HANDSOME SURVEY

Knott & Sangster Are Now Offering Carfrae Crescent For Sale.

Messrs, Knott & Sangster, the real estate dealers, have opened a new survey south of the traction company's new bridge, South London. The new survey, which will be known as Carfrae Crescent, runs on each side of the traction line between Grand avenue and the Thames. Carfrae Crescent is made up of 37 choice, large lots, several of which have already been sold. Contracts have been let for two handsome two-story red brick residences, which will add materially to the value of the property. The lots are selling at from $6 to $12 50 per foot. It is the closest survey to the city hall, the traction company having agreed to build a footpath on its bridge and trestlework at the foot of Richmond street.

The place is a natural park. Many full-grown trees are on the lots. Carfrae Crescent is also bounded by the Thames. The river is particularly beautiful at this point, and its banks would make an ideal park. The city council has agreed to lay new cement sidewalks on the main street, which is a continuation of Carfrae street. The street makes sharp angle at the river bank, opening out on Grand avenue. City water mains will supply th crescent with spring water.

The company are building drains through the streets of the survey. With all its advantages Carfrae Crescent is bound to make a "hit" with Londoners.

MUCH BUILDING GOING ON IN SOUTH LONDON

Condition of Money Market Does Not Affect Suburbanites.

Despite the condition of the money market, South London is experiencing a big building boom. Residences, mostly cottages, are being built all through the district. On some streets rows of houses are being erected, while single houses are to be seen everywhere. The houses are of a good class. mostly brick, and are nearly all being built for personal use.

Things are far more brisk in the building trades in South London than in any other section of the city. There are now about 75 houses

With the Sewer Being Put Down or Elmwood Avenue.

The contractor for the Elmwood avenue sewer is having his troubles The roadway is of clay, and it necessary to pick it all before it can be shoveled out of the trench. The ground is full of huge rocks which have to be removed before any thing can be done. Some of these stones require eight or ten men to dislodge them.

They are very awkward to handle, in a narrow trench, and being embedded in clay are almost impossible to move.

The contractor has been working or the sewer now for about three weeks, and has only been able to complete the drain from Ridout street to Marley Place, a short block.
