The Evening Star. J. E. COLLINS, Editor. FREDERICTON JULY 17, 1880.

THE INSTITUTE. The Institute has blown over for this year. Next year it will meet again.

The Institute the first year was a kind of dead and dumb institution, this year it showed "signs of its oats." The first year it was thought reasonable to do other than echo what was said from the platform.

The first victim to liberty of speech was the writer. He attended the first session, and so far forgot himself as to get up and speak. His ideas did not suit Dr. Rand, who sent over one of his body guard, Mr. Creed, to whisper him, "Dr. Rand would be delighted to hear you speak, but you are not properly a member of the order."

And thus in the midst of a noble sentiment, the voice of liberty was ignominiously hushed. The packed hall gaped, wondering much at the silence. The next minute Dr. Rand invited a stranger from Charlotte to "address the meeting" as there he felt would be no objection. This is what the writer calls Randism.

The next year there was no one to raise his voice. The Platform recited the doctrines and expounded the same. The Dummies showed no signs of improvement. Last year the fetters began to fall away, and some were so bold as to hint, in an unguarded moment, at what they thought. The third Parliament broke up and each one went away grumbling. Each one resolved to "give Dr. Rand a bit of his mind next time."

Next time came: it was last week. For the first time it dawned upon Dr. Rand that in creating the Institute, he was moulding the petard that would hoist himself. He found, and those who derive their inspiration from him, also found, that a new temper pervaded the Institute: that those who came there no longer felt they came to do just as Dr. Rand said or his Conveniences suggested, but to speak their experience and their judgment on the great work in which they had engaged. Four years ago God help the teacher who would dare stand up and say anything framed by Mr. Crockett and inspired by Dr. Rand should be set aside. This year they did, and the great Ruler finding himself nonplussed by the parliament he had created turned round, and like Richard headed the insurgents. The reports show this. We shall descend to particulars in next.

A VIKING'S SHIP. There are few of us who have not read more or less of the dread and daring Viking. Their keels clave the waters long before iron ships were put afloat and they carried death and destruction to southern coasts long before England's navy ruled the seas.

They were in the height of their barbaric glory centuries before Columbus sailed out upon the vast ocean of unknown waters, and their brilliant as well as their bloody doings are lost in the twilight and darkness of history. But the Viking is not a myth. At times he acted as peasant, and at times of novelty at times as pirate. He hauled up his long sharp boat, that clave the sea without foam or sound, in the vicks or inlets of the coast, while he tilled the land; but when a thirst for booty or adventure came upon him he sallied forth down to sunnier shores. One of these viking boats has recently been discovered in Sandehered, Norway, and it is of it would speak. The vessel was found, buried under a hillock, and no one doubts it belonged to those terrible highwaymen of the ocean, the Vikings. It measures 75 feet in length and is in a state of perfect preservation. It is armed and equipped as though it had been abandoned where found when on the point of sailing on some adventurous expedition. All the apparatus used by nautical Norsemen are met with in this ancient craft, the mast of which is still pretty well intact. There are fragments of sails and cordage remaining, as well as many specimens either perfect or incomplete, of utensils and instruments, which have been eagerly examined by antiquaries. Among other things are a number of pieces of oakwood, peculiarly shaped, wrought with a certain elegance, and hollowed out in the centre to admit of ropes being passed through them. Spades and shields, or bucklers, have also been found, or rather the iron portion of the bucklers, for the wooden part is entirely gone. A number of shields are fancifully arranged on the interior of the ship and are the same as one sees represented on the beautiful tapestry of Bayeux, in Normandy, which dates back to the eleventh century, and which claims to be the most ancient specimen of the sort extant. It is not yet completely dug out of its present prison near the seashore. When this has been accomplished the ship—which is thought to be still seaworthy—will be launched and brought to Christians to be deposited in the University Museum.

As our readers are aware before the preponderance of Carleton Branch stock passed into the hands of the enemies of the Grand Southern the Directors of the Branch gave a lease of "way" to the Grand Southern for 999 years. The lease was legally drawn up, and believed by every one of good sense to be a valid document.

But Mr Kay, who is manager for the St John & Maine Company, held the lease worthless, and refused to concede the terms to the Grand Southern granted by it. The latter Company therefore asked for an injunction, which was granted, the Court declaring the lease valid.

Justice Palmer gave judgment in a lengthy document, which is worthy of perusal. Not only is the validity of the lease declared, but the action of the Government in extending the terms of the charter to the Company under the Act is virtually endorsed on legal and constitutional grounds. The best thing for the St John & Maine now is to close up, and pack Mr Murray Kay off home, or to some quarter where he can do them less mischief than he has done them here.

ELOPEMENT. A boy of 19 and a girl of 16 eloped from Ottawa a few days ago. They are now enjoying the honeymoon across the line. Let the proprietors of boys and girls about here look sharp.

With reference to the above couple, Annie Moreau was the name of the courageous maiden, and Frederick Lapointe that of the enterprising youth. They had been "courting" for the last ten years, but their parents objected to the match. Fleeing off to Gretina Green, happy as they looked into the great wide future full of sunshine and flowers, an uncle burst into the car and scowled upon the fledglings. Annie summoned all her courage—but a few tear drops fell—and she clung to her boy-lover, assuring her uncle she would not go back unless by force. The uncle began to consider over the matter and said, Well, if the young fools are bent on it, let them marry. Annie wept tears of joy, and was next day married, and going on the honeymoon without fear of interception.

SUPPERS, ETC. If a man has lived say 40 years without ever having given a "supper," or a "dinner" to his friends, and suddenly strikes out and sends abroad invitations you may be sure there is something up. He feels the ground either beginning to quake under his feet or he reads his doom in the dark clouds he sees gathering. He simply tries to buy friends by "mess of pottage." Dr. Rand last night gave a "supper" at the Barker. About him sat his bosom friends—his faithful Principal and his obedient Inspectors. Dr Rands motives were all: the supper was the spontaneous product of his generosity. He does not feel the ground trembling under his feet; and sees no signs in the sky which presage him danger. His friends stick thick and fast about him, loving him for his liberality, and admiring his distaste for autocracy. He is popular before the country, and the darling of the teaching profession!

TOM TAYLOR, Punch's great wit, is dead.

GERMANY continues to fortify herself on her eastern frontier. Not content with strategic railways and entrenched camps, she is building forts around the largest fortresses. For instance, in the present year around Konigsberg, in Prussia Proper, ten forts will be completed; and an eleventh at Neundorf will be begun. Three are already in working order, and thus the whole system of defence against an attack from Russia will be strengthened.

MR JOHN COSTIGAN has left Ottawa for Winnipeg, where he will remain a few weeks, purchasing land for his sons.

October 28, 1879.—1y. JACOBSON ADAMS, FREDERICTON, N. B.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will accomplish this result. This preparation is the result of two most valuable specifics, in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that Scott's Emulsion is being used with better results and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of Children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

See What Physicians and the People Say About It. MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September 2, 1876. GENTS:—I have frequently prescribed Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen,—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach, which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases. Oct. 15, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAMPSON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen,—Within the last two months I have fairly tried Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly agreeable and elegant form. December 10th, 1878. Yours truly J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen,—In September, 1877, my health began to fail, and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning cough, night sweats and short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I afterwards bought a dozen bottles, with the following result: Coughs subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning, and my weight increased from 115 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, "What cured you?" and I answer, "Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, etc." I have a friend who has not spoken aloud for 15 months, and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen, and says it is food and medicine for him. He has given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine. January 10th, 1879. Very truly yours H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Lynn, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2, 1878. About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your Emulsion and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live longer than a few weeks at most. I could not retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced with your Emulsion in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours, R. W. HAMILTON, M. D.
