were suspected of being the guilty parties Mr. Nickle telephoned to Marmora for their arrest.

The three were given a preliminary hearing on Monday evening before Magistrate H. R. Pearce, Wm. Duntor and R. T. Gray. All three pleaded guilty. Young Archibald, in his evidence, said that Sellych had told them on the way out to Malone that it was the fourth time for him to go out. Mr. Nickle also states that his store has been entered a number of times before, and about two weeks ago about $20 in bills was taken.

The accused were committed to stand their trial at Belleville, but owing to the storm they were unable to go until this morning.

On entering the basement of the hall on Tuesday afternoon, Constable Jones was supposed to find the prisoners sitting by the furnace playing cards. In some way, which is a mystery, Sellych managed to get his door unlocked and he then broke the lock on the other door. The doors were grates in these cells are immensely strong and it was thought no one could possibly get out of them from the inside.—Herald.

Snow Drift Nearly Half Mile Long
A huge snow drift nearly half a mile long is supposed to be blocking the north of the village, on the Grand Trunk Railway. The drift is over a thousand feet in length and varies from two feet higher than a man's head to about three feet in depth. The snow plows had a bad time getting through it. The first outfit was stuck solid part way through it and could not move ahead or back. Finally it ran out of water and supplies and had to send to Lindsay for help. The second outfit came out and got off badly stuck as the first. A third was then called upon and by the united efforts of the three crews and engines the plows were forced through and the track cleared.—Lindsay Post.
