"I was all run down with complaints peculiar to my sex, and I broke out in sores on my body, head, limbs and hands, and my hair all came out. I was ander the doctor's treatment a long time without benefit. They called my trouble eczema. Finally I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after I had used three or four bottles I found I was improving. I kept on until I had taken several more bottles and the sores and itching have disappeared and my hair has grown out." MRS. J. G. BROWN, Brantford, Ontario.

"I was all run down and had no appetite. I had a tired feeling all the time. I was advised to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I did so and it benefited me so much that I would not be without it." MRS. G. I. BURNETT, Central Norton, N. B.

Ham-brough, who was connected with a leading banking house of London and New York, and who was heir to a large state upon coming of age, was discovered dead, with gunshot wounds in the back of the head, in the preserves of an estate in Scotland which Monson, the young man's tutor, had left London to purchase for the latter. It developed that the pellets which killed the lieutenant were from Monson's gun, and the tutor explained that after they had left the house at Ardlamont to go shooting they had exchanged guns. The tutor was even-tually arrested and tried for murder, as it was shown that the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, a short time previous to Hambrough's death, issued to Monson two policies for $50,000 each upon the lieutenant's life, in which insurance Mrs. Monson was the beneficiary. It was also demonstrated that Monson negotiated with other companies for insurance, with Mrs. Monson as beneficiary, upon the life of Lieut. Hambrough, the whole amount aggregating more than half a million dollars.

THE SALE OF WALES' YACHT. From the comments heard in the clubs it is not likely that Mr. John Lawson Johnstone, of Kingwood, Kent, the principal director of a well-known and largely-advertised company, who turns out to be the purchaser of the Prince of Wales' famous racing cutter Britannia, will be received with open arms in yachting circles. In fact, it is rumored that the prince sold the yacht on the express condition that the purchaser should not race here, and that she is to be rigged as a cruiser. In an interview Mr. Johnstone said: "I do not feel at liberty to state the sum I paid for her. I may tell you, how-ever, that I did not get her cheap. I paid a very substantial sum, but should not care to run the risk of incurring his royal highness' displeasure by making it public." Mr. Johnstone also told the interviewer how he had recently paid £750 for a bed upon which Prince Charles slept before the battle of Culloden. This he offered to present to Queen Victoria, who replied that only on one or two occasions had she accepted presents from a commoner, and she did not see her way clear to accept the bed. "However, it was a very pleasant letter; very pleasant," said Mr. Johnstone, who added that the Duke of Argyll had promised to come and sleep in the bed so soon as the matter could be arranged. The newspapers jeer at the inappropriateness of the selection, as the Campbells, of which clan the Duke of Argyll is the market, chiefly a result of heavy offerings; quite a few remained unsold at the close of the day; common cattle THEATRICAL.

Mrs. James Brown Potter does not speak in the most complimentary terms of the Australian managers, under whose direction she was introduced to London as a star. The season of eight weeks at the Duke of York's Theater, for which the contract with Mrs. Potter and Mr. Bellew were engaged, closes tonight, and the American actress will rest in London for the winter, after years of hard work. While "Francillon," which was the play Mrs. Potter appeared in here, has not attracted great houses, the quality of the audience has been of the best. "I did not expect to set the Thames on fire when I came to London," Mrs. Potter said; "but I am greatly gratified by my success. Ten years ago, when I entered the profession, I determined to achieve a of the United States, and I think I may say without boasting that I have in some measure succeeded."

Grand Trunk Elevator and a Quantity of Grain Destroyed.

Schooner Badly Damaged-Two Tugs Scuttled and Sunk-Change in Wind Prevented a General Sweep of Sailing Craft and Other Property.

G. N. W. Special to Advertiser. Goderich, Ont., Nov. 6 .- Fire broke out last night in the Grand Trunk elevator, completely destroying it, along with a large quantity of grain. The fire communicated with the lumber yard of N. Dyment, of Barrie, and suming Dyment's yard and the lumber belonging to the yard of Wm. Rutson, of Goderich. A gale was blowing at the time, and but for a change in the wind the probabilities are that a number of other buildings, lumber scows and sailing craft would have been destroyed, as they were hemmed in and could not get through the burning lumber floating in the harbor.

As it was, the schooner Todman was badly damaged, her masts and rigging being destroyed and her hull scorched. The tug Evelyn made her way out with difficulty, and is safe. Two tugs are scuttled and sunk. The fire extended for 300 yards along Circle City Miners Had Their Own Ideas as to a Collector's Powers.

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 6.-George W. It was only a contract marriage, but it took with the miners, and since then other parties who wanted to get married were willing to do so by the same formula, and the business proved quite remunerative. Yukon miners have a decisive way of treating those who have proved dis-honest. When a man is charged with stealing, the charge is carefully inquired into by a miners' committee. If the guilt of the man is proved he is not sent to jail or strung up. Instead, he is furnished with an outfit sufficient to carry him out of the country, and told to go and never come back. He never returns. There has been no stealing at the mines. One could leave his sack of dust outside his cabin with security, but now that the rush has commenced, bringing all manner of

Do You Wish to Dye a Fast and Everlasting Black?

It is only within the last few years that it has been possible for an inexperienced person to dye a black that would not crock, fade or wash out. Even blacks dyed by city steam dyeing establishments were seldom reliable and fast.

The advent of three Diamond Fast Blacks—for wool, for cotton, and for slik and feathers—has changed all this. With a ten cent package of one of the Diamond Dye Fast Blacks the first trial has given perfect success. directions on the packages are so plain and simple that even a child can get better results than the experienced dyer of a few years ago. Success in home dyeing is secured only when the Diamond Dyes are used. Do not be persuaded by any dealer to buy soap grease or imitation package dyes that have no past record to recommend them. The Diamond Dyes are the only warranted colors for domestic dyeing.
