THE ATHENS REPORTER

PARTED あいちいちしたいち BY GOLD

And he turned to where Mary stood, sank upon the sofa. ut did not lift his eyes. "When did you know this?" but did not lift his eyes. Mary came forward in obedience to a sign of her father's, and stool pale nd silent. Jack read the paper and signed it, Jack read the paper and signed 14, then he handed Mr. Shallop the pen. Shallop signed it, and with a low boy presented the pen to Mary. She took it and looked around resolutely.

"This—the paper," she said, "takes Mr. Hamilton's money from him and Cives it to us, who have as yet not made good our right to it. Father, I will not sign it." Mr. Montague stared and gasped for breath

"Mary!" he breathed.

"Oh, father!" she retorted, bursting into tears. "How can you be so cruel and forgetful? Where's all your gratinto tears. itude gone? Cannot you see he is sacrificing himself to us when he ought rather to be defending himself against our grasping covetousness? will not sign it."

will not sign it." Then ,turning to Jack, who stood, hat in hand, and almost as pale as herself, she continued: "Oh, sir, do not put us to shame like

"Oh, sir, do not put us to shall have this! You see him now at his worst; he was never unjust or cruel before. This wicked money has turned his head. 1—I wish you had kept it, for it has brought us nothing but unhappiness already."

Jack could not speak, he did not dare to trust himself. "The agreement is valid," he said, "The agreement is valid," he said, "one witness is sufficient. Mr. Shal-lop will arrange it. Mr. Pacewell, may the money bring you the happi-ness it conferred on me; with all my heart I hope you will live long and anjoy it well."

He turned, opened the door, and Had almost got out of the room, when a thin voice cried:

He started and turned chair and was stretching out her her hair and was stretching out her arms to him with two tearful eyes.

He made halt a step back, but shook his head, smiled his old smile at her, and left the room. There was still hard and unpleasant work for him. He walked sharply through the and stood waiting admittance e Pacewell Villa.

at the Pacewell Villa. The elegant drawing-room was emp-ty, and he stood wondering how he should get through the orter which he knew awaited him. footstep sounded fire had to last till midnight. It was snowing outside, Jack knew, for once during the twilight he had gone to the window and looked down upon the umbrellas flitting by below. He sat near the fire and poured himself out some tea from a small tempot a battered and used-up one. The bread and butter were ungarnished, and the whole meal, to say the least, uncomfortable. fire had to last till midnight. uncomfortable. When Jack had finished his tea, he lit a lamp, put on a shade, and, drawing a large document toward him, set to work to copy it.

All this meant that Jack was poor, and working hard for a very miserable living. He wrote on for half an hour, and He wrote on for half an hourst then a tremendous clatter and burst of music caused him to look wearily It was the bells bursting out into

It was the bells bursting out into noise, like a lot of schoolboys let out for the holidays. Ding, ding! dong, dong! "Christmas Eve!" muttered Jack, trimming his pen. "A rum sort of Christmas Eve for you, old fellow! Last year you were dining at the club with Fop, and Beau, and the rest; this year I think you dined on a sausage roll without company. Christmas Eve, heigho!".

Then, having no time to spare for Then, having no time to spare for sollloquies, he fell to work on the copy-ing again, and scratched, squeaked, and scratched through another follo. and scratched through another follo. But the bells grew positively intru-sive, and louder and louder, till the solitary slave to the pen laid it down and turned his chair to the fire.

"I think I'll just have a pipe. What "I think I'll just have a pipe. What a blessing tobacco is so cheap! What should I have been without my pipe? So this is Christmas Eve. Well, a merry time for some of them; a merry time at the villa, I dare say, and at the Pacewell's, too. Little Pattie, like a fairy, laughing over her new riches, and old Montague Pacewell as proud as a turkey cock. And she-well, blees her sweet face, wherever she is; she doesn't look happy, though! her sank upon the eofa. "When did you know this?" she asked. "And did not come to tell me!" she said, elevating her eyebrows, and speaking bitterly, for she saw now that between two stools, she had come to the ground. "No—o," he said. "Maud, I put off the ordeal for a few hours. Forgive me! I kfnew how it would grieve you." She burst into tears. "A beggar!" she repeated. "I am to marry a beggar! Oh, aunt! oh aunt!" Then she went into well-bred hys-terics, and Jack rang. the bell. Lady Pacewell appeard, and amid Lady Maud's nicely toned shrieks, Jack told bis story. Lady Pacewell was really shocked. "Wait here, Jack, dear, or, dear! oh, dear! till I come down." And then she took Lady Maud up-stairs. Presently she came down, and Jack went over the story again. Lady Pacewell cried, Jack com-forted her. Her ladyship still wept, and the schehed out: bless her sweet face, wherever she is; she doesn't look happy, though! her old life clings to her, perhaps. I saw her the other morning in the lane. She was in their grand new carriage with one of my horses. She was pale enough and sad enough to be Mary Montague at the Signet again. And I stopped and though the morning the stopped and looked at her-and the best of the joke was, she looked at me, birmauon. Frevent them by making this wonderful skin-clearing com-plexion scorp your every-day tollet scorp, assisted by touches of Cuticura Ointment to the first signs of little skin and scalp troubles, and dustings of Cuticura Talcum, a fiscinating fragrance. In delicate Cuticura med-ication The Cuticura Trio is wonder-ful. Sample each free of "Cuticura, Dept. N. Boston, U. S. A." sir," he said, "'specially as you was busy, but I've brought a message." ""Where is it?" jack said, as shortly as before. The sight of the man was distaste ful to him in the extreme. "Where?" asked Mr. Tubbs, vacantly. "Oh, ah, yes, of course, you mean what is it? It wasn't a written mes mean sage, oh, no, she never writes, she don't. Her way, when she wants any-thins, is to say: "Tubbs, I want so and so, and Tubbs, meanin' me, as to get it if it's in Ameriky," "Now," said Jack, sternly, "have the goodness to tell me your business "My business is this, sir, meanin' no offence," said Mr. Tubbs, "will you come along with me? You are wanted at once. It's most particular-Heaven knows whether she'll be alive when I get back." "Who?" said Jack, starting.

"Why, havent's I told you?" said Mr. Tubbs, the tears starting to his. Wh.o Miss Pattle, bless her heart. "Miss Pattie Montague?" said Jack. "And she wanted to see me?"

"Ay," said Tubbs. "She sent for me, and when they let me see her, Tubbs,' says she, 'go and fetch him." But, I says, I don't know where to find him! 'Go to the lawyer, Mr Mr. find him! 'Go to the lawyer, Mr. Shallop,' whispered Miss Mary, a-ory-in' all the time. And I goes to Mr. Shallop, he sends me on here, and after dodging about among these 'ere queer houses, which are all alike a queer houses, which are an arace a purpose to puzzle a body, 'ere I am. For Heaven's sake, be quick." Jack had been puttng on his coat while the man had been speaking, and now took up the lamp and walked to the door "Go first," said Jack, "and I'll light you down. Mr. Tubbs stumbled down the stairs

Mr. Tubbs stumbled down the stars in a way that would have made the clown envious, and Jack allowed him. There was a cab at the door, and the two jumped in. "Where yer come from," said Mr. Tubbs. And the man drove ff as fast

Tubbs. And the man drove it as tast as the snowy street would allow him. "Is she, very ill?" asked Jack. "Oh, dreadful," said Mr. Tubbs, tear-fully. "Poor little angel, it will hurt your heart to see her so white and patient-like." Jack fell into stience a while, and the cab drew up to one of the grand-est mansions in Grosvenor Square. Mr. Tubbs jumped out, and a foot-man opened the door. Jack, who seemed expected, was asked to step upstairs, and followed the footman to the door of a room at which the man knocked gently. which the man knocked gently.

greenroom had worn, notwithstandher," said Jack, simply. The old man put his hand to

There was a hush about the house that was eloquent of suffering and danger. The footman went down as the door opened, and Jack, on entering, found himself face to face with Mr. Henry The old man had the same weary look upon him as the pirate in the trembled.

for you.

would come, though they told me you, were too proud. You're not proud, are you? You wouldn't be proud to poor little Pattle?" "No," he said. "Not proud to you, Pattle. See here, I am kneeling." And he kneit at her side. She put out her hand and touched him. Then laughed with a child's glee.

glee. "What a big hand you've got," she said. "I could put both of mine into it and lose them. But you've cut your beard off, and you don't look so hand-some as when you carried me to the window to look at the snow. Jack, nevel meyor curve me again. never you'll never carry me again, again!" "I hope, so many times," he said, a choking coming in his throat and a film over his eyes at the wistful tones of the child-woman.

"Will you carry me now?" she said, ddenly. "I should like so much to

"Will you carry me how? She she how suddenly. "I should like so much to have you lift me up!" Some one came with a shawl and wrapped it around her. He took her in his arms and walked to the fire with her. No one inter-fered. Her wish seemed to be law. "Oh, that's nice!" she said. "It re-minds me of that day when you and Mary sat before the fire laughing in each other's faces and looking so happy." She sighed: "Poor Mary! Poor Jack!" happy." Sh Poor Jack!"

"Why poor Jack?" he asked to humor her. "Oh, I know," she said. "You are poor now and we are rich; but my lear isn't cruel and unkind now, and dear isn't cruel and unkind now, and he wants you to forgive him, Jack. He's very sorry for what he said that day, and he wouldn't have said it if that wicked, wicked Mr. Anderson hadn't put it into his head. And you'll forgive him lack work you for my nadn't put 15 into his nead. And you'll forgive him, Jack, won't you, for my sake? And, Jack, I want to whisper something in your ear. Tell them to keep away. I don't want them te hear."

hear.' They drew back into a far corner They drew back into a difference of the room, and, putting one wasted arm around his neck, she whispered: "I'm dying; don't tell any of them;" don't tell my dear, because he cries so; bett tell More because he cries too don't tell may dear, because he cries, too. There's no crying where I'm going, and everybody's happy there. But I could not be happy there, I'm sure, if I felt you and Mary weren't happy on earth in some-place where I could look down. you and Mary wells to have a solution of the s

A GRAND MEDICINE

FOR LITTLE ONES

Mrs. Avila Noel, Haut Lameque, N B., writes:-"I can highly recom-mend Baby's Own Tablets as they mend Baby's Own Tablets as they have worked wonders in the case of my baby. I always keep them in the hcuse and wculd not feel safe with-out them." What Mrs. Noel says concerning Baby's Own Tablets is just what thousands of other mothers say and ferl. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the hereis and stomach, thereby but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and stomach, thereby banishing constipation, colic, indi-gestion and a host of the other minor aliments of little ones. The Tablets are absolutely guaranteed to be free from onlates or nareoties or any of from oplates or narectics or any of the other drugs so harmful to the the other drugs so harmful to the welfare of ine baby. They caunot rossibly do harm—they always do good. They are sold at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE RACES OF EUROPE.

Quarrelsome Families Now Attending Peace Conference.

The American National Geographic Society, in a news bulletin, gives a general survey of the chief racial groups of Europe, an understanding of which is necessary, in order to follow peace parleys now intelligently the taking place in Paris. This bulletin is based upon a communication from ing the magnificent apartment in which they stood and the diamonds in his shirt front. He held out his Dr. Edwin A. Grosvenor. It says:

The Best-Tires"

Maue by Canada's greatest rubber company and Canada's leading tire maker.

Perfected by the same experts, in the same factories, that have be "Dominion Auto Tires" a nation the popularity.

You can be sure of the strength durability and easy riding comfort of "Dominion Tires" for Bicycles and had their origin; in Europe, the Greeks, Latins, Celts, Teutons, or Germans, and Slavs.

"Common usage treats these groups "Common usage treats these groups as races, so properly we speak of the Celtic race or the Slavic race, or of the scale of the groups. Because of the Cellic race of the share. Because of the the races of Europe. Because of the intimate relations of the Greeks and Latins, and the cognate nearness of their languages, the two are denoted as of the Greco-Latin race. and Teutons are interchangeable, being synonymous terms.

"The great majority of the peoples "The great majority of the peoples who have invaded Europe and whose descendants are now settled there be-long to the Indo-European family. In addition; about 30,000,000 persons, or one-fifteenth of the inhabitants of Europe are Finne-Ugrians and Turks. Europe, are Finno-Ugrians and Turks, members of the Ural-Altaic branch of members of the Ural-Altaic branch of the Mongolian family. All the rest, except the Jews, Maltese and Saracens (Syro-Arab) and possibiy, except the Basques, are of Indo-European stock. "Ural-Altaian comprehends people found between the Altai aid Ural Mountains. Finno-Ugrian is specific of a western group of Ural-Altaians. of a western group of Ural-Altaians. The term is derived from Finn and Ugra, the region on both sides of the Ugras, the region on both of migration "The various routes of migration into Europe, the lated wanderings of the immigrants, and their constant relocations, may be directly traced to geographic causes, of which the mountain system, the rivers and plains had a determinative part. The back-bone and dominant factor of the con-bone and dominant factor of the con-tinent is the Alps. "In the Alps are the fountain heads "A line drawn from the mouth of the Pruth to the mouth of the Nie-outspurs rise of the Loire, Seine, Meuse, Elbe, Oder, Vistula and Dan-of the Rhone, Rhine and Poland in the ube These rivers have each limited of the Rhone, Rhine and Poland in the ube. These rivers have each limited or determined the wanderings of peoples, the march of armies, and the boundaries of states. The Danube was a natural and inevitable western roadway of pastoral peoples from Asia Asia.

Canadians suffer more from Catarrh than from any other disease. On this account Catarrh is dangerous and should be checked at the outset. hould be checked at the outset. It isn't necessary to take internal medicine to cure Catarrh. There is a

Presently a light footstep sounded behind him, and Lady Maud entered, her brightest smile, her choicest flush her brightest sinite, her chock and called up to receive him. Dear Jack, why have you kept from me? It has seemed an age," she murmured ,as he took her hand and murmured ,as he took her half and bhook it. "Indeed!" he said, speaking as way because I did not want to bring quietly as he could. "I have kept bad news, but it must come, and per-haps I am the best one to carry it." "Bad news," she repeated, turning pale. "Any one dead?" she asked. "No, thank Heaven!" he replied. "The old Henry Pacewell, whom you all thought dead, has turned up, and the man you have promised to marry is -a beggar!" She sank from his arms direct".

Imperial

Eureka Harness Oil

-soaks into leather. Keeps water out. Prevents drying and cracking. Keeps harness strong, soft, pliable—lengthens its useful life and saves money. Comes in convenient sizes.

Imperial

Eureka Harness Oiler

-simple and convenient. Should be in every barn.

PEDIA

ANIE ZAGA

proceedings by the very tradesmen who a few hours since were ready to lick the dust from his feet. The news had spread. Indeed, Mr. Anderson had taken care that it should, and had not only favored Mr Montague with hes views of Jack's conduct as regards the cheque and the other kindliness, but had spent the morning in running around to tradespeople and informing them the of the change in Mr. Hamilton's fortune. CHAPTER XIII.

Lady Pacewell cried, Jack com-forted her. Her ladyship still wept, and at last she sobbed out:

"Of course, it is all over between you and 'Maud." "Yes," said Jack; "if she wishes it, of course." "Of course," said Lady Pacewell. "But it is an awful blow for her, poor girl."

Jack could not help smiling bitterly.

"And 1 must send the brougham horse back, I suppose, Jack, dear?" "No," said Jack, taking up his hat and trying not to look wounded. "Keep the horse and Maud, aunt. I will arrange about the former, and, as ite nephew, and with a sinking at the heart, he left the villa. On his way to his chambers he passed his club. A small group of men stood on the steps. He nodded cheer-fully, and received in return the cool-est of bows from the meh who yester-day would have ran down to meet him and shake hands.

He reached his chambers; his men servants were waiting outside the door, and begged to know if they were to be paid. He entered the room, and thereupon the table lay a heap of bills mark-for the latter, give her my love. for the latter, give her my love." Then he kissed his aunt, who, poor woman, could not help her worldliness overshooting her love for her favor-ite nephew, and with a sinking at the girl

In a small room that might have In a small room that hight have been dignified by the name of cham-ber, as it stood within the precincts of Lincoln't Inn, and was barely fur-nished with half legal and wholly uncomfortable table, chair and worn-out sofa, sat Jack. The fire in the small grate was low, is -a beggar!"

She sank from his arms direct":
"A -a -beggar!" she echoed.
"Well; not exactly, because I don't lightly. "But a pennilees man, with the world before him. Maud."
Her ladyship drew farther away and but sofa, sat Jack. The fire in the small grate was low, and it was bitterly cold. Jack sat twould have been the height of im-pudence to have put any more coal on.
for it was only just six, and the small knob of coal in the box beside the

Imperial

Mica Axle Grease,

-keeps the metal spindle from contact with the hub-lining.

Coats both with a smooth covering of mica and the finest grease.

Kills friction and makes axles and wheels last longer and run easier. Helps the horse and saves wagon repairs. Sold in many sizes-1 lb. to barrels.

Janua Hanandr

MICA-

LE GREAT

Preserves Leather -Kills Arle Friction

IMPERIAL OIL LIMITED

At all Dealers

W. CLARK

but since I've shaved my beard off, and looked seedy, she didn't know the Jack Hamilton, who is foolish enough to think of her now. Six o'clock! aalf past by this time. I must finish this work, for I want my dinner to-morrow. Christmas Day, and working for my Christmas Day, and working for my dinner! Well, if it wasn't so seri-ous, it would be a most excellent joke. Heigho

With the pipe in his mouth, he turn ed around and picked up his pen. But there came a knock at the door at the instant and he looked up from the parchment to say: "Come in!"

The door opened, and a short indi-vidual, having missed the step, precip-itated himself pretry nearly into the grate.

"Come none of that," said Jack, in "Come none of that, said Jack, hi his old good-natured way, "you are not coays, worse luck, and won't burn," and then added, having set him upright: "Who are you, and what do you want?

ah!" He dropped the man's collar, and his tone changed from the easy, to a stern one, for the individual bore the like-ness of Mr. Tubbs. "What do you want?" he asked,

"I beg your pardon, sir," said Mr. "I beg your pardon, sir," said Mr. Tubbs, out of breath by his tumble and his evident nervousness at being "But you see so sternly confronted. "But you see it was the step as threw me up Used as I am to tumble, as is natural on the boards, still, it was a mercy my 'ead wasn't jammed between them 'ere

"What do you want?" -epeated Jack. Mr. Tubbs took off his hat and wiped his forchead. He seemed much agitated

"I beg your pardon for intrudin',

"The number of distinct human groups of races is variusly estimated from the three Japhetic, Semitic and hand, and Jack shaking it self that it Hamitic of the Bible, or the three, Caucasian, Mongol and Negro of Cuv-ier, to the eleven of Pickering and the "She sent for you; has been crying r you. It is good of you to come." "I would have come through fire for sixteen of Desmoulins. The estimate in 1781 by Dr. Blumenbach, the father his in 1781 by Dr. Blumenoaca, the father of anthrapology, has best withstood the attacks of time. He finds five races—Caucasian, Mongolian, Ethiop-ian, American and Malay.

darkened room. A womaa's figure moved from the side and peeped into the shadow of the curtains as he entered, and, although he could not see the face, he knew by the beating of his heart that it was Mary's. As he approached the bed, a tiny, thin voice arose from it. "Has he come, Mary?" Jack stepped softly forward bent ôver the bed. "Do you want me, Pattie?" he said, lowering his musical voice to the bent over the bed. "Do you want me. Pattie?" he said, lowering his musical voice to the gentlest of tones. "Jack," she said, with a touch, of her old naive. "Yes, I knew you the great plateau of Jran where they semi-

far better method. Doctors now treat Catarrh by send-ing a purifying, healing vapor through the breathing organs. In this way the germs of Catarrh are destroyed. The only successful vapor treat-ment is CATARRHOZONE, whi i the patient breathes through a sectal inhaler to the real seat of the truble. The rich, piney essences of Catarrh-ozone heal and soothe all the inflamed surfaces. They effectively treat the surfaces. They effectively treat the nose, throat and lungs with a power-ful antiseptic that destroys irritation at once.

Catarrhozone brings into the system the balmy air of the pine forest. cures completely colds, coughs, ca-tarrh, weak throat and bronchitis. tarrh, weak throat and bronchitis. Once tried, Catarrhozone is a'ways used. Nothing so pleasant, so simple, so quick to relieve, so absolutely sure to permanently cure. Accept no sub-stitute. Large size lasts two months and costs $1; small size 50c.; sample trial size, Z5c.; at all dealers.

Pronoun Little Used.

The form "thon" has held its place in the language, with occasional use, for sixty years. It is defined as meaning " "That one; he, she, or it; a pronoun of the third person, common gender: a contracted and solidified form of that one, proposed in 1858 by Charles Crozat Converse of Erie, Pa., as a substitute in cases where the use of a restrictive pronoun involves elther inaccuracy, or obscurity, or its non-employment necessitates awkward repetition." As an example is similar non-employment necessitates awkward repetition." As an example is given the substitution of "Each pupil must learn thon's lesson" for "Each pupil must learn his or her lesson."—Literary Digest.

FROM THAT CAUSE. A certain bishop, having partaken rather freely of lobster salad and mince pie, was autforing torments both physi-cal and mental. When he began to im-prove his hostess badgered him a bit. "Why bishop," she said, "surely you weren't afraid to die?" "Afraid to die? Oh. no," replied the bishop, "but I would have been ashamed """

FROM THAT CAUSE.