Terrific Storm

CARRIES DEATH AND DEVASTATION IN ITS TRAIN.

Special Evening Telegram.

PITTSBURGH, To-day. Twenty-two are dead, eleven others are believed to have perished as a result of the terrific storm which swept Western and Northern Pennsylvania, the Pan-handle district of West Virginia, and a section of East Ohio. The monetary loss cannot be estimated. Steady rains caused every stream to leave its banks. Within a short time water had washed away the tracks in many places and sent tons of earth from the surrounding hills, making all the thoroughfares and roads zones of peril. At Ford City, Pa., a dozen houses were washed from their foundations. Lightning struck a score of houses, while McGraw Park was covered to five feet of water. At Under Colliers, W. Virginia, a cloud burst devastated the valley in which the town is situated. Harmon's Creek, overflowing its banks, the entire valley was deluged by water and houses were swept from their foundations and railroad tracks torn up for long stretches by land slides. At Washington the storm was especially severe. Six persons were drowned at Cherry Valley, one at Georgetown. At Shawana, W. Va., seven persons, including nearly the entire train crew were killed and twenty injured. A sleeping car of a train near Chicago on the North Western Railroad was ditched by a washout caused by a cloud-burst five miles south of the city. At Camp Douglas, Wis., four persons were killed in a wreck of a passenger train which plunged into Lemon River near here, owing to the washing away of a bridge and twenty injured.

The New Altar

AT PETTY HARBOR.

Petty Harbor, the cradle of the electricity which lights our city, proper to the town and on which many concerns depend for their motive power, is now one of the principal points of interest on the program of the "round trip" to our shores. This modern Petty Harbor, with its electric-lighted ways, would astonish many a patriotic son of hers, however bright his dreams might have been for the future of his native village.

Here in the year 1834 the illustrious and ever to be revered Dr. Flemming built the Roman Catholic Church, on a spot, which at the cost of much labour and money, was made, at that time the only bit of level land in the settlement.

There has just been erected in this historic church, a magnificent new altar, which, to the tourist visiting Petty Harbor, a wall as to the children of the town and women of that secluded village, shall stand for many years as a monument to the faith and generosity of a catholic people and their energetic and zealous parish priest, the Rev. Father Thery.

The new altar is a splendid piece of workmanship, entirely of local manufacture and was executed at the workshop of that worthy and progressive firm, Callahan Glass & Co. It is, in very truth, a work of art, there is no composition or fiction about it, the capitals, reliefs and every ornate feature of this triumph of native skill, are all real handcarved woodwork.

The design, which is a beautiful specimen of the florid Gothic style, was drawn by Mr. John Callahan, Jr., and firmly establishes this young man as a draftsman of exceptional ability.

The frontal beneath the table is divided into three panels by four pillars of rich serpentine and with carved white capitals carved in foliage and these panels as well as the tabernacle are decorated with some splendid bits of the carver's art.

The painting on this work we think calls for special praise, there are some twenty pillars done in Serpentine and Siena marbling, which, with the touch of a master hand, but the panels in the reredos done in rich Rose di Levant are perfect. This was performed by the firm's painter, Mr. Thos. Dunn.

The principal part of the wood-work and setting of the altar was done by J. Callahan, Jr., and William "Caul," who have every reason to be proud of their handy craft.

In fact the whole structure from its base to its final cross (18 ft.) reflects the greatest credit on all who had a hand in its construction, and any person seeing this altar in its place in the church at Petty Harbor, cannot but be convinced that there is no one to send out of the country to get first class work of this kind.

Another Nickel Scoop.

Management Secures the Biggest Film Feature of the Past Season—Produced in Ireland.

True to its acknowledged policy of presenting "the latest and best in the moving picture line," the Nickel Management have consummated a deal with an English firm, the announcement of which should be hailed with delight by all local theatre goers. They have actually succeeded in purchasing that mammoth production, "The Gollan Bawn," a subject which I told in three complete reels, comprising nearly 4,000 feet of film, at once the largest and most enterprising offering of the past season. This is a pictorial enactment of the late Dion Boucicault's Irish comedy drama, "The Galleen Bawn," an adaptation from Gerald Griffin's world renowned book, "The Two Collegians," and retaining all the remarkable features of its pristine strength. It is exceptionally good, carefully produced in Ireland and splendidly handled, and will, we believe, be acclaimed with delight when it is exhibited in St. John's.

The Springfield Street Commercial School prepended yesterday with two new teachers on the staff, Miss Daisy Colton, who has been trained for the Kindergarten, and Miss Isabel Colton, an experienced and successful First Grade teacher of Bay Roberts Academy, as a junior assistant.

"Appreciated Something Good."

Extract from letter received from Mr. Frank White now in Toronto, by one of his friends.

"I met Walter Rendell and all the boys of the Newfoundland squad, and as on previous occasions they can make their stand with the best. It brings tears to one's eyes as he views the stalwart squad of Terra Novians dressed in their neat uniforms, competing with picked squads from all parts of the Empire, and the climax is reached when to the strains of "The Banks of Newfoundland" by the Scouts Guard "our" boys emerge into the Court yard and faultlessly march past the grand stand and the blood begins to tingle in one's veins as the thousands of spectators showed that they appreciated something good by long and prolonged applause which rent the air."

Wanted Better Than Raw Herring to Eat.

The nine Newfoundlanders who left the whaler Lloydson at Sydney when she was on her way to Greenland waters, are now taking an action against the captain of the ship for the recovery of their clothes as well as a small amount of money which they claim is due them for the trip from St. John's to Sydney. The story of the seamen is that when they signed on at this port they were given to understand by the owners and captain of the ship that they were to have different 'grub' from the Norwegians. The first day at sea, it is alleged, they were served with raw herring and sweet soup which they scoffed at and kicked against. This the Newfoundlanders contended was the sort of food the Norwegians liked, but that they were not used to it. The seamen state that the captain would not listen to their complaint and on reaching Sydney they deserted.

BANKER ARRIVES.—The banking schooner Lillian O., arrived in port last evening. She is belonging to Belleoram and is looking for squid which is a scarce article at present on the south-west coast. The Lillian O. has no fish on board, having landed her last catch at the home port. She met with fair success on the Grand Banks this summer.

The whaling steamer Lloydson is now coaling at Harvey's premises before resuming the whaling voyage. It is not yet known where the steamer will operate next, pending the return of the owner, Mr. Cook, who went on the Baleine to the wrecked steamer Wilhelmina, but in all probability the Lloydson will go to the far north again on her next cruise.

The schooner Oriental arrived at Trinity yesterday from the Labrador, having for 800 quintals of fish. The crew of the Oriental reports that a large fleet of vessels are now homeward bound from the Labrador Coast with bumper trips; also that all the floaters have gone north to finish up the voyage. The Oriental also brings word that the weather has been ideal for fish curing on the Labrador Coast the past couple of weeks.
