My very humble opinion of ruling with a rod of Iron, is simply this: that where one party compels another by intimidation, to commit what their con-science disproves, or prevent by physical force, a party from exercising any legal privilege, such as voting at a General elec-tion, Township or other public meeting.— This I thick will include all that is under-stood by both Club Law and the Iron Rod. Achright, 25th January, 1851. THE EDITOR OF THE HURON SIGNAL.

Sir,-In the Signal of the 23rd instant, you say that the Councillors of the United Townships of Ashfield, Wawanosh, &c., voted themselves six shillings and three sence per day for each man. It ought to be seven shillings and six pence. We may thank the property qualification for preventforward as candidates last year, and also for having only one man who could act as a District Councillor for some years before.

We have had to pay three pence a pound of Township tax, and I understand it will not pay the Township officers, " for what," for levying and collecting the same. Not a single improvement. It was pefectly notorious to the Councillors themselves, the inefficient manner in which two of the assessors did their duty, and in place of hoped, and we are sure will be earnestly desired by many, that a somewhat but full memoir of him, and a selection from his discourses and compositions will ere long be given to the church and the world to show what he was and in some measure to perpetuate his usefulness. This is very requisite, because his retiring unobtrusive habits, and his much engagement is solitary study kept him rather in the shade than in the foreground of society : and because he was so greatly occupied in communicating oral instruction that he had little time for speaking through the pross. We fondly trust, however, that by it he, being dead, thank the property qualification for prevent-ing more conscientious men from coming what he was in the pulpit and as a judicious theologian. When, six years ago, the Christian body to which he belonged established, a Semina-ry or training young men in Canada to the ministry instead of depending altogether on ministry instead of depending allogether on Scotland for laborers, it was his acknow-ledged superiority that made him be unani-mously appointed by his Bretheren to the charge of that Seminary, and appointment which charge of that Sominary, and appointment which required extensive fitness, and en-tailed great labor, inasmuch as owing to the infancy or the missionary church con nected with it, he had to act as classical, philosophical and theological teacher com-bined. How effectively he fulfilled the du-tice at the same time carrying on without aid his large pastoral works, is well known especially to the young mon who enjoyed his improving and in doctrinating tuition. By all of them he was revered and loved, and while they live they will hold him in affec-tionate remembrance. tionate remembrance Towards the end of October last he re-
