WHOLE NO. 9998

A Sick Sovereign.

The Czar's Condition Growing Very Serious.

Prof. Leyden, of Berlin, Summoned to the Emperor's Bedside.

China's War Chest as Empty as the Exchequer.

Indications that an Uprising May Not Be Far Distant.

Reports of Rioting in Rio Janeiro Denied—Fight Between Turks and Armenians.

Evacuated Corea.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—It is reported that the Chinese troops have evacuated Corea and are massed 50 miles west of the Yalu River.

No Riots in Rio.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—The Brazilian legation here has received information that the reports of riots at Rio de Janeiro are unfounded.

To Fight the Kaffirs.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—A dispatch from Delagoa Bay says that the Governor, at the head of 300 white and 6,000 native allies, will take the field against the Kaffirs surrounding Lourenço Marques.

The Wrecked Dorunda—Loss, $1,100,000.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—The value of the cargo of the British steamer Dorunda, which went ashore at Peniche yesterday, is $220,000. Four cases containing $22,000 in sovereigns were recovered from the wreck today.

Turk vs. Armenian.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 28.—News has just been given out here of a serious fight at Tekat on Sept. 1, between Armenians and Turkish officials and gendarmes. The Armenians were searching for houses for an Armenian fugitive from justice and were resisted by the Armenians, who assembled in force and attacked the gendarmes. In the ensuing fight several Armenians were killed.

Moderation Counseled.

BUDA PEST, Sept. 28.—Cardinal Vaszary, Primate of Hungary, at a conference of bishops here today, read a letter from the Pope instructing the Hungarian hierarchy to use their efforts with the House of Magnates to influence a modification of the bill dealing with the religion of children of mixed marriages. The letter says the agitation must be in perfectly legal form. The letter also counsels the episcopate to tolerate without opposition the remaining ecclesiastical reforms of the Hungarian Government.

Out of Ammunition.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—The Pall Mall Gazette publishes a letter from Shanghai, dated Aug. 17, saying the Chinese navy cannot fight because the ships have only about twelve rounds of ammunition per ship, the regular supply of ammunition having been sold by the captains of the Chinese warships. The correspondent adds that one of his ship's Armstrong guns, and went to sea one gun short.

Premiums for Japanese Heads.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Japanese barbarism marks the course of the Chinese army. The Chinese Taoist of Formosa offered a prize for Japanese heads. Coreans have been enlisted and three Japanese heads transacted on spears are reported to grace the walls of Ping Yang, and the heads of five of their foes were nailed to gates of Whang Ju by Chinese. The North China Daily News also says that Chinese soldiers at several camps have been threatening lady missionaries with insult, and trouble may ensue very shortly.

The Japs Mean Business.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—A dispatch to the Daily News from Yokohama says there is a general public desire in Japan to prosecute the war against China in defiance of all obstacles, and a general desire that the Government make a desperate attack upon Peking. The Japanese Parliament will at once vote war credits regardless of party opinions.

Reinforcements are continually departing from Yokohama, Tokio, and other places in Japan, but their destination is not known.

The Czar a Sick Man.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 28.—Prof. Leyden, the eminent physician, of Berlin, has been summoned from that city to Spala, and will arrive there early next week. The doctors attending the Czar fear that his Majesty's journey to the Crimea must be postponed, as they regard his condition as very serious. His breathing is very painful.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times confirms the report that the Czar's condition is considered very serious and that Dr. Leyden, of Berlin, has been summoned to his bedside.

Europeans in the Chinese Army.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—A number of Europeans in the Chinese army have left Canton and come down to Hong Kong in order to serve the Imperial Government in the war against Japan. Several of these were heard to be torpedo gunners in the British navy and are probably intended for similar work in the Chinese fleet. They are promised 150 taels a month during the war and after the conflict to be reinstated in the Chinese service if alive. If killed their next of kin will receive four years' full pay, 5,400 taels, as compensation, guaranteed by the Inspector-General. This is considered ridiculously cheap. The Japanese have stringent orders to "pot and pot" every one of them.

Cruisers Better Than Ironclads.

VIENNA, Sept. 28.—The Neue Presse publishes a report of an interview with Baron Von Steke De Ehrenstein, the chief official of the Austrian navy, who has served actively as commander of the warships Ferdinand, Max and Liess, and in regard to the recent naval battle between the Chinese and Japanese fleet said: "The great loss in the Yalu engagement, as far as can be judged, is that the cruisers were well able to hold their own against the large and unwieldy ironclads. This fact has opened the eyes of the naval powers and induced them to give greater attention to the construction of cruisers in the future."

Talk of Revolution in China.

VIENNA, Sept. 28.—The Politische Correspondenz says the following information has reached St. Petersburg from China and attracts the serious attention of the Government: "The intense excitement in all the provinces of China and the dissatisfaction of the highest officials in the empire have reached points which indicate a probable movement against the reigning dynasty. The spirit animating the regular army is satisfactory, but the discipline has been much relaxed. The irregular troops upon which the Government must now rely are committing great and frequent excesses everywhere. The war chest is as empty as the state exchequer, and the Government has the greatest difficulty in purchasing the bare necessities for the troops in the field."

The Chinese Reverses.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Capt. Lang, a former director on the Chinese navy and supervisor of the erection of many Chinese forts, said in an interview today in regard to the Chinese reverses: "The inherent conservatism and apathy concerning everything outside of China and the want of esprit du corps have had their natural results. As a matter of fact, the Chinese never expect to have to fight, and their supreme contempt of Japan is a predominant trait with them. Their seamen are as brave as could be wished, but they have not the slightest patriotism. Their officers are regardless of almost everything but personal advantage, and have always wanted to evade drill and remain ashore. They have hate of Europeans and European ideas, and are insufferably obstinate and conceited. There are admitted exceptions to this rule, however, especially in the case of Admiral Ting, who is conspicuously a brave and capable officer, whose lead could safely be followed anywhere. I cannot understand the alleged superiority of the Japanese quick-firing guns. The four vessels of the Ching Yuen class were admirably equipped, and I am not disposed in the light of the present information to give the Japanese the credit they claim." Capt. Lang ascribed the defeat of the Chinese, if they have been defeated, to the fact of their having lapsed from their high standard of efficiency since 1890. The only Europeans now in service in the Chinese fleet, he said, are acting in subordinate capacities. In conclusion, he reaffirmed his belief that the Chinese had been the victors.

Cable Flashes.

The latest counting of votes in the Norwegian elections show that the Left have been victorious. The Left desires a separation between Norway and Sweden.

The Czar's visit to a telegram to Darmstadt, postponing his visit to his fiancée, Princess Alix of Hesse, in order that he may accompany the Czar to Livadia.

The London Chronicle's Rome correspondent says the Pope has called Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore, to Rome, his Holiness being desirous of again seeing the American cardinal before he dies.

IN THE COURTS.

Assault Cases at Woodstock—Robert Perry's Sentence—A Counter-felony Convicted.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Sept. 28.—In the assizes here today the case against David Tree and James King for criminal assault was withdrawn from the jury by Mr. Justice Robertson, and a verdict of not guilty entered on the evidence of the girl herself. The same thing was done in the case against John Wallace and William Murry, for similar offenses. The case of Adams vs. Shaw was arranged between the parties out of court. Mackey Jones, the last witness on the list, was put over to the non-jury sittings here next month. Robert Perry, convicted of having improper relations with a girl under 14, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and to two years in the reformatory.

This closed the business of the court.

COUNTERFEIT COIN. WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 28.—John Ryan, the counterfeit, is in the Sandwich jail, awaiting sentence, which will be imposed next Tuesday morning. Ryan was convicted on two counts drawn against him, one for having in his possession counterfeit coins, and another for having in his room the counterfeit coins. On the first count he can receive three years, and on the second fourteen years' imprisonment.

TELEGRAPHIC DOTS.

SAVED FROM THE CALLOWS.

McWhirrell's Death Sentence Commuted.

His Punishment Changed to Life Imprisonment.

OTTAWA, Sept. 28.—The case of McWhirrell has at last been disposed of by the Cabinet, and the result is that the death sentence has been commuted to one of imprisonment for life. The decision was arrived at late this afternoon, so that the information will not be officially forwarded to Sheriff Boddy, of Brampton, by the Under Secretary of State until tomorrow morning. T. C. Robinson, counsel for the prisoner, has, however, telegraphed the sheriff and also MacWhirrell, as to the decision.

Mr. Robinson is highly pleased with the day's work at the capital, and leaves tonight for Toronto.

HOW THE PRISONER RECEIVED THE NEWS. BRAMPTON, Sept. 28.—Sheriff Boddy received a telegram from the Department of Justice this evening notifying him that MacWhirrell's sentence had been commuted to life imprisonment. He at once called upon Rev. Mr. Clark, who had been visiting the prisoner lately, to accompany him to the jail to acquaint MacWhirrell with the decision of the Minister of Justice. On entering the corridor where the prisoner sat the deputy sheriff said, "Well Mac, we have brought you the news." Upon this the prisoner's face became of an ashen hue. Not a word was spoken as Mr. Duncan handed him the message. When he had grasped the meaning he jumped four feet straight into the air, and, waving the telegraph blank above his head, cried: "Hurrah! hurrah!"

After congratulating him upon his narrow escape and shaking hands the visitors quietly withdrew. The whole community are pleased with the turn the affair has taken.

DAN ISN'T DEAD.

Although His Funeral Cost Many Tears and $160 in Cash.

DETROIT, Sept. 28.—Daniel Sullivan, of 291 Cherry street, familiarly known as "Boiler Dan," because he was completely identified with his trade of boiler-making, disappeared from his home over a week ago. Last Monday afternoon Frederick Strasser, who had a butcher shop at the corner of Michigan avenue and Twelfth street, received from Chicago by telegraph the following message:

"Daniel Sullivan dead. Notify relatives. Wire instructions. H. M. Rolston."

"Undertaker."

There could be no doubt that the sending of the dispatch to Mr. Strasser instead of directly to the relatives was due to the delicate consideration of some friend of Dan's who had formerly lived in Detroit. In no other way could the fact be ascertained.

In addition to this the circumstances furnished assurance that the dead body was Dan's.

Dan's brother Michael is by no means wealthy, so he did not go to Chicago, but telegraphed for information as to what he would do in order to bring the body to Detroit, and he received this reply:

"Telegraph me $71, as follows: Coffin, $20; embalming, $15; box, $5; clothes, $10; conveyance, $5; expressage, $15 50. H. M. Rolston."

The body was received at the Michigan Central depot Wednesday morning by the relatives and an undertaker. The face had been badly crushed, but the family believed they recognized the remains of Dan. The body was therefore removed to the family residence and a well-attended wake was held, followed by the funeral which took place yesterday from St. Vincent's Church.

After the mass funeral procession—and it was a long one and a credit to Dan's friends—went on to St. Vincent's cemetery, and there the casket with its precious contents was buried in the family lot.

THE RESURRECTION. Yesterday afternoon a hackman whom few people knew by any name but that of "Dick," was sitting on his cab near the city hall when he saw Moses Kiley approaching. Moses and Dan had been close friends.

"Hello, Moses!" cried Dick, "you planted your old side partner this morning."

"What side partner?" asked Moses.

"Why, Dan, of course; Dan Sullivan."

"Not much, you didn't," said Moses. "I had some with him up at the works a short time ago."

"At the works?" gasped Dick.

"At the works," repeated Moses. At the house of correction. He was sent up a week ago."

Dick satisfied himself that Moses was not joking, and off he posted to tell Miss Sullivan, who telephoned to the house of correction and found that what Moses said was true.

Dan's brother Michael, with Miss Sullivan and one of Dan's pall-bearers, then rushed off to the House of Correction. They asked that the prisoner Daniel Sullivan be shown to them, and when the man was brought to the visitors' room they recognized with one accord that he was the Dan.

But a few moments were required to learn how he had come there. He had made himself helpless with drink, he had been arrested, and Justice Sellers had sent him up in default of a $3 fine.

"But when I was in the Police Court, after the judge fined me," he said, "I asked Downey, the patrolman, to let Jerry or you, Michael, know where I was, so that the fine could be paid and I could go home. Downey said he'd do so, and I supposed he had. I thought you had made up your minds to leave me here."

"None of us ever heard a word from Downey," said Michael.

"Certainly not," asserted Mr. Phelan. "Otherwise we wouldn't have buried you by proxy this morning."

And Dan had to be told the story of his funeral.

A Telegraph Operator at 8. DETROIT, Sept. 28.—George J. Carroll, manager of the Detroit telephone exchange, died at his residence here this morning, after fourteen months' illness. Mr. Carroll had been for the past twelve years identified with the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

BROWN'S MAMMOTH LIVERY.

Sound Horses and Stylish Turnouts—Ring Up 428.

The driving public of London, who for so many years became accustomed to the turnouts of Marshall's well-known livery, will be pleased to hear that establishment has passed into the hands of such a capable man as Mr. H. B. Brown, formerly of Godrich. This stable has no superiors in point of equipment in Ontario. The horses are sound and the trappings and carriages of the very best order.

Mr. Brown's turnouts are stylish and up to date in every particular. He makes a specialty of the hack and corps trade, and a telephone call to 428 will receive prompt attention at any time during the day or night. Only reliable drivers are employed. Mr. Brown contemplates in the near future the opening of a driving and riding class. His enterprise in this line will doubtless be fittingly recognized. The address is Marshall's old stand—191 Dundas street, south side, between Richmond and Clarence. Telephone 438.
